To The Class of 1935

I am delighted by the invitation to say something upon the occasion of your twenty-fifth reunion. As you well recognize, it is a milestone in life; but milestones should not be taken too seriously, only soberly. Since this milestone is being reached at the scene of your old associations it should be passed without difficulty.

My recollections of the Class of 1935 are cheerful ones. If you were a problem class, I have long since forgotten it. What class isn't?

As a firm believer in the values for which a Princeton education stands and which, I think, she succeeds in transmitting to a commendable degree, I suggest that when you return home after your reunion (you'll be too busy during it to philosophize very much) you sit down and think about why you came to Princeton, what your experience here meant to you, and what you took away that has endured. It is difficult to appraise a college education until years afterwards; some never interrupt the pressures of daily life to consider them. By this process you will renew your conceptual scheme of life, and thereby more effectively appraise where you have come and where you are going.

Please note that I have suggested that you make this an order of business after your reunion. In the meantime rest assured that everyone will be glad to see you back and will gain new inspiration from the loyalty which your presence expresses. The reward of a teacher, or even a college president, is in the lives of his students.

Accept my good wishes for a successful reunion in every sense of the term.

Harold Dodds

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1935:

With the approach of Reunions, and with the designation of the Class of 1935 as the "Honor Class" of 1960, I welcome the opportunity to send each of you a warm word of greeting.

As one year leads into the next, Reunions come to have more and more meaning—not only for all of you returning to the campus but also for those of us who are privileged to welcome you "back". These pleasant gatherings, linking Princeton Past and Princeton Future, make it possible for us to renew and strengthen valued friendships and associations and to consider with you Princeton's continuing development as a vital force in American higher education.

The returning members of '35 will have a chance to inspect at first hand the physical changes which have taken place on the campus over the years as well as gradual implementation of the objectives of "53 Million for Princeton," including Wilcox Hall, the new dormitories, the Moffett Biological Laboratory, athletic facilities, and the projections for the years ahead. I only regret that every member of the Class can't be here to share this experience and deepen their sense of the effort necessary to meet the challenges which confront Princeton in our times.

I would be remiss indeed if I didn't express to the entire membership of 1935 our abiding gratitude for all you are doing for Princeton, individually as Alumni and collectively as an outstanding Princeton Class. Such understanding support is a source of inspiration for all of us and enables us to look to the oncoming decades with reasoned confidence.

With all good wishes.

Sincerely,

Robert F. Goheen

President's Message

The Class of 1935! To many, this phrase is meaningless. To Princetonians, it denotes our Class. To us, as members of this Class, it recalls cherished memories of undergraduate years together, the launching of careers in a great depression, sacrifices as comrades-in-arms in the "Nation's Service," and the mellowing of friendships through the intervening years.

The Twenty-fifth Reunion of the Class of 1935! This phrase bespeaks the future—the greatest and the best Reunion which the Class may ever have. It will be a time for renewing old friendships, enjoying the stimulus and freedom of a weekend together in Princeton and remembering that a full quarter of a century has elapsed since the lights on Nassau Hall reading "1935" were forever dimmed.

To those members of the Class of 1935 who will not be in Princeton with us, our greetings and best wishes. To those who will again share the fellowship of their classmates, salutations.

Julian A. Gregory

THE CLASS OF 1935 AWARD WINNERS

Established in 1952, the Class of 1935 Award is presented annually to one or more members of the Class who have achieved distinction in the field of their choosing.

Award winners to date, in order of presentation, have been:

Richard Hallock Davis
Donald Clive Stuart, Jr.
Henry Lee Smith
William Sellers Cox
William Frederick Oliver, Jr.
Donald Ross Hamilton
James Peter Williams, III
James Tolman Pyle
John VanderHorst
Richard Ralston Stout
John Lewis Smith, Jr.

FIGURES AND FACTS

IN BRIEF

Ten years ago our 15th Yearbook told how we were doing in 1950. This section of the 25-Year Record brings us up to date from the confidential questionnaires sent in by a remarkably high 75.1% of the class, 409 men.

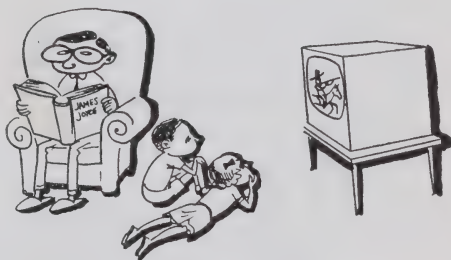

The 1950's were good years for most of us. Comparing ourselves to a previous generation, we consider ourselves somewhat better off and a little more content than our fathers were at our age. Seven out of ten rate ourselves happier today than when we were at Princeton and six of ten feel we have made the occupational progress we should have since college. Our votes for those who have been most successful in their fields so far are widespread: Don Hamilton (Grad School), Walker Stevenson (Alumni affairs), Toly Pyle (Aviation control), Roger Firestone (Business), Bill Oliver (Business), Joe Hazen (Editing), Dick Stout (State government), Jack Vander Horst (Bishop), Sam Welles (Editing), Jack Brown (Yachting and Business) are the Top Ten.

On May 9, 1960, the class birthday, we averaged 47 years, an age that some present-day authorities label the start of the middle years. At least half of us can look forward to being around for the fiftieth reunion, barring a nuclear Armageddon.

Who's Who in America lists 9% of us. Our church-going exceeds our theater and opera-going by a big margin. We have little time for television and read only 7 to 10 non-business books last year. We regularly read 5 magazines. We're drinking more but smoking less than in 1935.

Since 1950, two-thirds of us have sired another child, for a total now nearing three for those with children.

An individual house in the suburbs is our common habitat. Our two-car garage is full for 59%, and 11% more need room for a third car. Most of us have other conveniences such as a clothes dryer, food freezer and dishwasher. Ninety-one percent have a TV set and 1 in 4 a boat. Two-thirds have at least a cleaning woman but only 1 in 4 has a full-time maid. Four in 10 have some air conditioning. All this bespeaks a substantial degree of prosperity (or indebtedness).

Most of us increased our earnings considerably during the 1950's. Yet half of us find it at least moderately tough to live within our means. If we had a little more money, 2 out of 5 of us would invest in more securities.

We don't consider ourselves especially active in community affairs even though we devote about an evening a week to them. We belong to an average of two clubs and half of us are board members of such organizations as hospitals, foundations, libraries, community chests and funds.

Our health is not a major concern. No one nominates himself as in poor health and 6 of 10 consider their health excellent. Eighty-three percent have gained weight since Princeton, while 8% weigh less. The net gain is 5.4 tons. More meaningfully expressed, we've gained on the average 18 pounds and balance out at 172. One in 8 has been to a psychiatrist or psychoanalyst, but only 2% at most are regular users of tranquilizers or sleeping pills. One in 5 uses them occasionally and at least 3 out of 4 say, "Never touch." Topside

*Dr. '35 (on chair) is healthy. So is

we're sparser and what's left is grayer. Almost half admit to some thinning out and 4 out of 10 say the pigment is departing.

Our political tendencies have continued to grow more Republican with age--81% now against 72% in 1950 and 67% in senior year. One in 7 has actually been elected to office, mostly at the local level, and 22% say they have been influential in electing someone. Our attitude toward politics has been one of increasing interest, we say.

Family, wife, children are the source of our greatest satisfactions. Job success, ability to help others, and work for a church are high on our lists. One man notes "four grandchildren and fifteen quarter horses" as the things that keep him going.

A good many bothersome raindrops fall on our everyday lives. Traffic and commuting problems, "my wife," the telephone, "too little time," people, and getting up in the morning are the things that seem to annoy us most.

Princeton still rates high with us. Nine out of 10 would go again. We count our Princeton experience a considerable and significant influence on our growth. For over half, one or more of our best friends are members of '35. Seventy-five percent vote approvingly that present admissions policies are of about the right degree of difficulty.

Now for some details:

JOBS AND DOLLARS

Most of us left college to test out the depression. But many went right on to graduate schools. A total of 39% won graduate degrees, half of them lawyers. Nine percent of the class became M.D.'s, 1% dentists, 5% Ph.D.'s, 4% M.B.A.'s, and 9% assorted other degrees. Another 27% of us have taken university-level courses not leading to degrees, so that in total 63% have taken graduate courses.

Once out in the world we shopped around in our search for the right slot to fill. One-fourth are still with the same company or organization while 12% have worked at 6 or more jobs. Seventeen percent admit to being fired at least once—up from 10% in our 1950 survey.

In looking at class incomes we have investigated several factors that might affect the totals. Aside from the controlling effect of the kind of work we do, the number of jobs people have had is the only factor that shows really marked differences. This is a curious finding for it is well known in some areas—advertising, for instance—that job jumping is often the direct route to higher income.

Our job pattern related to earned income:

	Median Income	% of Class
People with one job .....	$25,000	24%
Two jobs .....	20,000	20
Three jobs .....	18,000	18
Four jobs .....	15,000	15
Five jobs .....	15,000	11
Six jobs .....	14,000	5
More than 6 jobs .....	12,500	7

The evidence is clear that the big earners in the class are mainly those who have stayed with one or two jobs. Three out of four of the $50,000-and-over earners are in this category. Only 14% of these high incomes are earned by men with 5 or more jobs though they represent 23% of the class. Conversely, this group comprises 36% of the lower incomes, those below $8,000. The high-income, one-or-two-job men are 44% of the total and hold only 14% of the below-$8,000 jobs.

There are some known facts that help explain these findings. Many of our top incomes are in professions like law and medicine where self-employment, one job, is common practice. Many who went into family businesses are also in top brackets. At the other end are the smaller number who changed their whole pattern of life after the war (62% were in the armed forces) and may have had more difficulty settling into the job that suited them.

For certain occupational fields we have comparisons with median incomes of P'35 ten years ago, as reported in our 1950 book. The median is considered nowadays a sounder statistic on income studies than the familiar average which can be distorted by a few large incomes. The median is the figure in the middle: half have incomes higher, half lower.

Earned Income Increases Since 1950

	% Increase	% of Class Now
Banking and Finance .....	186%	10%
Insurance .....	186	3
Medicine .....	184	6
Education .....	175	5
Law .....	153	13
Government .....	127	4
Manufacturing .....	111	11
Marketing and Merchandising ....	111	6
Sales .....	100	9
Advertising, Public Relations ....	100	4
Engineering .....	95	6
Publishing .....	92	4
Farming and Ranching .....	25	2

Our bankers, insurance and medical men have had the greatest percentage gains in income.

Two out of 5 classmates are professionals. The doctors, lawyers, ministers, professors, accountants, engineers, editors, architects, etc., account for 40% of our occupations.

And 88% have some kind of title, which usually means that someone looks to us as "the boss." One in 6, 17%, can call himself an entrepreneur as the president, board chairman, partner, or proprietor of his organization. Fourteen percent, 1 in 7, are vice-presidents. Ten percent are entitled manager, 9% director, 6% assistant director or manager, 9% doctor (M.D., D.D.S., Ph.D.), 9% senior executive or officer, 3% junior executive or officer, 5% business department head, 4% academic department head or professor, and 2% superintendent.

Mr. '35 is prospering, but so are his creditors.

Our jump in earnings in the last 10 years is the highest we have found for a 25th class. It is $4,500 above '34 at its 25th last year.

The average U. S. household last year had $5,300 income; 96% of the class makes more than that. Here is the distribution:

Earned Income

	% of Class
Under $5,000 .....	4
$6,000-$8,000 .....	11
$8,000-$12,500 .....	16
$15,000 .....	17
$20,000 .....	20 - median
$25,000 .....	15
$35,000 .....	9
$50,000 .....	6
$75,000 .....	1
$100,000 plus .....	1

Income other than earnings adds another $4,500 to our median total, so that the average member of the class has a total of $24,500 to tell the Collector of Internal Revenue about on the Ides of April. This is $3,500 above '34 and $2,500 above '32 at their 25th reunions.

The additional sum includes dividends and wife's income and breaks down like this:

Other Income
	% of Class		% of Class
Under $1,000 .....	27	$20,000 .....	4
$2,000 .....	14	$25,000 .....	4
$3,000 .....	6	$35,000 .....	6
$4,000 - median .....	6	$50,000 .....	3
$5,000 .....	6	$75,000 .....	3
$6,000 - $8,000 .....	6	$100,000 .....	0.5
$10,000 .....	7	Over $200,000 .....	0.5
$10,000 - $15,000 ....	7

A cross-check of the $1,000 to $5,000 earners in relation to additional income gives a measure of relief to one who wonders how they get along. All but 4 of them have $3,000 or more coming in from other sources. Half, in fact, have $20,000 or more addition. Their median total income is $23,000. They do better in total income than the next three groups all the way up to those who earn $15,000. This still leaves a sizeable 20 men who report total incomes below $8,000.

While large outside incomes are distributed up and down the income scale, the biggest ones coincide with large earned incomes and result in 4% of the class being in a top tax bracket with total incomes over $100,000.

WHO'S WHO

The average American family head has 1 chance in 1,000 of becoming one of the 54,000 listings in Who's Who in America. The average member of '35 has a 100 times better chance. Nine percent of us are already in, the record shows. This survey asked everybody to select a sort of Who's Who in '35, those we consider to be most successful so far in their respective fields. Listed here with the votes are the 23 men of some distinction who were mentioned by at least 2 people. If some make the list by virtue of self-selection, at least they may be sure one other person voted for them.

Don Hamilton, 33 votes
Walker Stevenson, 25
Toly Pyle, 23
Roger Firestone, 19
Bill Oliver, 17
Joe Hazen, 10
Dick Stout, 9

Jack Vander Horst, 7
Sam Welles, 7
Jack Brown, 6
Alex Cochran, 5
Pete Williams, 5
Henry Lee Smith, 4
Bobby Taylor, 4

Dick Davis, 3
 Tom Flynn, 3
 Henry Patton, 3
 Jack Lewis Smith, 3
 Bill Cox, 2

Clarence Dauphinot, 2
 Jack Maloney, 2
 Jack Propst, 2
 Forty others got 1 vote each

Five of the 23 are called Jack. The significance is obscure.

"Me" and "I have" each got 1 vote. And Frank Pace, Princeton '33, amassed 3 votes. The tabulators say that 2 of the 3 Pace votes were with us only for one year in college.

Well over half of us feel we have made the occupational progress we should have since leaving college. "Definitely so," say 18%; "probably so," say 42%. The remaining 4 out of 10 split between "probably not," 22%, and a flat "no," 18%. We still have 15 to 20 years of occupational hazards ahead of us to supply a final answer to the question.

FAMILY AND ACTIVITY

We are about as married as we can be. Ninety-five percent report it presently. Bachelors number 5%, and there is a fraction of 1% separated from their wives.

Divorced members total 10%, though 2% have had more than one divorce. One man has had three. Widowers who have remarried total 2%. Our divorce rate is 1.5% higher than the Class of 1934 reported last year. For all college graduates age 40-49, a Time survey reported 8% had been divorced. College men in general are considerably below the national average in this respect.

Mr. and Mrs. '35 are true to each other and to Mendel's law.

We and our wives have more than reproduced ourselves, and high time too, for our production rate is diminishing. Counting the whole class, we have 2.3 children per man, about the same as '32 and '34. There are 2.4 children per married man and 2.6 children for the 92% of those married who have children. The typical family has three children. The composition of families with children:

Families with one child . . . . .	12%
two children ..	32
three children .	34
four children ..	17
five children ..	3
six children ...	1
Seven or more children	1	(including Paul Fitting with 11)

No check was made on grandchildren. About 2% to 3% are grandfathers as an educated guess, based on the write-ins, and the age of our oldest children.

In Holder Court at Reunion in June it could look like a convention of teen-agers. Our youngsters from 13 to 19 at the moment are 48% of our total offspring and actually exceed in number the members of the class—606 teens; about 580 classmates. Our wives were at their most productive in the 1940's. Almost two-thirds (65%) of our present offspring arrived in that decade and most of them are in their teens right now. Nineteen forty-four, '47 and '48 appear to have been the big years. Since 1956 our birth rate has gone down to 1% a year—just 8 children in 1959. There are at least 8 sets of twins.

FATHER, OR SON?

Who had it better, you or your father?

We tried to estimate how our material situation and our state of mind compare with those of our fathers when they were our age. Though this is crystal gazing through a rear-view mirror, these searching questions were answered by all but 15 people. Somewhat better off, a little more content is the sum of our opinion, as follows:

I am much better off	22%	} 46%	I am much more content	17%	} 34%
I am somewhat better off	24		I am somewhat more content	17
About the same	19		About the same	39
He was somewhat better off	18	} 35%	He was somewhat more content	13	} 27%
He was much better off	17		He was much more content	14
	100%			100%

The fathers had no opportunity to affirm or deny, but let the sons state the reasons as they see them. These are a random selection, except for eliminating similar comments:

... He was more content

"His life was much less hectic. Fewer demands on his time."

"The pace of life was slower, easier, less competitive in his time."

"His outlook was more limited; he was less ambitious."

"Dad had no unions to deal with."

"Because that's the kind of person he was."

"He had more success in business."

"He was much better off materially and smuggler by nature."

"Pressure of times was not as great."

"Had more sense and wasn't so damned lazy."

"No income tax—less tension."

"Lower taxes and cost of living. Ample domestic help."

"Times were more certain and he had more family interests."

"He enjoyed less government business intervention and less competition, lower taxes, better labor atmosphere."

* * * * *

... I am more content

"He was a widower bringing up two sons. I have a wonderful wife." (And this classmate has five children.)

"Not so many worries, real and imagined."

"He owned his business and worked 16-18 hours a day. I am an employee and don't know any better."

"Not as much economic pressure on me."

"Earnings are about the same (adjusted dollars) but I inherited more."

"Contented and adjusted family life to greater degree."

"My health is better and I own part of business. He was salaried."

"My father was hit by the depression and on his way to becoming an alcoholic."

"Father and mother were incompatible."

"At my age, father had lost his health, his wife, two of his three children and his business. I have all of these and have lost none."

"My standard of living is better. I have church affiliation."

"At my age my father was in the midst of the depression."

"He did not have the security I have."

"He was an overworked doctor."

"I don't have to worry about me."

* * * * *

... About the same (only a few of these wrote in comments)

"I'm happy and so was he."

"Neither of us are or were contented."

"He was better off but a driver. I am more placid."

CIVIC, CHURCH, CULTURE, COMMUNICATIONS

Our civic activities are not very great by our own estimate. In comparison with the average upper-middle class man, they are above average. Only 46% call themselves "active in various community affairs." Yet 57% of us admit that in the average week we devote one evening or about one evening to community and civic activities. Sixteen percent of us spend two or more evenings. Half of us are board members of responsible organizations like "colleges, foundations, hospitals, libraries, community chests and funds." Two men belong to 10 boards each, and one to 13. We are club members, 83% of us, with 2 to 3 clubs the most frequent mentions.

Church-going has picked up since 10 years ago when 20% said they didn't go. Non-goers number 14% now. Twenty-eight percent went 26 to 52 times last year and 11% said "more than 52." Episcopalians remain the leading denomination with 37% members. Then come Presbyterians 22%, Roman Catholics 8%, Congregational 5%, Methodist 3%, and other churches 5%.

Our theater-going average last year was 4 times. Thirteen percent went not at all and 8% watched a dozen or more stage plays. Our opera- and concert-going was in the "once or twice" area with 40% going not at all.

In vivid contrast to the country as a whole we spend very little time viewing television. On the average day 54% watch not at all (24%) or less than one-half hour (34%). Twenty-two percent say "about an hour." The national average figure of 2 to 3 hours is a practice of only 7% of us.

Our magazine reading is above average. We regularly read about 5 a man. In total, 180 different magazines were mentioned. Life and Time are the leaders, with 52% of us naming each. Then come

Saturday Evening Post 26%, New Yorker 23%, Reader's Digest 21%, Sports Illustrated 18%, National Geographic and Newsweek 14%, Fortune, U. S. News, and Business Week, all with 11%. Illustrating the variety of our outside interests are mentions of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, Skin Diver, Investor, Playboy, Farm Journal, Bridge World, Advertising Age, Antiques, World Tennis, Pastoral Psychology, Hi-Fidelity, The Economist, Gourmet, Outboard, Foreign Affairs, Country Life, Chess Life, The Quarter Horse Journal, the Strad, Presbyterian Life, and Missiles and Rockets.

Book reading, of non-business books at least, is not our major spare-time occupation. Almost all of us read such books in 1959 but the average was 7 to 10 non-business books; 12% said they had read 36 or more; 2% said more than 100.

By and large we are a highly communicative group in the latter-day sociological sense.

OTHER HABITS

We may work in a big city, but not many of us live there. Only 1 in 7 is in a city house, while 1 in 10 is in an apartment. Almost 3 out of 4 live in the suburbs or exurbs. An individual suburban house fits 59% of us, with 8% more in a small town, and 7% in a farmhouse. Among the remaining 3% are 1 man who lives on his yacht and 3 who specified, "A modern house in the country."

No matter where we live, 1 in 6 is a non-drinker in an average week. Forty-five percent say they drink much more than at Princeton, 30% say somewhat more, 13% the same, and 12% less. Our drinking per week—all kinds—is a median of 15 drinks. For 8% it ranges from 26 to over 40 at the top of the scale. At the other end of the scale it's none for 16% and less than 4 drinks for 10%. The median of 15 is up only 5 drink from 10 years ago, but non-drinkers have increased from 8% to 16% and the number who say they put away more than at Princeton is up from 44% in 1950 to a total of 75% today. It looks as if somewhat fewer are drinking somewhat more.

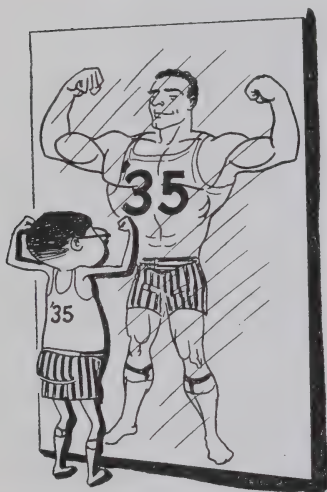

Our drinking is up and our smoking is down in terms of a sharp decrease in the total who smoke. In our senior year questionnaire 75% smoked and 10 years ago the figure was exactly the same. This year 60% say they smoke. The shift is interesting. In the following table less than a pack a day means "light smoker" and pack a day or more means "heavy smoker," compiled from what we now say.

	At Princeton	Now
Non-smoker .....	25%	40%
Light smoker .....	52	23
Heavy smoker .....	23	37
	<hr/> 100%	<hr/> 100%

It seems to be all or nothing with our smoking. Both abstention and chain smoking are up. Analysis of the 9 sub-categories on this question reveals that the largest switch has been from light smoker then to heavy smoker now, 22% of us. One in 10 have gone the hard way from heavy smoker then to non-smoker now.

HEALTHY AND HEAVIER

Nobody considers he's in poor health. Nobody, that is, who answers the anonymous questionnaire. Three percent call our health just fair, 38% fairly good, and 59% say excellent.

Mr. '35 looks in a glass darkly.

The degree to which we dose ourselves with proprietary pills provides a look at an aspect of health on which there are no reliable national comparisons. Very few of us say we are regular users of sleeping pills or tranquillizers—only 1% on the first and 2% on the second. Occasional use is claimed by 22% on sleeping pills, with 13% claiming occasional use of calm-balms. Three-fourths of us say we never use sleeping pills, and 85% say we never use tranquillizers. The drug companies apparently are getting along satisfactorily with only minor help from Princeton '35.

Psychiatrists and psychoanalysts have lent an ear to 1 in 8 classmates—13% to be exact. A close (and presumably unrelated) comparison with the Harvard Class of 1926 is the proportion of wives who have attended college, 70% in both classes. In discussing wives in 1951, Harvard '26 implied a confirmation of the Darwinian theory of natural selection in the fact that 52% of their wives graduated against only 41% of ours. We can now add the news that the same proportion entered college, 70%, and that 10% of our did graduate work with 5% getting degrees compared to just a "handful" of H'26. Q.E.D.

The friendly barber is glad to see us these days. Presumably we tip more. Unquestionably he charges more, and by our own testimony he has less to do. The thatch is thinner, say 45%, while 39% say "greying" and 26% "about the same." One in 10 allowed to the virulent combination of less hair that is turning grey.

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

We say our interest in politics has increased since the war: 42% say this against 7% who claim less feeling of interest. A more objective test of this may be our degree of political activity. At a fairly high level—election to office—14% or 1 in 7 have been successful, mostly in local elections. Included in the 14% are 2% who have won state and 1% national contests. A sizeable group of us, 22%, has been influential as political party workers in electing someone.

The two-party system gets only a passing nod from us. Four out of 5, 81%, lean toward the Republicans. Our first four chances at voting for President saw the majority of us on the losing side, from '36 through '48. The last two times, '52 and '56, have been more satisfactory to our heavily Republican predilections. This may partially account for the increased proportion who now have Republican sympathies, 9% more than 10 years ago.

The questionnaire this time didn't include any questions on our expectations for the political future. In 1950 we foresaw a major war in 1955 or 1960, with a few saying 1965. Two out of 5 at that time foresaw a major depression between 1952 and 1955.

BACKWARD GLANCES

We haven't changed our mind about Old Nassau. Just as ten years ago 9 out of 10 would have repeated at Princeton, so this year 91% name it as our first choice, with a number adding, "If they'd let me in." Among the 9% dissenters is one who wrote, "I'd go elsewhere. That Princeton climate is very bad for my health."

Twenty-five years of continuing satisfaction is perhaps best expressed in our remarkable record this year of 75% participation in Annual Giving. Our attitude is well expressed by our answers to the question, "As you look back on your Princeton experience, to what extent did the college stimulate and influence your growth?" "Considerably, significantly" stated 61%. "Sufficiently" said 28%, the two categories adding to 89%. The remaining 11% stated "Insufficiently." An inspection of the answers by income groups shows the majority of the dissent among the lower third in earned income, but nowhere does more than a fourth vote "Insufficiently." At the top of the income scale, only 4% say this. The 81% who entered Princeton from private schools vote the same as the 19% who entered from public high schools.

Getting into Princeton is more of a competitive achievement than when we passed the college boards in 1931. Nowadays 64% of the entering class come from public schools compared to only 19% of P'35. We were asked our opinion of present admissions policies.

Mr. '35 loves to travel, and Mrs. '35 at least finds it broadening.

Eighteen percent called them "too tough." But Dean of Admissions Edwards can feel in tune with more than 3 out of 4 of us. "About the right degree of difficulty" said 75% and 3% more said "Not tough enough." Scattered answers from 2% included, "Magnificent—if anything too lenient on Princeton sons." "Too much emphasis on purely academic. We don't all want to be college professors." "Realistic." "Fairer than in 1931." "Alumni sons should get a break over a little brighter boy." "Policies are anti-intellectual—the 'whole boy' crud." "But too many intellectuals are admitted." "Too tough to get in for students high in structural visualization." "Undervalues Group III types who become leaders." One man winds up with, "I'm strongly convinced our admissions over-de-emphasize football."

We retain Princeton ties in our day-to-day contacts. Among our six closest friends 57% count at least one classmate. About a third have two or more closest friends in the class. Forty-seven percent of us count Princetonians from other classes among our closest friends. While there is no standard to compare this with, it unquestionably indicates the continuing active influence of our college years on our present way of living. Old acquaintance is not forgot.

SOUND-OFF SECTION

None of us has batted 1.000 in life. The statement that, "The successful executive is one whose decisions are right at least 55% of the time," is probably not too far from our own accomplishments. When asked to name "the biggest mistake you have made in your life so far," half of us came up with one.

There are some poignant ones. For example:

- "Becoming an alcoholic"
- "Not going to a psychiatrist sooner"
- "Being too firm with oldest children"
- "First marriage" (several)
- "Second marriage" (two)
- "Deserted my principles, still trying to dig out"
- "Drinking too much" (several)
- "Drove a car under the influence and killed two"
- "Letting myself be seduced by the communists"

And a very few semi-frivolous ones —

- "Thinking Dewey would win in '48"
- "Buying a Ford"
- "Being just successful enough"
- "Stayed East too long"
- "Listening to mother"
- "Betting on Brooklyn"

But the vast bulk of the answers were sober and thoughtful. A nationwide Gallup poll was once made on the same question. The largest number nationally blamed themselves twice as much for not educating themselves more widely or wisely as they did for choosing the wrong job or some other career mistake. Not so with us. These are our leading answers:

- 24% mention career mistakes—wrong job, staying with it too long.
- 17% are bothered by marital mistakes—from the wrong woman to not marrying, or not marrying sooner.
- 14% wish they had gone farther with their education, or done better or differently.
- 9% are sad about personal shortcoming—laziness, lack of ambition, lack of confidence, too retiring.
- 8% mention money mistakes—particularly investments at wrong time.
- "Too few children" and "Drinking problems" each got 4%.

Of less importance to our lives, but of more day to day impact are the things that annoy us most:

- 11% say things around the house, wife, children.

- 9% are annoyed by pressures, too little time.
- 9% accuse the telephone and its interruptions.
- 7% name people in general—pushing, inconsiderate, stupid, ungrateful.
- 7% specify people in the office—associates, subordinates, superiors.
- 7% are annoyed by the routine and petty details.
- 5% abhor most “getting up in the morning.”
- 3% mention money problems, unpaid bills.

TV commercials, “my job,” noise, taxes, shaving, cocktail parties, political statements, “my own limitations,” having to earn a living, all get a few annoyed votes.

There are, fortunately, things that give us solid satisfaction. Here is our ranking of the leading sources of satisfaction in our lives:

My family, home life .....	59%
Job satisfaction .....	9
Hobbies, leisure .....	8
My wife, marriage .....	7
The children .....	5
Ability to help others .....	4
My religion, church work .....	2
My friends .....	2

Independence, “achieving my aims,” “4 grandchildren and 15 quarter horses,” practice of surgery, memories, a discovery in science, books and music, good-looking legs, a few quiet simple days in the country, fine arts, and successful writing are among the principal satisfactions of others in the class.

ARE THE ANSWERS ACCURATE?

The question on any survey such as this is whether the answers accurately reflect the “universe,” in this case all members of the class. Let’s look at the evidence.

The mailing went to 545 classmates. Omitted were 30 or so who live abroad, for reasons of time. This was a single mailing with no follow-up, as stated in the letter explaining the questionnaire. An amazingly high number of 410 returns came in. Usable returns were 409 or 75.1%. This is the highest figure we have heard of on a survey of this kind, including two or three follow-up mailings.

But a 75% return still leaves 25% not heard from. Are there any indications that those who did not reply differed in material ways from those who did?

The most thorough survey of this kind ever completed, to our knowledge, was undertaken by Cornelius DuBois for Harvard '26 in 1950. It analyzed the returnees versus the non-returnees and found that "the men who felt less close to the class . . . were less likely to respond to any class communications, including the current survey." The same group presumably did not reply to our survey, although in one respect our returns do not contain a bias that was present in the H'26 replies. This was in the proportion of replies from those who entered college from public school and prep school. In our case 1% more high school repliers are in the sample than were present in the class in 1931. At Harvard the reverse was true by a larger margin.

Among the repliers we analyzed the early, middle, and late returns by income and occupation and found no significant differences. A tabulation of the biographical questionnaires, received from most of the class, showed essentially the same occupational groupings as from the 75% who returned confidential questionnaires. It has been argued that very low income earners would not reply. There is no evidence to support this. A contrary piece of evidence comes from the Class of 1934 income returns last year which were received from only 55% compared to our 75%. Their median earned income from 55% was $15,500. Ours was $20,000 from 75%. Since there is no reason why '34 should be that much different from '35, it could be argued that their low returns were over-weighted with lower income repliers.

From the data at hand, we think the replies are a reasonable reflection of the class situation in 1960. Certainly it would require a tremendous bias all one way to make a marked change in any of the patterns reported.

The replies were sent in to National Field Service, Inc., 40 East 54th Street, New York 22. Professionals tabulated them. The questionnaires were then destroyed when the analyses were completed.

Paul W. S. Abt

Business Executive

Home: 31 Lindorf Drive, East St. Louis, Ill. Tel. EXpress 7-2809

Business: Paul Abt, Inc., 1502 State Street, East St. Louis, Ill.

Children: Paul Joseph, January 18, 1946

Paul is the president and owner of his company, and his wife is the secretary-treasurer. He is a member of the Southern Illinois Builders Association and the St. Louis Floor Covering Guild. During World War II he was in the Administrative Department of the Air Corps and was discharged as a Lieutenant Colonel.

In civic activities Paul is on the Board of Directors of the Boy's Club and is a member of the Exchange Club and tries to be active in the Princeton Club. When asked where he goes for his vacation he answers, "No distance, as we have a cruiser at the Harbor Point Yacht Club twenty-five miles away from our home and use it every weekend all summer." His wife, Lynn, is a graduate of the University of Illinois and before her marriage was a fashion consultant. Her activities now, besides being active in her husband's business, are interior decorating. Her comments about Princeton Paul says are "not printable."

Hugh Trumbull Adams

Business Adviser

Home: River House, 435 East 52nd Street, New York 22, N. Y.

Tel. Plaza 9-5627

Business: Same

Single

After graduating from Princeton, Hugh went to work for Biddle Whelen, stock-brokers, in Philadelphia where he remained until Pearl Harbor, at which time he joined the Navy as an Ensign. He served for over two years in South America and spent the final year of the war in Egypt on the Suez Canal. He ended his service as a Lieutenant Commander. He writes:

"After the war, I returned to business as Secretary, Treasurer, and Director of the Broad Motors Co., a Ford automobile agency in Philadelphia. On selling out of this company in late 1949, I returned to the investment business, first in Philadelphia then moving to New York in 1955.

"For exercise, I play golf, swim, and walk the sidewalks of New York. I also enjoy listening to hi-fi, some TV programs, going to the theater, museums, and the taking of colored photographs.

"Whenever I get the chance, I like to travel to foreign lands. So far, I have been almost everywhere except Russia, Central and South Africa, India, Iraq, Iran, and Alaska. I serve on the Advisory Council of the Princeton University Art Museum; am interested in the restoration of Lebanon, Conn. I am also interested in heart disease and the ASPCA. I am especially interested in heart disease research, and in the construction of a new Art Museum for Princeton University. We should have one that compares favorably with our other universities. I live alone in New York with my standard poodle Toby, spending most weekends in the country with my friends and relatives. I hope to purchase a small weekend house in Connecticut or Bermuda before too long."

Arthur L., III, August 13, 1943

James C., October 29, 1948

Lea went to Harvard after graduating from Princeton and earned his LL.B. in 1940. He then became a law clerk for Hinckley, Allen, Tillinghast and Wheeler in Providence. This was followed by working for Consolidated Edison in New York City and later for the Banker's Trust Company, also in New York. He is now Executive Vice-President of his present company. During World War II he was in the Signal Corps working in radar and was discharged as a Captain in 1945.

He is a Director of the Chamber of Commerce, President of the Kiwanis Club and a Cubmaster. He is also Treasurer of the Monmouth County Princeton Alumni Association and Regional Vice President of '35.

His hobbies are sailing, skeet shooting, hunting and fishing and he is a member of the Sea Bright Club and the Shrewsbury Sailing & Yacht Club. His travels have taken him to Europe and the Bahamas. During vacations he usually goes south for the first week of hunting in Virginia and to the semitropics in the late spring for fishing. His wife is a Vassar graduate and keeps busy with her home and family plus a little sailing and school board work on the side. Her comment on Princeton is: "Reunions should be simplified and freed funds made available to Princeton for educational purposes."

Johnny has been in the Army since 1942. Before 1942 he was Assistant Manager of the Buffalo Municipal Housing Authority. He has lived in Tokyo, Heidelberg, Frankfurt, and Yorktown, Virginia.

His wife attended the University of Buffalo and her main interest is traveling. Johnny writes: "During our last tour overseas she hit all the countries in Europe, the British Isles and Scandinavia. Her tour to Russia in 1958 was the first organized tour to go in since World War II."

Brooke Alexander

Publishing Executive

Home: 65 East 69th Street, New York 28, N. Y. Tel. Atwater 9-9218

Business: Time Inc., New York, N. Y.

Children: Brooke 1940
Breck 1942

Brooke writes: "Although barely recalling the rituals of our graduation, I vividly remember starting work the following Monday at $30 per week. Given a shoestring I would gladly have delayed matters—but I didn't have the shoes.

"My first job was travelling up and down the U. S. promoting rugs. This led to seven years of assorted advertising experience until in 1942 I joined Fortune magazine. Fortune, as you all know, is a Luce publication, which means that in addition to a nose for profit it also has a sense of mission. This makes it a stimulating and satisfying place to work, two reasons why I have never left.

"I am blessed with an extraordinary charming and capable wife and two very satisfactory children. Thanks to summers spent in Maine, it has been no trouble at all to resist the lures of suburbia the rest of the year. We live very comfortably in the center of Manhattan.

in the West 60's and guerrilla tactics in the N. Y. Central freight yards as a state guardsman. These days I find great rewards in serving as a trustee of Mount Holyoke College, as well as on the Boards of the American Institute of Graphic Arts, Trail Blazer Camps and the N. Y. County Grand Jury Association. I am also on the Council of the Episcopal Diocese of New York.

"Princeton's education and Princeton classmates have always been important in my life. I have never lost touch with Sam Welles. Whenever one of us gets married, the other is best man. Reeve and Northwood have remained close friends and not even a continent's width can keep me from staying close to Jack Harlow. Joe Hazen, now my associate, I know far better than I did in college. It may be, in fact, that by 1985—at our Fiftieth—I shall know 1935 much better. This will be my good fortune."

John B. Alexander

Doctor

Home: 290 Brookway Road, Merion Station, Pa.

Business: 330 South 9th Street, Philadelphia 9, Pa.

John is a specialist in Internal Medicine. He got his initial training at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, graduating in 1939. He spent the next two years as intern at the Pennsylvania Hospital and after that another year as Resident in Pathology.

The war interrupted his medical training. He joined a hospital unit being formed at the Pennsylvania Hospital by Dr. Robert A. Kimbrough. About this experience he writes: "Our unit went to Oran in the spring of 1943 and later moved to Tunisia, Naples and Leghorn. Late in 1944 I was transferred to the 85th Division (328th Field Artillery Battalion) and with them went across the Po valley and up into the Alps. I again became a civilian in May 1946. Final rank: Major. No injuries. No decorations, just the usual ribbons and stars."

John then returned to the Pennsylvania Hospital for residency in Medicine (14 months). After that he combined the Chief Residency with the beginning of private practice of Internal Medicine (certification as specialist).

He was appointed to the faculty of the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania in 1950 and now holds the rank of Assistant Professor of Clinical Medicine.

About his personal life he states: "Have not yet had the good fortune to join in matrimony."

John S. Algeo, Jr.

Home: Lynacres, Fayetteville, N. Y. Tel. GI 6-2455

Business: Algeo Manufacturing Inc., 100 Ball St., East Syracuse, N. Y.

Married: Suzanne Fonda, April 18, 1942

John S., III, January 19, 1955

John writes: "Unlike the majority in our illustrious class my life has been most unspectacular. Starting to work for the Owens Illinois Glass Co. immediately after graduation, by 1942 I had arrived at Syracuse, N. Y. as a salesman in the branch office there. At that point two notable events took place. In the order of occurrence (but not of importance) came my induction as an Ensign USNR on Mar. 1, 1942, immediately followed by my induction as a 'former bachelor' on April 18, 1942. After a brief honeymoon in San Francisco Suse came back home and I went west. Spent a year in submarines then was transferred to DEs convoying to the Med. After two years of that we went back to the Pacific and ended up in Okinawa. After the war I became Vice President of Fonda Motor Car Co. in Syracuse. The fact that I had married the Boss's daughter could possibly have had some influence in determining my new career. In any event life went placidly along until 1950 when I decided I would like to own my own business. So I resigned my job and formed a new company primarily to manufacture electronic parts and components. Strangely enough called Algeo Manufacturing Inc. We are now in our 9th year and have just moved to a new building.

"As for family, our daughter Reid was born in May 1944 and after waiting a suitable interval we had a son, Jock, born in January 1955. The combination of teen-age daughter and small boy is guaranteed to keep you on your toes. Reid is going to Dana Hall this year and we hope Jock will be coming to Princeton one of these days.

"After 25 years my unspectacular life has shown a moderate success in business, and a splendid success in family. And that about sums up my philosophy of life."

Sally Martin, June 12, 1948

Howie tells us: "In the Nassau Herald '35 it states that Aller is engaged to Miss Juliet Kindlund, plans to study Journalism, is a Congregationalist and a Republican with permanent address in Lakeville, Connecticut. Kindlund changed her name as scheduled, Lakeville mail will still reach me, and political and religious convictions remain unchanged in 25 years. Only the journalism got lost in the shuffle. Instead, the transportation business put its claws in me in 1935 and in one way or another I've been at it ever since. Started in September 1935 with W. R. Grace & Co. in New York and was soon transferred to Valparaiso, Chile, where Spanish 101 did me no good whatsoever; put in two years in Buenos Aires, and then worked for their aviation offshoot, Pan American-Grace Airways in New York and Lima, Peru until 1950 when I transferred allegiance to the Johnson Line of Stockholm, Sweden (known far and wide as Rederi Aktiebolaget Nordstjernan). They sent us back to Chile where I represented the Line on the West Coast of South America until last year when we were transferred to Yokohama as Owner's Representative for the Far East. Present territory runs from Japan to Basrah via Hongkong, Straits, India, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Iran.

"All in all, I highly recommend the rolling-stone life and the biggest danger seems to be that of getting over-complacent. Julie has accepted all the home-shifting (fourteen major changes) in an amazingly cooperative way, and watching the three kids grow up in different surroundings is still the best fun we've found. We've made some wonderful friends and taken many inferior photographs in the various countries we've lived in. Offsetting the loss of close contact with families back home and the inability to get to Reunions regularly are the not-to-be-taken-lightly advantages of relatively benevolent tax systems and freedom from television. Viva Princeton! Banzai Nassau! Skal '35!"

Married: Barbara Fowler, October 16, 1940

Children: Mary Howard, June 26, 1947

Frederic Fowler, December 3, 1955

Fred tells us: "From Princeton I went to the Harvard Law School (LL.B. 1938). I have lived and practiced in Indianapolis, Indiana, since 1938. From 1940 to 1942 I was an associate, and since then I have been a partner, in Barnes, Hickman, Pantzer & Boyd, now a firm of 24 lawyers. My own practice, although a general corporate one, involves much labor law representing employers.

"On October 16, 1940, I married Barbara Fowler, of Indianapolis. Our children are Mary Howard (b. June 26, 1947) and Frederic Fowler (b. December 3, 1955). She was graduated from Vassar (A.B.) and Western Reserve (B.S. in L.S.). After graduation she was briefly a librarian. Her intellectual interest and recreation are the cultural and social history of eighteenth century England, in which she has read widely for many years. She has been, or is, an officer and director of the Visiting Nurses Association, the Day Nursery Association, the Junior League, the Vassar Club, and the Parent-Teacher Association.

"I served in the Navy from July 1943 to January 1946, and was a lieutenant (jg) when released. After indoctrinating at Harvard, I was stationed at the Naval Communications Annex in Washington, D. C.

"At times I have been a director of the Legal Aid Society and Christamore House (a settlement house) and a deacon and trustee of the First Presbyterian Church. I work for the United Fund and am a member of the Citizens School Committee. I belong to various bar associations, and to the University, Woodstock, Players, Contemporary and Lawyers Clubs in Indianapolis.

"I am a director of the Stonefort Corporation (coal mining), Eastgate Corporation (a regional shopping center), J. I. Holcomb Manufacturing Company, Inc. (cleaning brushes and chemicals), and Backstay Welt Company, Inc. (welts, gimps and bindings).

"I attended our fifteenth and twentieth reunions and expect to attend our twenty-fifth. In May 1958 I attended the Princeton Today program at Princeton. I was formerly president of the Princeton Alumni Association of Indiana. My admiration for and loyalty to Princeton continue to grow."

"Main interests: Any member of the class who did not marry until 1955 and who presently has three children, with ages 3, 2 and 1, knows the answer to this one. A well established pattern in skiing, shooting and fishing, and sometimes off-shore sailing, are presently on the shelf and must wait a while, and certain other bachelor practices and pursuits have gone forever.

"Career Department: Being a late starter in other things beside the family department, this class member has not yet gotten around to anything that could be dignified as a "career". Following graduation from Princeton I studied and traveled during the summer in Europe, and studied law at the University of Pennsylvania, with a LL.B. in 1938. Was admitted to practice in Philadelphia late in 1938. Two years later, feeling a need for travel, enlisted in the Navy and went the distance from boot seaman to destroyer command, exiting from the service as a Lt. Com., U.S.N.R. in 1946. During this period saw only a relatively few of our classmates. Returned to law practice in 1946 in Philadelphia and have been hard at it since, first with a "big firm" and more recently on my own, independence of action perhaps outweighing certain other considerations.

"Worth of Princeton Education, etc.: In retrospect, and measured by the test of time, an education at Princeton would appear to supply a valuable asset for the rest of life—whatever one's particular area of business, profession or other interest.

Charlie has always been in the teaching field. He writes us: "After graduating from Princeton, I taught Latin and Greek for one year at Noble & Greenough, Dedham, Mass., and then went to Fairfield High School in Fairfield, Conn., for one year. In 1937 I came to Pingry, and have taught in 6th, 7th and 8th grades ever since. The war intervened—two years—saw service on S.C.'s in the Atlantic. Since 1953, have headed our middle school, consisting of some 145 boys, and have been doing very little teaching.

"The usual community affairs have been in the picture—alumni activities for the school, Community Chest, etc. At present am a vestryman of Trinity Church, Elizabeth. For 10 years I served on the Union County Park Commission.

"As to Princeton, far be it from me to criticize—rather, I feel the college still means a lot to me and is still doing a grand job educationally. Certainly our graduates from Pingry are happy there and are leading productive lives for having gone."

Married: Helen Danielson, September, 1945

Gene writes us: "You will remember that we graduated into a tight financial situation in 1935. Having majored in Psychology, I fell into social work with our State Department of Public Assistance, investigating applicants for relief. But by 1941, business in Philadelphia had improved considerably and I came into this small real estate office in a semi-suburban area filled with row and "semi-detached" homes. I recall that our average sale then was in the $3000.-$4000. class. These are 40-year-old brick homes in a clean residential neighborhood. Now, our average sale is $9000.-$10,000. It has been a very satisfying 19 years for me in this business. We supply the answer to a definite need—the need of families to own their own home, to live fairly close to their employment, in decent surroundings in which to raise a family, all at a price they can afford to pay. We have built up a profitable property management business and insurance account around these 2000 or so 'customers'.

"Besides this, I have been doing some singing—church choir, men's chorus, and male quartets. I have served on the Deacons Board in our Presbyterian Church and have been chairman of it for the past ten years. My parents were charter members of this same church.

"My wife and I enjoy good music and are ardent followers of the Philadelphia Orchestra. We have held regular seats for the past fifteen years.

"Athletically, I have switched from tennis to golf—wife's orders.

"We have been very fortunate in having friends and relatives with boats of all kinds. We have had several delightful cruises on the Chesapeake Bay on a small schooner, around Buzzard's Bay on a motor sailer, and fishing off the South Jersey coast. Aside from these activities, I spend most of my free time in my workshop, woodworking and finishing furniture, and occasionally repairing and refinishing antiques. Of course, in summer, our garden takes most of our free daylight hours.

"The most important date in my life was in 1945 when I was married to the nicest girl I ever knew. We have had a good life together, and I look forward to many more happy years together."

Children: Norman A., Jr., January 25, 1943
Barbara Elizabeth, February 9, 1944
Peter Galbraith, January 6, 1951

Norm's working career has revolved primarily around the field of finance. Upon graduation he went to work for a small bank in West Virginia. He writes:

"Over the years there have been occasional side trips into other fields of endeavor, the main one being the U. S. Army. Shortly before my tour of duty in the latter, which commenced in 1942, Barbara Louise Behrens of Chicago and I were married, and while stationed at Camp Grant, Medford, Oregon our first son was born. About nine months to the day after sailing for the South Pacific our daughter arrived in the family. My outfit was a heavy construction engineer regiment which fortunately for most everybody concerned was always a few months behind the rapidly moving front. Consequently very little use was ever found for the hospitals, staging areas, air fields, etc. which we labored so hard to construct. In view of this I cannot say that my tour of duty added much, if anything, to the defeat of the Japanese.

"Late in 1945, upon return to the States and discharge in California, I rejoined my family here in Marin County, California and haven't moved since. In 1951 our youngest, and unfortunately last, child was born. Early in 1958 I retired from the bank which had occupied my time since leaving the Army in order to devote more time to personal affairs, charity work, family and travel."

John H. Barrett

Lawyer

Home: Barrett Ranch, Encinitas, Calif.

Married: Loo Ann Golden, July 20, 1946

"My autobiographical sketch is mundane enough to be glossed over with hardly a backward glance: law degree, three and a half years in a bank, four years Navy duty, move to California (My God! How conformist!) and practice law. Nothing spectacular, but a lot of unforgettable scenes and a few unforgettable people.

"At this juncture, I feel the present and future are a whole hell of a lot more important than our pasts. We are moving upon an age bracket where our position, by dint of seniority if nothing else, brings us out of the junior ranks and into the forefront. If we are to realize any 'worth of (our) education and experiences at Princeton,' we are going to have to do so soon or not at all. Just what does that mean to any one of us, or specifically, to me?

"Hard to say. I could go through all the platitudes in the book; call upon all the local tin gods, inveigh against all the pet hates. It would mean nothing to anyone but me. It is only through my very personal distilling of the things to which we were all exposed as students, and in the years that have followed, that they mean anything.

"In my opinion, the only valid conclusions are expressed in a few brief questions and answers, and here they are: 1. Was the effort and the expense worth it? Yes. 2. With the advantage of the hindsight I now enjoy, would I recommend to my 17-year-old self that I do it again? Yes. 3. Do I believe the private college or university serves a valuable function in our society? Yes. 4. Do I believe my continued support of, and long-distance association with things Princeton is something I want to continue? Yes."

Stuy spent his first three years out of college with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. From this he went with the Alco Products Division of the American Locomotive Company. He is currently President and Chairman of the Board of La Hacienda Company, Inc.

He spent four years as a Sergeant in the Army in the Chemical Warfare branch of the service. He was in the Army from March 1942 until December 1945 and his theater of operation was the Pacific.

Stuy and his family have visited Nassau, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands on vacation trips. Other vacations are spent in the mountains or at the seashore. He enjoys swimming, hiking and fishing, and also an occasional game of bridge.

His wife, Gloria, worked for the Government prior to her marriage. She feels strongly that "reunions should be for men only."

Cec has lived and worked in Washington ever since 1938. From Princeton he went to Yale University Law School from which he graduated in 1938. He then became law secretary to Chief Justice, United States Court of Claims. From this job he became a partner in the law firm of Kilpatrick, Ballard & Beasley in Washington and has been there ever since.

He has been very active in civic organizations and school activities, having served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of St. Albans School for Boys, member of the Board of Governors of the National Cathedral School and Trustee of the St. Albans Alumni Association. He is also a Director of Southern Airways Inc. He also has worked for the United Givers Fund, American Cancer Society and the Red Cross.

Cec has done a lot of traveling in the U. S. and in Europe, all in the line of business. He seldom takes vacations, but when he does he plays golf in Florida, Nassau and Bethany Beach, Maryland.

As an alumnus of Princeton he has done his share by being Director of the Princeton Club of Washington in 1950-1954, Chairman of the Washington, D. C., Princeton Annual Giving in 1954 and member of the Class of 1935 Council.

His wife, Par, shares his enthusiasm about Princeton and attends as many Princeton functions as possible. As to his return for his 25th, Cec says, "I have missed too many already and I certainly will not let anything interfere with my presence at the big one."

Bill writes: "I can remember thinking when we were undergraduates that those who were back for their 25th were really over the hill. Now it hardly seems possible that we have been out for 25 years. I think that the 25th is really a young reunion after all."

"I have worked in the insurance industry since graduation and with only two companies. The first five years were with the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland and since then I have been with Tongue, Brooks and Company. I was made a partner in 1948. My time is spent in servicing general insurance accounts in the Baltimore area. Our firm was organized in 1898 and is perhaps the largest in this area."

"We attend the Second Presbyterian Church, where I have been a Trustee. I serve on the boards of the Children's Fresh Air Society and the Presbyterian Charity Hospital."

"I am a week-end golfer with an occasional round in the 80's, but my real love is shooting ducks and geese in the Chesapeake Bay."

"Mary Colt Wilcox and I were married in Baltimore November 25, 1938. We are fortunate in being able to have lived in Baltimore since then."

"I have two sons, one 18 and the other 16, both of whom share my love for gunning and whose main interests lie in sports, particularly the Baltimore Colts and naturally lacrosse. Bill entered the University of North Carolina in the Fall of 1959, and John is a sophomore at Boys' Latin School here in Baltimore."

"Placing a valuation on a Princeton education is a difficult thing to do. It has always meant a great deal to me that I was able to graduate from Princeton. It has definitely helped me in business, and the friendships made there and through Princeton are lasting and wonderful."

Children: Frank Ellwood, III, May 1, 1946
Elizabeth Louise, August 15, 1949
Charles Edmund, September 25, 1953

Frank had to leave Princeton during his Freshman year because of illness in the family, but after three years of working he started over again at the University of Illinois where he got his B.S. degree in 1938. He had thought he might like to be a civil engineer but while at college changed his mind in favor of teaching and athletics. His teaching and coaching career started at Williston Academy, 1938-1942, then he became Director of University of Illinois Foundation, 1945-1948, then he went to Williams where he was Assistant Football Coach and Head Coach of Hockey, 1948-1954. Since 1954 he has been at Hotchkiss teaching math and coaching football.

During the war Frank was in the Navy and was assigned to the USS Princeton. He was with the ship from the time of her shakedown cruise until she was sunk. This experience, his wife says, "strengthened his tie to the university."

Frank does a good deal of traveling each summer when he takes a group of boys to Europe, but as he says, "the tours to Europe are not, strictly speaking, vacations." For vacations he and his family go south during Hotchkiss' Spring vacation to visit friends and relatives and to play golf.

His wife, Rosie, attended Mount Holyoke and was an officer in the Waves, 1942-1945. Her activities besides home and family include the Girl Scouts and church work.

Purnell writes: "Born November 10, 1913 and raised in Highland Park, Illinois, on Chicago's North Shore. Dad (John Benson), then President of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, took the family east to Bronxville, New York, where I completed the last two years of high school before entering Princeton.

"College provided an invaluable opportunity to grow intellectually and socially. I shall always remember with pleasure and appreciation the patient efforts of my mentors, such as Dean Wicks, Mr. Fenninger, and Professors J. D. Brown, 'Buzzer' Hall and E. U. Condon. I also recall the warm friendship of fellow students which overflowed the lines of the club system. Princeton's greatest gift to me was the opportunity for free pursuit of study with the guidance and resources of a faculty with great intellectual keenness.

"Graduating with an A.B. in philosophy and well-loaded with physics and mathematics plus a Phi Beta key, which I attribute to careful selection of 'gut' courses rather than 'grinding,' I took an M.A. in sociology at Harvard and eventually completed a Ph.D. in the same field at Chicago in 1952. Graduate studies were interrupted by war years, during most of which I was in conscientious objector labor camps or was a guinea pig in medical studies, and a couple of years in the peace education program of the American Friends Service Committee.

"After ten years of college teaching, first at Temple University and then at Drew University, I have turned to writing and research in psychology as a livelihood. After publishing a number of scientific papers in psychology and sociology I was commissioned by Harper and Brothers to prepare a book for college use in the scientific study of religion, which was published in 1959.

"My main professional interest is in the study of religion through psychology and the social sciences, which, I believe, bring human beings much closer to an understanding of the role which God plays in their lives. I am a home body, spending a good deal of time with my family. My wife, Mary Alice (Burgess), a native of Chatham, New Jersey, and Wellesley '45, and I were married in a Quaker Meeting in Washington, D. C., April 26, 1947, and are in the happy company of three children. Photography and tennis continue to be leisure time diversions as they were while I was an undergraduate. My formula for healthful living is a steady diet of religion, vigorous exercises, and natural rather than chemically treated or commercially processed foods."

He and his wife, Alice, own a cottage in the Pocono Mountains where they go for the month of August to relax, play golf and swim. Mike's civic duties include being a Deacon in the Baptist Church, singing in the church choir, teaching Sunday school, and being a Scout leader.

Alice attended Westminster Choir College in Princeton. Before her marriage she taught college music. Her activities and interests include music, and watching sports. As to her thoughts of Princeton, Mike writes, "She loves Princeton as much as I do. We met at Princeton."

Graham G. Berry

Copywriter

Home: 50 Parcot Avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y. Tel. Neptune 6-7962

Business: Cunningham & Walsh Advertising, 260 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Children: Graham G., Jr., November 5, 1944

Gray writes: "Like any average member of the class, I think that the 'autobiography' has a large hiatus in it—1940-45—kindness of the Army. Only events of any moment for that whole period were my marriage in '43 after returning from service in Alaska, and the birth of my son in November '45 in Riverside, California. The Army finally let me loose on December 24, 1945 (Merry Christmas!) as an artillery Major, and I went back to advertising agency work.

"Since '46, I have held three agency jobs that are worth a mention, all of them as a copywriter. Going in reverse order, I'm currently with Cunningham & Walsh Advertising in New York City, writing copy for such firms as Western Electric, Chase Brass and Copper Co., Pennsylvania Lawn Mower, Kennecott Copper Corporation, and putting 1935 training to good stead, Narragansett Beer, Croft Ale, and '21' Brands Liquors (pardon the commercial!). I am now Senior Copywriter in charge of all copy for Johns-Manville Building Products at C&W. Before joining C&W, the other two jobs I think worth mentioning were Senior Copy Writer at Fuller & Smith & Ross, and six and a half years as top writer on Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company at Kudner Agency, both in New York. In 1949, Goodyear's advertising director was named 'Man of the Year' by Industrial Marketing Magazine, and the campaigns I prepared were honored as the outstanding industrial advertising for the year.

"On the side, I had several magazine articles published in the trade press, collaborated on one chapter of a book by a fellow agency worker, and finally got around to writing a book of my own. This was selected by the Episcopal Book Club as one of its quarterly selections. Steadfast In This Faith is a layman's history of the Episcopal Church. Still in the works is an unfinished and as yet untitled novel; knowing me as "I have currently under preparation a novel for publishing later in 1960.

"Cynthia, Pete and I have lived in New Rochelle, New York, ever since I left the Army, and in our present home for more than ten years. We attend St. John's Church (Episcopal) where I am a licensed Lay Reader and have twice been nominated but not elected to serve on the Vestry. My son and I are both charter members and officers of the local 'ham' radio club, and both hold operator's licenses from the F.C.C. My call, in case there are other hams in the class, is K2SJN. Other hobbies: Hi-fi (self-built) and sports car driving—no racing or rallying—just driving. Cynthia is a member of the Garden Club and of the Woman's Club of New Rochelle. I've done quite a bit of 'behind the scenes' politicking—speech writing, letters for others to sign and so on, but ran for no office nor will I.

"Looking back at Princeton and what it did for me, I'd say the story was pretty much an average one. The Ivy League diploma was instrumental in my getting my first job in advertising. More than that, add a few lasting friendships and a fairly broad background that has been drawn on consistently in business ever since graduation. I still beat the drums for a Liberal Arts education; even an engineer is better off for an exposure to the arts. And I still feel that a Princeton education has the ideal blend of the advantages of a small college and a larger university without either being over-emphasized. In other words, if I were choosing a college today, I'd make the same choice, although I'm more than a little afraid Princeton wouldn't!

"Summing up these somewhat incoherent ramblings—a thoroughly average life any way you look at it, but enjoyed, as the expression has it: I live the way I like, and like the way I live."

"The twenty-five years divide into three segments: the first seven in J. C. Penney Company buying offices; then four Army and two Harvard Law; the last eleven in various legal positions. I was happiest in a four-year association with Robinson & Henson, a New York firm specializing in taxes but affording a varied practice. The Boston pastures have proved greener.

"I suppose my main interest is to guide yet not steer both children to their majorities. I am a public school advocate but the local schools' lack of challenge seemed to demand other exposure. (Part of my son's is now at the hands of Wes O'Neill.)

"My activities have been predominantly at the work level: door knocker in fund drives, scoutmaster/cubmaster, rear row in the choir. A pet peeve in this respect is the situation that gives life to the phrase, 'Too many chiefs, not enough Indians.' However, laboring in the vineyards has its rewards. Tangibly I prize a silver tray given 'in appreciation' by a Cub Pack den. The pack itself included from the class roster the names of Coggeshall, Minard, Tilney and Bowen.

"I have no great thoughts on Princeton. As I see it the great truth of liberal education is its lifetime nature. Certain choices over the years have brought problems to be weathered. It is not clear to me whether Princeton can or should be blamed or credited either for the choices or the weathering. My son, when once asked if he were going to Princeton, asked, 'Where else is there?' The status of alumni sons suggests that he might make it. But if he learns there are other places, and chooses one, I shall not be disappointed.

"I suppose my philosophy is based on Micah 6:8—and of these things, the most important, I think, is mercy."

Business: University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz.

Married: Patricia Hodgkinson, August 30, 1954

Bob got his M.A. and Ph.D. at Princeton in '37 and '38 respectively. Before his present job he was Philosophy Editor for "The American Educator" Encyclopedia and was an assistant instructor at Northwestern. He is now Associate Professor of Philosophy in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Arizona. He was awarded a Fellowship by the Ford Foundation (Fund for the Advancement of Education) in 1953-54 for the purpose of studying world religions and the teaching of religion in state universities. His published writings include A Kierkegaard Anthology (Princeton University Press, 1946; The Modern Library, 1959); co-editor of The Theology of Paul Tillich (Macmillan, 1952) and Reinhold Niebuhr: His Religious, Social and Political Thought (Macmillan, 1956).

About his local activities Bob writes: "Have sung in church choirs, although not doing so at present. As teacher of courses in religion have addressed various church groups, participated in round-table discussions, seminars, etc. I am a member of the Princeton Club of Tucson and have helped with Annual Giving Drive several years."

Bob has done a good deal of traveling in the U. S., mostly for enjoyment. He vacations in the summer and goes to various places where, as he puts it, "I sleep, study, sleep, write or edit, sleep, attend music festivals, sleep, attend professional meetings, sleep, visit friends and relatives and sleep."

His wife is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, and before her marriage she taught English at the University of Pittsburgh and at Wilson College. Her activities now consist of cooking, hostessing, music and desert animals. Her comment about Princeton is: "Whom the gods destroy they first make mad."

Children: Susan Jane, August 4, 1943

James Robert, January 22, 1947

Ed writes: "My career since graduating has been a peculiar combination of engineering and the law, with emphasis on the latter. Five years in World War II as an Army Engineer (from draftee to Major) set me up for a practice in which engineering and construction clients have predominated.

"For three years I was Chief of the Criminal Division in our U. S. Attorney's office and had a ball playing cops and robbers.

"I married in November, 1942. Sue, now 16, was born in Oregon and Jimmy, now 13, in Brooklyn. Most of my community activities are connected with our church, whose youth group Jane and I advise, and in which I am Trustee, Elder, Church School Department Superintendent, etc. etc. That, with golf and cabinet making, keep me busy.

"Princeton's principal contribution to my life and philosophy was making me aware of the value of semantics in inter-personal and professional relationships. It is probably the one intellectual crusade I would consider espousing.

"Twenty-five years have brought me to a position in life wherein I am busy, happy and humbly and gratefully aware of God's blessings."

Art Dealer

Home: 993 Park Avenue, New York City. Tel. Butterfield 8-6165

Business: M. Knoedler & Co., Inc. 14 East 57th Street, New York City

"Upon graduation from Princeton I attended New York Law School and worked part time in a law office. After three years I received my law degree along with an acute distaste for legal work. I continued as a law clerk until January of 1941 when I went off to Fort Devens, Mass. as a private with the 101st Cavalry, Squadron A of the National Guard. A year later, at the time of Pearl Harbor, I was still playing at Indian Warfare with my horse but from then on things moved rapidly and after courses at the Infantry School and at the Command and General Staff School, Leavenworth, I found myself in England as Assistant G-3 of the XXI Corps. I landed at Rouen from an L.S.T. and progressed across France and Germany and VE Day I was at Hitler's retreat above Berchtesgaten. Next I went to Berlin where I worked at the Allied Commandatura—the Four Party Headquarters where I became Chief of Staff.

"Upon returning to America in June of 1946 as a Lieutenant Colonel I wanted to do something completely different from what I had done before or during the war. So I decided to become an art dealer and went to work for M. Knoedler and Co.—the oldest, largest, and, I hope, most respected firm in America. We have branches in Paris, London, and Caracas; and, now as a partner of the firm, I spend part of each year at our foreign offices. I buy and sell old and modern paintings and sculpture. My most interesting accomplishment was the sale for roughly three million dollars of the Edward G. Robinson Collection to the Greek shipowner Stavros Niarchos.

"As I have been working very hard and traveling abroad a great deal, I have never been able to devote enough time to convince some girl to change my bachelor status. I plan to concentrate on remedying that deplorable condition in the near future.

"I live in New York and have a small weekend house in Glen Cove. My summers are spent in Europe, working in London and Paris or touring continental museums. I take my vacation in August and for several years have enjoyed wonderful times on a sailing yacht cruising the Mediterranean and the Aegean.

"Since I generally work on Saturdays and as I am often in Europe during June, I have missed the opportunity of renewing friendships with my classmates at football games and spring reunions but this year I am looking forward to being present at our Twenty-fifth."

Married: Martha Ake, July 9, 1938

Children: Susannah, February 4, 1941
Martha, August 29, 1945

Bob spent the three years which followed graduation attending law school at the University of Michigan with summer employment as a counsellor at a boys' camp in Maine. He got his degree in 1938. His home since that time has been in Akron, Ohio, and he has been with the same firm all the time. He was made a partner in 1948. His area of practice has been in the business, banking, and probate fields.

In 1940 he was Assistant Law Director for the City of Akron and between mid-1942 and late 1945 he held a commission in the Navy, serving the first half of the period at various stations in the States and the latter half on cruiser assignment in the Pacific.

In addition to his being active in various commercial enterprises into which his practice has led him, Bob writes: "I have been on the board of trustees or an officer of professional organizations, various charities, and local private secondary schools."

Aaron writes: "After a year of study following graduation from Princeton, I worked for almost a year as police reporter, church and schools editor on the Pontiac (Michigan) Daily Press. In July 1937 I received my long-sought appointment to the Foreign Service as a career officer. This career has naturally been my chief interest since that time. I have served abroad at Mexico City, Dublin, Bogota (Colombia), Bangkok and Lisbon, and I am currently serving my third tour of duty in the Department at Washington. This has been an exciting and interesting career, involving experience in several areas of the world and in a broad range of functions. I hope to remain in the Foreign Service until I am ready to retire.

"My wife's activities over the years have been devoted to her family and to the exacting job of a Foreign Service officer's wife. We are both on duty 24 hours a day when we are overseas. When we are in the United States we enjoy the change and live much more quietly. We own a house at Lyme, New Hampshire, which we now consider our permanent home and where the family spends the summer when we are in the United States."

Married: Hope Thompson, April 17, 1952

Jack writes: "After graduating from Princeton, I attended Harvard Business School and received a degree of Master of Business Administration in 1937. A brief try at Wall Street immediately convinced me that I was not cut out for that type of career and by the end of 1937 I was working on a building construction job and attempting to catch up on engineering at night at City College and at New York University. In 1939 I went into the construction business for myself but soon the war intervened and then followed a summer in the 1st Plattsburg Battalion and then a commission in the USNR as Ensign. A medical discharge from the Navy due to a shifty blood pressure left me somewhat confused, but almost immediately, February 1941, I was hired as Assistant Superintendent of Construction of the Army Base being built in Bermuda, where I remained until June 1945; first for the contractor and then in charge of construction for the War Department.

"Upon my return home I entered the real estate firm of Frederick Brown and have been an executive in that firm ever since. I continued, however, to experiment in other fields of endeavor and operated Guest Television & Radio from 1945 to 1958, a company which was the first to put television and radio into hospitals. The same year I became interested in re-entering the field that had interested me before the war and organized Appliance Operating Corporation, of which I am president and which company operates coin-metered laundry equipment. I am also president of the firm of Guest Products Corporation, a manufacturer and distributor in the marine field and am a director of I.T.I. Electronics, Inc. in Clifton, New Jersey.

"I have been on the Board of the Home for the Aged here in New York City for the past twenty years and am now Vice-President of that institution. It takes care of about 1,000 old people and is reportedly readying a bed for me sometime after we wear blazers instead of costumes at reunion.

"I have been a member of the Princeton Club of New York and the Harmonie Club in New York City for many years and of the Sunningdale Country Club in Westchester County, of which I am a past president and a member of the Board for the past eighteen years. I am also a member of the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club and the Storm Trysail Club.

"Hope and I have enjoyed sailing during our vacations and have sailed all through the Bahamas and the Caribbean, touching at many islands where the only transportation was by sail. We both enjoy sailing very much and most any week-end during the summer we can be found somewhere between Cape Cod and City Island. In addition to crewing on both Class and Handicap boats whenever I am lucky enough to be asked, I have skippered my own sail boat in four Bermuda races; four Miami-Nassaus; the St. Petersburg-Havana and many other blue water fixtures. Hope and I can also be seen almost every Saturday in the Fall in Palmer Stadium—usually between ten yards behind the goal posts and the ten-yard line.

"It has been my privilege to have given the Class of 1935 Award for Distinguished Accomplishment to one of our classmates on behalf of our class since its inception—and the evening of that award is always a proud moment for me."

Married: Florence Albrecht, August 15, 1946

Children: Cathy, December 23, 1944

Steve has been with two concerns since his graduation, first with the Shell Oil Company and now with the Humble Oil and Refining Company, for whom he is Supervising Petroleum Engineer. His business career was interrupted by the war from 1942 to 1946. He was with the Artillery as a liaison pilot stationed in the Southwest Pacific. He resigned from the Artillery with the rank of Major, having earned a Silver Star, a CG Citation, and an Air Medal with five clusters.

Steve's hobby is sailing, and in 1946 he was in a race in Havana on the Tahuna. He is a member of the Houston Yacht Club and the Galveston Bay Cruising Association.

His wife, Flossie, attended Rice Institute and her hobbies before marriage were flying and swimming but since marriage she has dropped flying and taken up sailing.

Gordon writes: "Any biographical material would, I'm afraid, make pretty dull reading. My business career was confined largely to the publishing field with interruption for service in the Artillery during the war. Some years ago, I got into my present business, the Lexol Corporation. We make two consumer products—a leather conditioner and a special soap for washing gloves of leather, wool and fabric. We are doing nicely and have grown steadily during the past six years, but—to those classmates employed by large firms who have always dreamed of a little business of their own—it's not quite a bed of roses. To be sure, you're your own boss but there's a lot of responsibility and somehow you don't find yourself taking all the time off you thought you were going to be able to.

"My hobby or recreational activity is definitely and exclusively sailing. In fact, I'm probably quite a bore about it. I am not a racing sailor in the league with Jack Brown, Cox, et al, but prefer through lack of funds, time and know-how the pleasant relaxation of cruising on the waters of Long Island and Vineyard Sound in a thirty-seven foot Dutch-built yawl which I hope I will own forever.

"Then, too, I'm pretty proud of my children. My daughter, Sandra, graduates from Goucher in 1959 and married George Garrett of Chestnut Hill on June 26. My son, Bruce, graduated from Pingry and he entered Williams last Fall. At Pingry he was captain on the football team, played varsity hockey and lacrosse and even managed to achieve a reasonably good scholastic record."

Last stint was with National Pressure Cooker of Eau Claire, and after returning settled down here, married, and found a small, dying business known as the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company in 1952. Spent most of the next seven years trying to revive it, and to the exclusion of all else. I must have succeeded because the business has expanded, and we are just

Jeramy, February 2, 1943

John writes: "Construction has been my business from 1935 to date, specializing in quality apartment buildings on New York's East Side.

"The only departure from that particular field took place during the 1940's when we built 300 single family homes in Stamford and 1,000 in East Hartford, Conn., having been requested to do so to help alleviate the housing shortage created by the rapid expansion of United Aircraft and other industries early in World War II. During the same period we also built K.D. barges and prefabricated hospital barracks which were shipped to the Pacific by the Army. The latter were urgently needed and I am proud to say that we were the only contractor in the country to deliver on schedule.

"I returned to New York in 1945. We have completed several apartment buildings since then. Something new was recently added when we were engaged as consultants for the Lincoln Square housing project adjoining the Performing Arts Center just being started north of Columbus Circle in New York—an exciting development which will revolutionize that entire section of the city.

"Hobbies are golf, fluke fishing in Long Island bays, strictly amateur bridge, charrnig steaks, and traveling.

"Susie and I have been very happily married all these years. There seem to be no adverse effects from raising three youngsters and participating in too many community activities (list upon request).

"Our elder son, John, Jr., loves the West and is a student at the University of Colorado; our second son, David, is now Princeton Class of '63 after an outstanding record at Lawrenceville; and our daughter, Jeramy, is doing a first-rate job in all respects at Emma Willard. Insurance Company Executive

Home: 61 High Ridge Road, West Simsbury, Conn. Tel. OL 8-4680

Business: Aetna Life Insurance Company, 151 Farmington Avenue, Hartford, Conn.

Married: Elizabeth W., September 21, 1941

Frances B., February 1, 1947

Laurie writes: "Having devoted the major portion of the last 25 years to trying to achieve some degree of success in the insurance business, there is probably little doubt but that business activities have constituted my chief interest in life. I am, however, very much interested in my family and also have become increasingly interested in landscape gardening. We live in a relatively small community and I have been interested in community affairs, but not particularly active because of the considerable amount of traveling demanded by my business. My wife is extremely interested and quite active in such community affairs as the Visiting Nurse Association, the Garden Club, and various charity drives.

"I have worked for only one company, the Aetna Life Insurance Company, since I graduated from Princeton and in that one company I have been in only one field—group insurance. I have lived in Detroit, Toledo, and New York City and have now been in Hartford for about 12 years.

"During the Second World War I served in the Naval Reserve for four years. The first two of these years were spent in New York in the Navy Recruiting Station, the Army Induction Center at Grand Central Palace, and in training for 'sea duty.' The last two years I spent on an LST in the South Pacific serving for a short while as Executive Officer and then Commanding Officer. We participated in the D-day landings at Morotai, Leyte, and Lingayan Gulf. At the time of my release to inactive duty I held the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the U.S.N.R.

"I have a very high regard for Princeton and feel that the university is doing an outstanding job—better currently than either Yale or Harvard. My son is now seventeen and I hope that he will enter Princeton in another year or two.

"I sometimes question the benefit that I derived from Princeton, but I suspect that it is much greater than I realize, and in any event I would ascribe any lack to a failure on my part to take advantage of the opportunities offered.

"While in Princeton I was quite conservative in my views on politics and economics. Upon graduation my job almost immediately brought me into constant contact with blue collar workers and for the last 20 years I have had an increasing number of contacts with labor unions and labor leaders. I am anything but an expert on labor or labor relations, but I do feel that I have come to know something about labor and sometimes I think that I understand some of their leaders.

"During my first ten years after graduation my ideas changed in many respects and at one point I believe that I was almost liberal—not quite, but almost. In the last ten years the direction was changed again and I have gradually become quite conservative but not reactionary. I think there is a distinct difference.

"I am sure that I am not at all the sort of person that I imagined I would be 25 years ago when I graduated from Princeton but I am also not at all sure that I would live the last 25 years differently if I had the opportunity to start all over again."

He was at one time National Director of the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers and Chairman of the St. Louis Section of American Society of Refrigerating Engineers. On the civic level he is a Trustee for the St. Louis Country Day School, Architectural and Building Chairman for a two and one-half million dollar new school, a Director of the Metropolitan St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and a Trustee of the Christian Hospital.

During the war he was in the Field Artillery from March 1942 to December 1945. His duty was that of Forward Observer, Battery Commander, and Operations Officer stationed in the South Pacific. He was awarded the Silver Star and the Bronze Star and his rank on discharge was that of Major.

His hobbies are golf, photography, and sailing and he has spent some of his vacations sailing in New England and recently in the Bahamas. He travels frequently both for business and pleasure and has visited Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean.

His wife Gee Gee's activities before marriage, according to him, were "looking for me" and now are "taking care of me." His son, John, graduated from Princeton in 1959.

Ended up as A-2 of 301st Fighter Wing and returned to civilian life in July of 1946. During war years, David P. was born in 1944 and Michael R. in 1945. Sarah O'Meara was born in October 1947. Moved from Garden City to Northport, L. I. in 1946 where we still live.

York (Wm. M. Weaver, P. '34, Pres.). Joined Robt. Gair in 1954 until merger with Continental Can Co. (53,000 employees) and then joined Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. in 1957.

"Recently I joined the Wabash Paper Box Co., in their New York office.

"Business activities take up most of my time, but as a family we spend a lot of time on the water. Own a 'Lightning,' a 'Blue J,' and a 10-foot 'Pram' with motor which permit us a good deal of sailing activity.

"David and Michael are at South Kent and Kent, respectively, in Connecticut, and I hope headed for Princeton. Sarah plans to be a nurse. Grace, my wife, is a poodle fancier and raises miniature French poodles. The rest of her time is spent running a home, and doing school and scholarship committee work in Suffolk County."

Stan writes: "After graduation a distaste for a life in business combined with literary tastes and an interest in ideas led me, after a few years of experimentation, to a vocation as an editor. Major affiliations have been with Little, Brown & Co., Boston (Executive Editor); Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (Associate Eastern Story Editor); and currently as an Editor of the Reader's Digest Book Club, which is now the largest book club in the world.

"My avocational interests have included music, science, and a concern to throw whatever small weight an individual can against man's inhumanity to man and against the kind of chauvinism which places this country at such a disadvantage in a struggle with realists. This concern has led me to an interest in local politics, to missionary work for the United Nations (mainly with children, since their parents are a lost cause), and to the Society of Friends.

"Finally, I have been exceptionally blessed in my marriage. We have three children, including a son, Cutler (9),

We hear from Carson: "Have been at Steelton working for the same company since July 1935. In connection with my work, am a member of the American Iron & Steel Institute, the American Society for Testing Materials, the American Institute of Mining & Metallurgical Engineers, the Engineers Society of Pennsylvania.

"Am a member of the Steelton Rotary Club, the Harrisburg Country Club, the Steelton-Swatara F. & A. M., A.A.S.R. Valley of Harrisburg, Zembo Temple, Past Chairman of Steelton Chapter, American Red Cross, and a member of the First Presbyterian Church. In the church I serve as an Elder and as Secretary of the Board of Trustees.

"Am a Republican and hold the elective office on the Board of Education of School Director.

"As will be noted from the above, my interests—business and social—are deeply rooted in central Pennsylvania. They leave little time for other activities although I retain my past interest in all sports, and particularly in salt water fishing.

"In addition to my wife and two children, I now enjoy being a grandfather, a state I find most rewarding.

"I still think very fondly of Princeton. My undergraduate days were most pleasant, and although I have been unable to return as often as I would have liked, I hope to improve my attendance record in the coming years. I am quite sure the value of my education and experiences while at Princeton have been of great benefit since graduation."

From Bill: "My main interests in life are my family, my business, golf, and music—pretty much in that order.

"My activities outside of business have had to do largely with the game of golf, the record of which, briefly, both as a player and as an official, is as follows:

Springdale Golf Club Champion

(while at Princeton)—1932 and 1933.

Club Champion for five years at Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N. Y., the last win being in 1948. Rochester District Golf Champion three times and in the finals five times, the last win being in 1948.

President of the Rochester District Golf Association one year—1954.

President of Oak Hill Country Club three years—1955, 1956, 1957.

Vice-Chairman of the 1949 U.S.G.A. Amateur Golf Championship Committee at Oak Hill Country Club, and General Chairman of the 1956 U.S.G.A. Open Golf Championship at the same club.

"Since April of 1956, I have been a member of the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association and for the last two years have been Chairman of its Green Section Committee.

"Frankly, when I think of Princeton, I think in terms of opportunities not taken. I suppose many men have the same reaction and wish, as I do, that they could give the experience another try. Unfortunately, we cannot do this, but I have tremendous admiration for the university and the opportunities it presents any young man fortunate enough to be an undergraduate.

"Perhaps the project that engages my most intense and ambitious interest is to help both of my sons more fully appreciate the opportunities they have than perhaps I did when I was their ages. No project is quite so important to me as this one, and yet it is nearly the toughest that I could possibly select.

"As for pet peeves, I am afraid I have to confess to being rather abnormal in that peeves do not play much of a part in my life. I like people immensely and am blessed with wonderful friends. Under such circumstances, along with having been blessed with the finer things in life, including wonderful parentage and splendid associates in business, my main feeling is one of gratitude. Actually it has never occurred to me to wonder if I had a philosophy of life. I am afraid someone more skillful than I must attempt to put such a philosophy into words."

Christopher H., September 29, 1954

Upon graduating from Princeton, Frank went to Harvard, where he got his LL.B. in 1938. Before his present position he was an associate in the law firm of White and Case in New York from 1938-1953. He is a member of the American Bar Association. Frank writes: "As executor of my father's estate I am currently also operating the firm of Frank C. Cheston, manufacturers of electric rivet and metal heaters."

He had two tours of duty with the Army. From May 1942 to March 1946 and from January 1951 to June 1952 he served in the Judge Advocate General Corps. He was discharged as a Captain.

In local activities he is secretary of the Board of Adjustment of the Village of South Orange and a member of the Session of the First Presbyterian Church in South Orange. His hobby is golf and he is a member of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club. His wife, Cele, is a graduate of the University of Southern California. She did publicity work for the Los Angeles Times before her marriage. She is now active in the P.T.A., the Cub Scouts, and is currently president of the Community Toy Bureau of the Oranges.

Business: Dinsmore, Shohl, Dinsmore & Todd, 1218 Union Central Building, Cincinnati 2, Ohio

Married: Shirley Jane, September 4, 1937

Children: James H., July 25, 1939
Virginia Lee, May 7, 1947

"Shirley Jane and I were married at the beginning of my third year of Harvard Law School, which started the first of my main interests in life and about which (because it is family business) I shall say little other than to remark that my happiest times have been spent with one or more and preferably all of the other four, doing such things as: vacation trips to Canada, Sun Valley, and Europe; home musicales, figure skating, and other family hobbies; maintaining house and grounds (and Irish Setters) in presentable condition; etc. I also get a great kick out of playing bridge with and against my opposite number.

"In the fall of 1938 I became an associate in the present law firm, which began the second of my main interests in life. The practice of law has been a complete fascination, interrupted only by two years in the Navy which I might as well dispose of first. It seemed right to avoid anything of a legal nature in the service; so I ended up a "night fighter director" attached to the night fighter and torpedo squadrons aboard the U.S.S. Independence in the Pacific. Enough action, enough fun, and more than enough boredom; but on the whole as good duty as one could find, assuming always that separation from family is inevitable. Plenty of carrier landings in the bubble of a TBM. One Bronze Star.

"I began in 1938 with real estate work and some criminal trial work. Very shortly 'estate planning', tax work, and 'corporation law' were added. After the war, several years were spent on the well known 'portal to portal' suits and in government contract work. There followed specialization in labor law and in the defense of products liability suits, requiring travels to more than a dozen states to assist in trials. Railroad trial work was included, and I am now Assistant District Attorney for the L & N. Then in 1955 came the overseas work and what is now undoubtedly the dominant symptom in the Coates family syndrome.

"In the past four years Procter & Gamble's interests overseas have taken me to Europe eight or ten times and to: Australia, the Philippines, Thailand, Greece, Morocco, Mexico, Brazil, Cuba, and even to such spots as Beirut, Cairo, and Baghdad. In the course of these trips Shirley Jane was able to accompany me on several vacations (for her) in Europe (and at my expense). The thing must be catching, because our children have all developed an active interest in modern languages; and at the moment of this writing Jim is at summer school in Salzburg, Austria and Tom is an exchange student in Argentina. Soon Shirley Jane, Virginia, and I will leave for Cuba.

"You tell me where Princeton has helped the most: Whether it is in my being able to survive in French and German. Or whether it is in meeting fellow graduates and classmates ranging from those present at Governor Stainback's famous Princeton reunion in Honolulu in 1945, to a lawyer in Sao Paulo, to Bish Colemore (P & G Sales Manager in Manila), to men at the American Embassy in Iraq. Or whether it is Sid Johnson or Dinny Dinsmore, etc. in the P & G Cincinnati headquarters. Or whether it is my partner, Dick Deupree '36.

"All these are factors, but to me Princeton has been a much more fundamental and bigger thing."

Alexander S. Cochran

Home: 901 West Lake Avenue, Baltimore 10, Md.
Tel. HOPkins 7-7520

Business: Cochran, Stephenson & Wing, 925 North Charles Street, Baltimore 1, Md.

Married: Caroline Sizer, June 5, 1937

Children: Alexander S., Jr., 1938
Theodore S., 1940
Gill, 1942
Caroline F., 1944

"The fall of 1935 saw me in the Yale Architectural School, rooming with Jack Mitchell. There I met Caroline Sizer, a freshman at Bennington. We were engaged the next fall and married on June 5, 1937 in Battall Chapel. Our wedding trip took us to Europe and then to Cambridge, Massachusetts where I transferred to the Harvard Architectural School. The next summer I worked for LaFarge & Knox of New York. Just after the 1938 hurricane our first son Sandy was born in Boston. I finished Harvard the next summer with a B. Arch. '39 and moved to New York to work for Frederick A. Godley, (and lunch at the Princeton Club on Park Avenue).

"In the spring of '40 we moved to Wilmington, Delaware, to help supervise the Nemours Building. There came our second son Ted. I worked briefly with Victorine and Samuel Homsey, Wilmington architects, but the war was coming on, and we moved to Washington, where I was a project planner in the old U. S. Housing Authority for nearly a year. Then in January '42 I found myself fortunately in the Civil Engineer Corps, ensign USNR, in the Public Works Office of the Washington Navy Yard. This was wonderfully busy duty for two years when our third son Gill was born in Washington. Then change of duty took me into Sea Bees, with a year in the Pacific, mostly in the Philipines as a brigade design officer.

"Back home, Lt. Cdr. (CEC) USNR (retired), I had an automobile accident which set me back nearly a year, just as were moving to Baltimore. Here our postwar daughter, Carol, was born. Then I hung out my shingle in Baltimore, alone at first. We built our own present house at 901 W. Lake Avenue, which certainly shocked some Baltimoreans, but happily received an Honor Award at the AIA Chicago Convention in 1952. My office became A. S. C. Associates in 1954. The State Department gave this office the commission for the U. S. Consulate in Nagoya, Japan, where Cally and I had a wonderful short visit in the late fall of 1955.

"In 1956 my practice was joined with that of an old Harvard friend, James Stephenson, to make the present firm of Cochran, Stephenson, and Wing. This is currently engaged in a varied kind of practice of architecture and planning—residential, educational, commercial, ecclesiastical, et al.

"Since the war I have been a visiting lecturer or critic at John Hopkins, Harvard, Goucher, and currently at Pennsylvania. A number of years I have been on the AIA Committee on Education, and recently the Chairman. I have long been on the board of the Baltimore Citizens Planning and Housing Association, and since 1958 on the Baltimore Planning Commission, Chairman of the Master Plan Committee.

"I am, or have been, trustee of Gilman School, Peabody Institute, Lincoln University, and board member of the Baltimore Museum of Art, and the Municipal Museum, President until recently. I have been a vestryman and am a lay reader at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer.

"For clubs: the Maryland, 14 W. Hamilton Street, Century, Cosmos, Sailing Club of the Chesapeake, and the Lake Avenue Swimming, Shooting and Sailing Association.

"Sandy, A.S.C., Jr., graduated from Milton Academy and is in Yale '61; Ted, from Gilman, and is in University of Colorado '62; Gill from Groton '60; and Carol is at Garrison Forest School. We are all still domiciled at 901 West Lake Avenue, where is more than welcomed any member of the Princeton Class of 1935."

Peter B., March 12, 1950

Bill says about his business career, "I had various jobs from chemist to project manager with U. S. Industrial Chemical Company." He was also General Manager of the Industrial Division of Lever Brothers Company. His present position is that of President of Neptune Meter Company. In connection with his business he is a member of the Society of the Chemical Industry, Chemical Market Research Association, National Industrial Conference Board, and American Water Works Association.

During the war he was with the Navy in Aviation Supply from 1944 to 1946 stationed in the United States and in the Pacific. He was a Lieutenant when he was discharged.

Unlike other members of the class, Bill takes his vacation in the winter and usually goes to Jamaica, British West Indies, and Florida and as he says, "Drinks, eats, swims, plays golf (in order of importance)." His wife, Betty, has long associations with Princeton, having had a father and four brothers who were here at one time or another. One brother is Norm Ballantine '35.

Jack writes: "Barbara and I were married November 30, 1940. I was inducted into the Army February 10, 1941 and went to Camp Stewart, Georgia as aide to General Nathaniel H. Egleston. July of 1942 went to Hawaii and was Supply Officer for the South Sector of Oahu. After 18 months returned to U.S.A. to study Japanese at Yale for 6 months for Civil Affairs for Japan and then went to Monterey, California to await orders for Japan. However, the war ended and I was discharged as a Captain, Oct. 1945.

"I returned to Coggeshall & Hicks brokerage firm and attended Pace Institute for accounting at night for three years.

"I travel a good deal in this country looking for investment situations and in 1954 started annual trips to England, Scotland and Holland to call on Investment Trusts that invest in American Securities.

"I have been studying Dutch, a most difficult language, for three years.

"We have three children, Audrey 17, Jay 14 and David 12.

"We all like golf, tennis and fishing.

"I belong to the Essex County Country Club and am Treasurer of the Mastigouche Fish & Game Club in Quebec, Canada, and am a life member of Prestwick Golf Club in Scotland.

"I am currently a vestryman of the Episcopal Church to which we all belong.

"We are Republicans and I am a member of the West Orange Republican Club and spend a good deal of time raising money not only for political campaigns but also for charitable organizations.

"I am now chairman of the Wall Street Division of the Sister Kenny Polio Foundation, and was Class Memorial Insurance Chairman for 3 years and am a member of the Princeton Alumni Association of the Oranges."

"General Theological Seminary, N.Y.C. Class of '53. S.T.B. degree '59. Served in Dutchess Co., N. Y., till '57.

"Permanent home in Winter Harbor, Maine. Major hobbies: Beachcombing or island hopping with outboard runabout; bird watching and gardening; enjoying classical music via records or WQXR FM chain.

"Pet peeve: A.B. degree is the useless degree, except for pre-professional school men, or those with family businesses to step into. In depression days did not even have teacher's license. Employers in chemistry wanted B.S. men.

"Solution: Give liberal arts back to secondary schools. By end of freshman year, Princeton men should think of earning a living, getting business training, preparing for C.P.A. or teacher's license, or engineering, or taking the specific specialty courses leading to professional school excellence."

J. Perry, April 4, 1942

Bish writes: "After two weeks of riotous living at ROTC camp, immediately after graduation, Procter & Gamble took me into their fold in July, 1935, and I have been involved in soap peddling ever since. My first few weeks in this business were spent in getting the 'other fellow's' point of view. I was first assigned to work 14 hours a day in a Bronx, N. Y. dairy-delicatessen, then to a large chain grocery store as a clerk, and finally I was sent or sentenced to two weeks in a Brooklyn wholesale grocery warehouse as a roustabout. After this indoctrination, I was assigned finally to a New Jersey sales territory in October.

"The following May, 1936, Peggy and I were married in New York City, after a long courtship which had started freshman year at college. Our 23 years of married life have been spent in the attempt to raise three kids who have had the usual number of problems and childhood diseases, but who also provided us with those occasional 'extra dividends' by which parents manage to survive the vicissitudes of raising a family.

"The early years were spent in the Metropolitan New York area, living in New Jersey and Long Island. We had a brief spell of six months in 1939 in Baltimore, where we were transferred by P&G, and then back to the New York area. We spent the war years in Garden City, N. Y. I never was called up for active military service, having let my Reserve Commission lapse.

"In 1946 we were moved to Charlotte, North Carolina, where I became P&G's Sales District Manager. We lived there until December, 1952. Charlotte has become our adopted home to which we return each time that we have a home-leave from my Philippines post, an assignment which began early in 1953.

"Our years in Charlotte were closely identified with Christ Episcopal Church, where I served as a Vestryman and was rather active with young people's work with my bride, who also found time to do a great deal in the PTA of the kids' school. I also took part in the usual number of service activities such as Community Chest, Sales Executives Club, etc.

"My interest in tennis has reached its peak since coming to Manila, where we find it possible to play the year round, except for the typhoon and rainy season. Have managed to be a finalist in the Manila Polo Club men's singles tournament one year, and have held the men's doubles title with my partner for three seasons. As we approach fifty, we have learned the happy lesson that your tennis game can improve with playing with your head, instead of depending on slowly deteriorating legs, and only last year did my son finally manage to beat me consistently in singles.

"There is no question but that my four years at Princeton assisted in developing an ability to enjoy living and make a contribution to my work and social activities. That Princeton training has stood me in good stead has been apparent in the more than six years spent in living abroad where one must be more conscious of the need to get along with one's adopted friends who have different views and a completely different way of life."

Constance, June 21, 1953

Barry writes: "After graduation from Princeton where I thought I worked hard, I went to Harvard Law School, where I found out what hard work really was. As a result of running very scared, I served on the Board of the Harvard Law Review for two years and graduated magna cum laude in 1938. That year I went to Washington as law clerk for the late Justice Harold M. Stephens of the Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia. I left Washington in 1939 to enter law practice with Thompson, Hine and Flory.

"In November 1941 I was married to Harriet Curtiss of Cleveland. It is well-known that shortly thereafter there was vast confusion on the part of the military, as a result of which I was notified on April Fool's Day of 1942 that I was an ensign in the United States Coast Guard. This decision by the Washington brass seems to have been made on the basis that I could sail a small boat

(the importance of which I do not yet understand) and a misconceived notion on their part as well as on mine that I could navigate. As a result, I was sent to sea as a deck officer on the U.S.S. Campbell, a Coast Guard cutter escorting slow convoys from Newfoundland to Ireland. We moved our establishment, such as it was, from Cleveland to Boston where Harriet and I saw each other occasionally when we put in to Boston for repairs. Later our beat was changed to the Caribbean and from there to a run from Norfolk to Africa. In 1944 I was transferred to Coast Guard headquarters in Washington and we lived there until the end of the war. Our first son, Barry, was born there in 1945.

"We then came back to Cleveland and Thompson, Hine and Flory, where I have been ever since as an associate and later as a partner, doing principally tax and corporate work. I have published occasional law review articles and participate regularly in tax seminars and lectures. We now have two more sons, Curtiss and Dennis, and a daughter, Constance.

"For several years after the war I participated very actively as a speaker for the United World Federalists and as an officer of its local and state associations. While I still subscribe to its theory, its activities have been crowded out by other jobs, principally that of managing the local Princeton Schools Committee, which is my principal interest. I'm also a trustee of the Citizens'

League, a deacon, and an assistant scout-master.

"Princeton education—I would not be working as hard as I am to get boys admitted there if my enthusiasm had abated. From where I sit, however, I think admission is too difficult, perhaps because our enthusiasm has stirred up too many candidates throughout the country.

"Pet projects—Princeton admissions and continuing education for lawyers. Pet peeve—that you can't learn enough in law school and never find time afterward."

"In July 1935," Jim writes, "I went to work for the investment firm of Wood, Struthers & Company in New York where I spent a little over a year in the statistical department. At this time a group in the same company were organizing a new firm under the name of Wood, White & Company. I joined this company when they started in 1936, working in the bond trading department. It was a bad time to start a new investment business and in 1938 the company went out of existence. After this experience, I decided the future of Wall Street looked unpromising and I joined the sales organization of the Automatic Electric Company, manufacturers of dial telephone equipment for the independent telephone industry. I was in New York for about a year and was then transferred to the main office in Chicago.

"This company supplied a great deal of telephone equipment to the Army and Navy, and it was while with them that I transferred from the Field Artillery Reserve to the Signal Corps. In 1940 the Army was urging Reserve officers to go on active duty for one year and, with a leave of absence from the Automatic Electric Company, I reported for duty with the 51st Signal Battalion at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

"In January 1942 I married Marion Davis Newman, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College. My wife is one of four daughters of Judge Harry E. Newman, Princeton '04 and her brother, Harry E. Newman, Jr., graduated from Princeton in 1940.

"I spent nearly a year as Signal Officer of the 70th Infantry Division training in Oregon and was then ordered to England in 1944 on the staff of General Omar Bradley, 12th Army Group Headquarters.

"In 1945 I returned to civilian life and joined the Kerite Company, manufacturers of insulated wire and cable. I was located in New York for ten years until we opened an office in Philadelphia where I am now District Manager.

"My main interest in life is my family and my business. Our two eldest boys attend the Haverford School where they are doing well. We hope they will have the good fortune to go to Princeton.

"I play a little customer golf and greatly enjoy reading when time permits. We are strong Republicans and members of St. David's Episcopal Church."

Paul Crafft, July 20, 1955
Cyrus Crafft, September 21, 1957

Bill writes: "Following graduation, I spent two years in the Audit Inspection Section of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, working the first year in New York, the second in Chicago. I took my M.D. degree in 1941 at the University of Illinois, and immediately entered the naval service, an association which has continued. I spent the war afloat, on both oceans, but somehow managed to avoid all contact with the enemy, emerging with a chestful of theater ribbons but no action medals.

"Since the war, I've had specialized training in pathology, with emphasis on the pathology of trauma. In aviation medicine, this specialty is applied to the investigation of fatal air crashes. It's in this field that I practice and teach, at the Naval School of Aviation Medicine.

"As soon as I turned 40, I married Jean. Without the strength I built up sleeping till noon every Sunday during my long years of bachelorhood, I don't think I could live through the commotion generated by the kids, beginning daily at dawn. My disposition is often (Jean says usually) lousy, but I survive.

"Our main interests, of course, and most of our time, are bound up in the growing children. Outside interests we share include reading, longhair and Dixieland music, live or on records, plays, Havana cigars, double-crosters, gastronomy, and horse racing. Unshared by Jean is my enthusiasm for following all sports from the armchair. She prefers to devote her time to house plans, interior decorating, and the search for bargains in furniture and odd pieces for the household. These activities are fine with me, but I strenuously shun the do-it-yourself projects often connected with them."

From Al: "I'm afraid this is going to be as brief as a bikini. I've worked in one place, been married to one woman for so long that one year seems very much like the next. Which isn't bad. But it doesn't give me much to write about. You ask about interests. I dunno . . . I read Alsop one day and Lippmann the next . . . I'm devoted to the Democratic party but voted for Rockefeller. I sail (I have a 29-foot Alden Triangle, built in 1929) but don't race or cruise, so aside from getting caught in an occasional Sound (Long Island, that is) squall or fog, nothing to report on that score. I garden and owe everything I am today (as a gardener) to cow manure. I like Stravinsky, Bartok and cool jazz which entitles me to put the initials b-e-a-t-n-i-k after my name, but unfortunately have no beard. I like to read, but spend so much of my reading time reading confession stories in manuscript form that my old eyes will no longer focus on Kant's Critique of Pure Reason. I like to write—but there are so many of these damned questionnaires to fill out! Army? 4-F. Philosophy of life? Keep one jump ahead of the psychiatrist (and don't tell my psychiatrist I said so!).

"As for Princeton, I give, but I don't go. In other words, I haven't yet mingled in any class affairs or been to a single reunion. But I might give in yet. Old age and sentiment go hand in hand.

"My feeling is that when I went there it was still a very limited institution. I felt at the time and still feel that its admissions policy crippled it. The heavy stress on prep schools and the rigid Jewish quota (2% as I recall it) lowered the caliber of the student body—and I think good teachers like to teach good students—with the result that the faculty, though strong in some departments, was spotty. Also the curriculum was on the primitive side. I believe I was a sophomore before we even had a music department. Fine arts came later. And there were no anthropology or sociology courses that I ever heard about.

"The coming of the Institute (Bamberger), the liberalizing of the admissions policy (less stress on the Princeton gentleman—and more on the Princeton scholar), the lifting or at least the broadening of the Jewish quota—all of these have been factors in the conversion of Princeton into a great university—and I'd like my son to go there. Ten years ago I would have resisted the idea!

"So that's me and my ideas in a nutshell. And thanks for the opportunity of sounding off."

Susan Mather, August 6, 1944

Ben is now Assistant Technical Operations Manager for Missiles with Vitro Corporation of America. Before this he was with Koppers Company, Lul Products, Del-Bae Products, and American Bearing Company.

He was in the United States Navy from May 1941 to February 1946 in the Amphibian Command of Bu Ships. He was a Commander at the time of his discharge.

Ben lists tennis and swimming as his hobbies. On vacations in Norfolk, Virginia and Northern Michigan he fishes and loafs.

His wife, Nina, went to William and Mary and, according to her husband, spends her time raising a family and playing bridge. They spent the summer of 1959 in Italy and Germany, and while in Rome saw Hunter Moss and his new bride.

Ben writes: "Now that we have arrived at a medium mature age it appears some of our more influential classmates could give some of the less fortunate but capable members a lift by finding spots where they could afford to associate with the type of person we learned to enjoy and appreciate when at Princeton."

Henry Hayward, Jr., July 3, 1950

Hayward got his B.S. in Engineering from Johns Hopkins in 1935. He worked for the Bethlehem Steel Company in the Fuel Department at Lackawanna, New York; as a Fuel Engineer for the Algoma Steel Company in Soo, Ontario and as an Assistant to the Mechanical Engineer in the Baltimore Gas & Electric Company. He writes: "My occupation requires considerable travel. For business or pleasure I have pretty well covered the U. S. A. and parts of Canada, Mexico, the West Indies and Europe. I visited England, France and Italy on business matters."

His hobbies are photography, hunting and fishing and he spends July or August at Dennisport, Cape Cod and/or the Parry Sound region of Ontario, Canada. His wife is a graduate of Chatham College in Pittsburgh and before her marriage kept busy with hospital work, modeling and art. Her activities now include club and church work, and art.

Children: Ledlie Laird, July 5, 1941

Ann Vaughn, August 24, 1945

Dinny has been with the same company since graduation but has had experience in three departments: manufacturing, sales, and advertising. He now holds the position of Promotion Manager in the food advertising department.

Dinny busies himself outside of business hours by serving on various church committees, working for the United Appeal, serving on the Executive Committee of the Princeton Alumni Association of Southern Ohio, and for the past eight years has served on the Schools and Scholarship Committee.

His war work was in two phases. From 1941 to 1943 he helped set up P. & G. Defense Corporation (shell loading) for U. S. Ordnance Department and, he writes, "as a result I had the doubly dubious honor of being the last Field Artillery Reserve officer to go on active duty, and fired in anger some shells (155 mm) my plant had loaded (they functioned perfectly)." From 1944 to 1946 he was Communications Officer and F.O. in France, the Rhineland, and Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star.

Dinny and his family usually vacation in Northeast Harbor, Maine, where they enjoy tennis, golf and "relaxing in the atmosphere of kerosene lamps." His wife, Sallie, went to the University of Pennsylvania. Her activities, according to her husband, are "tennis and just about everything that can be crammed into twenty-four hours each day."

Carl is a partner in the law firm of Ballard, Spahr, Andrews & Ingersoll and has lived in and around Philadelphia since he got his law degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1938. He worked for a while as Research Assistant for the Pennsylvania Procedural Rules Committee before joining his present firm. He is a member of the Philadelphia-Pennsylvania and American Bar Association and the American Right of Way Association.

He is a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Ardmore where he has served as a vestryman. He was onetime President of the Wynnewood Civic Association, and has held various positions in the United Fund and Community Chest. He has also served as a member of the Princeton Class Executive Committee and as Regional Vice-President for the 25th Reunion.

Carl served in the U. S. Army Field Artillery from January 1941 to September 1945 in the European Theater of Operations. His rank on discharge was that of Lieutenant Colonel and he was awarded the Bronze Star and five battle stars.

His wife, Fran, is a graduate of Vassar and along with him enjoys a game of tennis. Carl arranges his life so that he can take two vacations a year: one in the spring in Bermuda with Fran and the other in July spent with the family at Pocono Lake Preserve loafing, reading and playing tennis and bridge. Fran is afraid of over-emphasizing Princeton to her three sons because if they fail to make the grade they may be very unhappy. Her other Princeton connection is her paternal grandfather.

Pamela Lynn, January 9, 1947

"Since graduation," Pete writes, "I have lived continuously in the Greenwich, Connecticut, area, for the last 18 years at the present address. Our house was built in 1940 and grew in both size of the property and size of the house as the family grew.

"For many years the principal hobby of the family has been in connection with the Riverside Yacht Club and sailing. Some years ago winning sailing trophies was an ambition in which both my wife and I were reasonably successful. Sailboat racing is still a sport we enjoy very much, but we have had a tendency to spread out to various different interests rather than to specialize only in sailing. The whole family plays tennis, very, very occasional golf, does considerable swimming, and enjoys outdoor life, occasional overnight camping. We spend our vacations at South Hero, Vermont, where we have the full advantage of the beauties of Lake Champlain in very rural surroundings. None of the family is political; we do join in social affairs, being reasonably active in school, garden club and yacht club activities. I was formerly a member of the Board of the Riverside Yacht Club, and over the years have been on many committees. At the present time, my chief positions are Chairman of the Grounds Committee and member of the Entertainment Committee. My family attends church regularly although I do not attend so often as I think I should. We all, however, help in the Church Fair, etc.

"Since 1946, when Harry Dixon & Sons, Inc. was started from scratch, I have been active in international trade. Our principal business is in heavy chemicals and raw materials. Our major customers are kraft paper producers in the southeastern states. Prior to 1946 I was Chief Life Test Engineer with the Homelite Corporation during the war, and before that I was associated with a chemical company, the Swedish Import Company, a Wall Street brokerage company, and in real estate development.

"Some years ago, I was active in helping to establish a Princeton Alumni Association of Greenwich, Connecticut. During that time, I was a member of the Board of Directors and helped formulate a constitution and by-laws. This association is very active today and numbers well over 200 members.

"Having been born in England, I was not familiar with American college life prior to entering Princeton and knew very little about what to expect at college. Needless to say, if I ever had to do it again, Princeton would be my first choice. I feel that I gained a great deal from Princeton, not only educationally and through my friends, but through a general outlook on life. I have tried to get back to Princeton reunions and have attended several, although not so many as I would have liked.

"As far as my philosophy of life is concerned, that has been changing steadily during the years, as I am sure it does for everyone. One thing that took me a long time to learn was that everybody has problems, and most people's problems seem worse than mine; so whenever I think I have real problems, I take a look at the people around me and count my blessings—it helps a lot.

"With reference to Princeton, I think that under difficult conditions Princeton is doing an excellent job today."

"After being graduated from Princeton, I engaged sporadically in Manhattan real estate brokerage but was increasingly drawn toward the Army. After serving with the old Fifth Field Artillery for a year at Madison Barracks and with the 1st Division during various up-state maneuvers I finally left for Fort Sill in the fall of '40 and have been in ever since. During World War II I served with the 7th Division in the Pacific. We specialized in assault amphibious operations. The Attu and Kwajalein shows I made with the 49th Field Artillery and Leyte and Okinawa as Assistant Division G3.

"Following a hitch with the Historical Division in Washington, I was sent for three most interesting and agreeable years as Assistant Military Attache in Chile. While there I was integrated into the Regular Army. After returning to the States I had barely time to brush up professionally at Commanche County Cannon College when the Korean 'Police Action' broke out and I visited that unhappy peninsula with IX Corps Artillery. During the spring of '51 I was in Tokyo Army Hospital and Walter Reed for a time but finally left to take command of a battalion in the 5th Armored Division. Later I spent four years based in Washington dealing with Latin American matters and traveling extensively. Since 1956 I have been assigned to our Embassy in Mexico.

"Obviously my four years in Princeton had a great influence on my subsequent career—first in starting me out as an artilleryman and later, as a consequence of having majored in history with the accent on Latin America, causing me to specialize in that area. The job to be done has taken me to most spots between the Straits of Magellan and the Rio Grande.

"At the moment my wife, Rosaire, is much involved in distaff aspects of the diplomatic rat race. Carolita divides her interest between horses and teen age 'deals,' and Pablito is pitching for the Toltecas.

"This has been a most interesting life, so far, and I think that the stakes are fairly important."

Chris writes: "Since leaving Nassau's portals, I have made a career of teaching, with only brief, enlightening excursions into the fields of farming and business. Although it has been my experience to instruct at every level from grade school through the graduate years of college, and to work in part as administrator and coach, my most consistent interest has been the teaching of history to college preparatory students in both public and private schools.

"During the second world conflict, I served as an artillery officer in the First Marine Division, logging two and a half years in the Pacific. I retired while a Major.

"A teacher, of course, always appears to have plenty of spare time. I find I need most of it to preserve the atmosphere of a small farm for the old stone house, barn and few acres we have twenty miles from Philadelphia. When I do take a trip, it's usually on my boat for some Scuba diving with members of my family or of the Submariners Club of Abington. Skin Diver magazine has published my writing about this sport, to which I was first introduced in the South Pacific and have had the fun of following up in the Mediterranean and Caribbean.

"It seems that I always become more involved with the affairs of the community where I am working than with those of my own. My very active spouse, however, more than makes up for my only moderate participation by enthusiastically supporting the efforts of the local hospital auxiliaries, library, League of Women Voters, U.W.F., Bryn Mawr Alumnae, etc. We are rather independent in our politics, but usually manage to vote on opposite sides.

"No matter where I follow my profession of education, one fact always stands as a gratifying challenge—my colleagues and even some students appear to expect something extra in the teaching of a graduate of Princeton."

Charles writes: "Have been living for the past twelve years on a large cattle ranch just below the Oregon border, which we also maintain as a private wildlife refuge.

"We have constructed seven lakes which attract, each autumn, some 100,000 migratory waterfowl. Two more lakes are contemplated. This entire cattle ranch-wildlife refuge received national publicity last year (1959) through a picture-and-text treatment in Sunset Magazine.

"Spend my time at a minimum of ranch chores, devoting maximum effort to reading, listening to music, and watching wildlife.

"As philanthropic activities, supervise a training program for guide dogs for the blind, and lecture widely on the subject of wildlife and natural resource conservation.

"Do spasmodic writing—maintaining a weekly newspaper column—and have published stories, chiefly on wildlife subjects, in such divergent magazines as The New Yorker and The Reader's Digest. Plan to do much more writing in the future, leaving ranch activities increasingly in the hands of others. Will also travel more extensively.

"Have not been back to Princeton since graduation but admire the university for its apparently continued effort to promote a rounded, cultural education in the face of what I myself consider a current overemphasis on social and economic conformity and purely technological accomplishments.

"I value, above all, a simple, close-to-the-soil, and relatively isolated life, and have never installed either telephone or television. Have found nothing to equal the inspiration afforded by great literature, great music, and the world of nature.

"Have, of late years, become interested in Zen Buddhism."

"The request for an autobiographical sketch has come at a time when I have been taking inventory of myself. My wife died of a recurrence of cancer in early 1959, my two daughters are half a world away at school in Scotland ten months in the year, and my business partner has been a political exile for the past sixteen months. These abrupt changes in such close associations have made me count my blessings, and I am starting out on my new life with faith and courage.

"My business life has always been insurance, and since November 1938 I have worked with and for American insurers in Colombia and Venezuela. I am proficient in Spanish and dabble in other Latin languages. My social life has centered on our small family and a few close friends, and as a rule I am spared business entertaining and cocktail parties. Although I had spinal arthritis and my movements were handicapped from 1941 to 1947, I am now able to enjoy golf, bowling, swimming and an occasional game of tennis. Living abroad has obliged me to retire from politics and campaigns—one of the advantages of my life as a foreigner.

"I guess it is accurate to say that the Earles are considered people of a certain 'position' in the English speaking community of Caracas. Mrs. Earle had an extraordinary personality, was very widely loved and a leader in church, school and cultural activities. My reputation is that of a successful business man. I have held many church offices, and have been a Director of the Caracas YMCA for ten years. My aim in life?—to be a better Christian each day."

Chevy writes: "After graduation I went into secondary school teaching and was a master at South Kent School, Wooster School, and the Thacher School. The pre-war period also included a year on a fellowship at the Graduate School in Princeton and a year in business. In 1942 I was commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve and served until 1946, ending up as a lieutenant. My longest periods of duty were as an armed guard officer in the Pacific and as a base operations officer at an airbase in Palawan, P. I.

"After the war I returned for a short time to Thacher and then decided to make the leap to college teaching. I spent the years 1947-49 at Princeton as a graduate student and assistant in French and received my Ph.D. in 1950. In the fall of 1949 I joined the Division of Modern Languages at Brown and I am still here, with the present rank of associate professor and administrative duties as supervisor of underclass instruction for all modern languages. We spent the year 1950-51 in France on a Fulbright Award, and earlier, 1957-58, we were in France on a Guggenheim Fellowship and another Fulbright Award for Advanced Research. In 1957 the Princeton University Press published Mirage in the West, a study of French opinion of American society, and there have been articles, etc. in a variety of journals, mostly in the area of Franco-American relations. While officially my subject is French literature, I have wandered a bit into the areas of history, the history of ideas, political philosophy, etc.

"While I was in prep school teaching I managed to keep in pretty good shape with the various sorts of coaching, and riding, skiing, and tennis for recreation. Since going into college work—apart from a few years as amateur coach of the Brown crew—my outdoor activities have been confined to a bit of sailing, swimming, loafing, quahoging, etc. at Wellfleet on the Cape, where we have a small place and spend the summers.

"Teaching, research, writing, my family, travel, and the place on the Cape have not left much time for other activities, except that I have continued in the Naval Reserve, in which I am now a commander.

"As to Princeton: It did a good job for me and I think it is doing a good job now. If I have a minor criticism, it lies in the hope that the university will not be much longer in finding a permanent solution to the club problem.

"As to my 'philosophy of life' — in this space I can only say that I try, not always successfully, to remain independent, liberal, and honest in my thinking, and that I contemplate the future with an increasing sense of disquietude."

Bill writes: "Following graduation I had a brief try at newspaper circulation work with the old 'Brooklyn Times-Union'. Deciding there was no long-term future in a seven-day-a-week job, I went to work for Manufacturers Trust Company of New York in September 1935, staying with the bank until early 1947 except for thirty nine months service in the Army during World War II.

"My military career started on October 23, 1942 when I entered the Army Air Force as a Private at Camp Upton, New York. I spent an interesting year and a half at Randolph Field near San Antonio, Texas, and the remainder of my time with the Sixth Air Force in the Caribbean Area. I was discharged a Staff Sergeant on January 28, 1946.

"On resuming my career in banking, I returned to Manufacturers Trust Company for a year and then spent another year with a small New York bank, the Pennsylvania Exchange Bank.

"In January 1948 I broke away from banking and entered the textile business with Textron, Inc. as a credit man and financial analyst, leaving there after five years as a result of the closing down or 'spinning off' of several divisions.

"In March 1953 I accepted a similar position with The Cuban-American Sugar Company, producers of raw and refined sugar in Cuba and Louisiana. At the present time I am Credit Manager, Cashier and Assistant to the Treasurer, as well as a Director of Almacenes Marina, S. A. and Compania Agricola San Sebastien, S. A., two Cuban subsidiary companies. I am also a Director of Estey Schools, Inc., New York City.

"My extra-curricular activities have included five years working in the regional organization of the Princeton University Fund—two years as a regional chairman—as well as fund-raising for The Cathedral Of The Incarnation (Garden City, N. Y.). Like a good many contemporaries, I am interested in Little League Baseball, and am Cubmaster of Cub Pack 77. I am also a zone chairman in the Garden City Community Fund.

"For relaxation I play an occasional game of very mediocre golf, badminton, swim, fish and garden. I have also, of necessity, become something of a do-it-yourself home repair specialist.

"My Princeton education has been a source of great pride to me, and it is my hope that my son will some day follow my footsteps to Tigertown."

From Barney: "1. Main interest in life: Mostly 'whatnots,' if you construe the term broadly.

"2. Career and/or careers: After a year of graduate work in the School of Public and International Affairs, five years in New York's business world (with the Bull Steamship Lines), two more years of graduate study in history (back at Princeton of course), and writing (after World War II) a dissertation on a hitherto overlooked but significant part of our colonial past, I went out for the second time into the cold, cold world, armed now with a Ph.D. After teaching at the University of Maine and writing some pieces on maritime history for the War Shipping Administration during WWII and later teaching at Amherst College, I arrived in Washington to help the Army write its history of the war. That was in 1949 and here I have been ever since. My doctoral thesis won the Carnegie Fund Award of the American Historical Association in 1954 and was published under the title Messrs. William Pepperrell (Cornell University Press, $3.50).

"3. Thoughts on Princeton: All I know is what I read in the Alumni Weekly! Though it does seem to me that the undergraduates are getting younger every year. It is no doubt a tribute to Princeton's reputation that my son refuses to consider any other college for himself, and this without the slightest attempt on my part to influence his views in that direction.

"4. (Give me until our 50th to work up a 'philosophy of life'.) A couple of pet projects—historical in nature—clutter my study desk at this moment. No pet peeves except answering questionnaires when I should be busy organizing the family so we can get started on a long awaited vacation."

Tom went to law school at the University of Wisconsin and was admitted to the bar in 1938. For eleven years he practiced law in various capacities. His first four years consisted of general practice in Portage, Wisconsin, then followed four years of employment by the Office of Price Administration and finally three years in a large firm in Milwaukee doing almost entirely corporate work.

He writes: "In 1948 I was asked to run for attorney general of Wisconsin on the Democratic ticket and did so primarily because the other candidates and people moving into the leadership of the party at that time were young and vigorous people in whom I had the greatest confidence and whose efforts I desired to aid. Much to my surprise, I was elected attorney general and served in that office in 1949 and 1950.

"In 1950, with considerable misgivings, I decided not to run for re-election, but to run for United States Senator, and this time there was no surprising victory. In 1951 and early 1952 I was United States attorney for the Western District of Wisconsin, and in 1952 was again a candidate for United States Senator because of my conviction that it was necessary to make every effort to defeat Senator McCarthy. This effort was also unsuccessful, although it came substantially closer to success than any other Democrat in state-wide contests. The succeeding four years were spent in general law practice in Milwaukee, attempting, without great success, to repair financial wounds. In 1956 I ran successfully for the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, succeeding my father who had been a justice of that court for twenty-six years.

"Since January 1957 I have devoted myself pretty completely to the work of the court, except for the speech-making and community activities which are always incidental to public life and except for some very pleasant activity in the summers of 1958 and 1959. In 1958, and again in 1959 I was a part of the faculty of a summer educational program for highly selected high school junior boys held on a ranch in California. In 1958 the august title was 'Science and Human Values' and in 1959 was 'Individual Liberties in the Nuclear Age.' Besides being pleasant, intellectual activity, the summer program affords an opportunity for all the family to enjoy beautiful desert and mountain country in central eastern California."

"The span of law practice was interrupted by a four-year military stint. Upon being drafted I took basic training at Fort Bragg and went through OCS at Fort Sill. I spent two years in the Pacific (New Caledonia and the Philippines). The "combat outfit" I was with for almost all of this time had the most mercifully placid existence, I am sure, in the history of the profession of arms, and most of my memories of these years are fond ones. Check with Jack Kelly, '36!

"In 1949 I left Wilkes-Barre and private practice to go back to the Philippines with the Philippine War Damage Commission. I've been a government lawyer ever since. When PWDC wound up in 1951, I went with OPS, which folded in 1953. In 1954 I went to Saudi Arabia to try to write some legislation

After receiving his bachelor's degree, Rog continued his education with post-graduate work at the California Institute of Technology. He joined his father and brothers in the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company in 1936. After serving in several sales positions with the company, he organized and became president of a new subsidiary, the Firestone Rubber and Latex Company at Fall River, Massachusetts in 1938. At this time the war intervened and he received a commission in the Naval Reserve and served for two years in the Bureau of Aeronautics. During the last eighteen months of the war he was assigned to the office of Chief of Naval Operations, logistics planning division. His rank on discharge in 1945 was that of Lieutenant Commander.

Upon re-entering civilian life Rog became President of the Firestone Aircraft Company and manager of the new products department of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company. He held these positions until 1947, when he was elected President of the Firestone Plastics Company in Pottstown, Pennsylvania. This position he still holds.

of both the National Executive Board and the Regional Executive Committee of the Boy Scouts of America. He is a member of the Board of Trustees and a Director of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, a member of the Manufacturers Association of Montgomery County, a member of the Board of Managers of the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, a member of the Board of Trustees of Lincoln University and of the Episcopal Academy.

The Firestones summer at Fisher's Island and while there fish and play golf besides just enjoying themselves. Roger is an ardent fisherman and holds memberships in the Cabo Blanco Fishing Club in Peru; the Cat Key Club; the Key Largo Anglers Club and the Atlantic Tuna Club. He also belongs to several golf clubs, one of which is the Augusta National Golf Club.

Roger writes: "I do not know of anywhere else where I could have received a better college education or experience, and am delighted to have my son Peter an undergraduate at Princeton. I find that everyone has the happiest life when he can contribute to the welfare and happiness of others to the best of his own peculiar abilities and inclinations."

"After graduating from law school," Paul writes, "I was married to Elizabeth Ann Baker of Montclair, N. J. I spent three years working for the law firm of Lindabury, DePue & Faulke in Newark, N. J., and then four years in Washington, D. C., with the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice and the Board of Economic Warfare, trying primarily to engender a little competition in the Pullman and stainless steel industries.

"My wife developed such bad asthma in the Washington damp that we moved to California to dry out. I spent four years as an Assistant U. S. Attorney in Los Angeles. Then we moved to northwestern Nevada to raise the family where there was some room, and for four years we were in the cattle business and lived the ideal physical life. The schools drove us back to the city, to stay.

"Presently I am practicing law in Los Angeles with William F. McKenna (Yale Law School). We represent mostly savings and loan associations, a booming industry in a booming area.

"I suspect that I have taken and passed more different bar examinations (four) than any other lawyer in the class, a dubious distinction.

"Our children are starting to go their own ways. My eldest boy, Peter, is at the Sorbonne. My eldest daughter, Betsy, has entered the Discalced Carmelites, a cloistered community. We pray the other children choose as well."

Married: Frances Pughe, October 26, 1957

Craig writes: "Ever since graduation I've been with the Knickerbocker Mills Co., a family business dating back to 1842; at the present time I'm Vice-President and Treasurer and a Director. The firm imports and processes industrial spices from the four corners of the world for specialized end uses in manufactured food and drug products; consequently, travel and photography have been quite natural hobbies for a long time. Between war, business, and pleasure, I've been to a minimum of 55 foreign countries in every section of the globe and have several thousand nostalgic color slides to refresh my memory.

Perhaps the war part should be clarified—I was at sea with the Navy in the Armed Guard in the Atlantic, Arctic, and the Mediterranean, ending up World War II as a Lieutenant.

"At home, in addition to being involved in the usual church and charity drives, I was formerly Treasurer of the Montclair Princeton alumni group, and on the 1935 Class Executive Committee.

"In spite of a long and happy bachelorhood, I finally got married in 1957 to Frances Pughe. Franny went to Smith and is active in their scholarship work in Montclair, plus the Red Cross, plus the Junior League, of which she is a member of the Board.

"Togetherness is served by tennis, which we play and enjoy together; apartness is fostered by golf, which I play and enjoy with various nondescript male companions (Franny prefers being a golf widow to using a little golf club to hit a little white ball around a large amount of greensward into a little hole). All of this usually transpires at the Montclair Golf Club."

Tom got his law degree from Loyola University in Chicago in 1948. Before his present job he was Vice-President of New Foods Company and Secretary of John L. Kellogg & Co. (instant coffee manufacturer), both in Chicago. He is now the surviving partner of a law firm. He is a member of the American Bar Association, the Illinois Bar Association and the Chicago Bar Association; a member of the Board of Directors of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind; a member of the Board of Directors of the Mrs. Frank J. Lewis Milk Fund of Chicago, and a former member of the Board of Directors of the Illinois Club for Catholic Men.

He was in Panama, Australia, Iran, Iraq, India and the Suez Canal with the Army and has been to the British Isles, Europe and Russia. He also attended the Convention of the American Bar Association held in London in July 1957.

His wife, Kathy, attended the Julliard School of Music and before her marriage conducted her own school of dancing for children in Jackson Heights and Nyack, New York. She is now President of the Illinois Opera Guild and Corresponding Secretary for the Chicago Drama League.

About Princeton Tom writes, "After being out of school for almost 25 years I am constantly amazed at the loyalty of Princeton alumni at this distance from Princeton. Despite the fact that it is becoming increasingly difficult today to get a crowd for any kind of a club, lodge or organizational meeting, every Princeton event I attend here in Chicago is not only well attended, but in fact is generally oversubscribed."

About his war experiences he writes, "I was in Army Ordnance sitting at a desk signing contracts from 1941-1943." He was a Captain upon discharge and his civilian war activities consisted of "entertaining wives."

Alb and his wife and family spend their vacations cruising to New England on their boat, and he says, "spending money I ain't got."

Alb has summed up his autobiography in flawless iambic dimeter:

in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, became a bit cramped as the family grew, and we then moved to Chatham, where we have lived for about ten years.

"I have spent as much time as possible with my family, and have adjusted my activities accordingly. As regards athletics, they are on a somewhat piecemeal basis—a little tennis, a little golf, a little swimming—generally with the family. This rather limited program has proved to be quite sufficient, as the usual do-it-yourself projects seem to consume much of the time at home.

"My wife attended the Lincoln School in New York, and graduated from Sweet Briar in 1940. She is active in the alumnae affairs of the college. We number many of her Sweet Briar classmates and their husbands among our closest friends.

"Our nearness to Princeton has made it possible to get back to a good many football games, as well as on other occasions during the year. I have been able to be at most reunions, and have served on the committees handling our 15th, 20th and 25th. Other Princeton activities include a term on the class Executive Committee and some work on Annual Giving in Chatham.

"It would be difficult to say whether or not Princeton has had a direct effect on my business career. It is certain, however, that the Princeton friendships have made life more worth living. I believe that such satisfactions, which seem to come more naturally to Princeton alumni than to others, are not to be criticized. They certainly are not substituted for other worthwhile activities of life but are, rather, in addition to them."

Tom did not start out in the ministry, but tried his hand at business first, working for B. Altman & Company in merchandising and for the Lux Clock Company in sales management. He finally gave this up and studied for the ministry and got his S.T.B. in 1953.

He was in the Navy during World War II as a communications officer on an escort carrier in the Pacific. His rank on discharge was that of Lieutenant. He went to Australia and islands of the mid and south Pacific during his tour of duty.

He and his family spend the month of July either at Maine or at Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts where they swim, read, exercise, and relax. His wife busies herself with PTA, Girl Scouts, United Church Women, and volunteer hospital work. Tom says about her, "She writes good poetry, has good taste in music and cooks divinely."

Of Princeton, Tom writes: "I am grateful that I was given the chance to continue my education after some business experience. I was too young, too immature, to appreciate Princeton, but the experience seeded a respect for learning that grew up later. Maybe others might be discouraged at the prospect of continuing to study, but I think it most exciting, and would dread only to fall into a groove in the twenties and to keep in the same track of thinking and being.

"Being so close to Harvard (pardon the expression) at present, I can see the obvious similarities, and it is thrilling to realize the worlds that are being offered to students. I am glad that Princeton is all the more stressing the disciplines of the mind so that her men will typify 'whole' human beings."

Richard H., 1951

Bill writes: "From 1937 to 1942 I engaged in various phases of newspaper work, starting as a salesman for Vogue's Address Book (classified section) with mustache and derby, then on to the Ft. Wayne Journal-Gazette as a cub reporter covering the social activities of the Red Men, Lions and other lodges sans the sartorial splendor, and finally into a full-fledged 'beat' covering City Hall and state politics for the Indianapolis Times. Along the way, via the tennis courts, I met an Irish gal by the name of Jane Hennessy who had come by her journalism through Northwestern U. I had bought the Dunkirk News, a struggling weekly of 1,000 subscribers, located 70 miles northeast of Indianapolis, and was due to take it over December 1, 1938. We were married on November 26 and after a four-day honeymoon arrived by bus just in time to assume our dual roles as society reporter and editor for the first edition, establishing residence in an apartment above the corner grocery store.

"It was still struggling, as was another weekly we had picked up along the way, when the Army called in August 1942, two weeks before the birth of our first child, Janey. Three and one-half years of service comprised mostly training to be an instructor in automobile mechanics and general orientation work. Before separation I had acquired sergeants' stripes and a certificate as an expert on venereal disease control. Late in 1945 our second child, Pamela, was born, and thus ended the matriarchal phase of my career. In 1949 our first boy, Bill, Jr., was born, and in 1951 our last child, Richard.

"From 1946 to 1953 I was an active participant in Republican Party politics and red raspberry growing with fair success in the former, being elected to the Indiana General Assembly and subsequently Treasurer of the State of Indiana. As a young (38) newcomer to politics, my victory for the nomination at the state convention over the hand-picked organization candidate was as surprising as my later acts as Treasurer of State. This included being the first such official in the history of Indiana to redistribute the hitherto large state deposits concentrated in the city banks on an equitable basis among all the banks in the state.

"With the end of my term as Treasurer early in 1953, I brushed up on my Harvard Business School accounting and hung out my shingle in Zionsville, a rural suburb of Indianapolis, as a tax consultant and accountant. And there the story ends, or begins, but for one additional footnote. In late 1954 I decided I was really more in agreement all the time with the Woodrow Wilson-Roosevelt (both)-Norris liberal tradition of American politics and became an announced and active Democrat. As such I have served variously as State Chairman of the Volunteers for Stevenson and headed two state-wide Dollars for Democrats drives and served as finance chairman of the Marion County (Indianapolis) Democratic organization."

Operating a cattle ranch has been Kel's chief occupation since graduation.

He writes: "The first few years were tough. The ranch was deep in debt, had no credit, few cattle. I spent several winters living in a tent, packed water for myself and the stock, read by the light of a coal oil lamp and cooked over a wood stove. To accumulate money to buy clothes and tobacco, I took 'outside' jobs when work on the ranch was slack.

"One winter I worked for an outfit making a movie. My job was to help care for the 120 head of horses being used in the picture. It was in the winter and plenty cold, but we would feed these horses and get 'em to the place where they were going to shoot the day's sequence before daylight. Frequently this meant leaving camp by 4:30 a.m. and not returning until after dark. All for $5 a day!

"Another winter I got a job working for the State Legislature. Later I became Executive Secretary to one of Arizona's Governors.

"This whetted my appetite for politics and after World War II, in which I served with the Coast Guard and Office of War Information, I was elected to the first of four terms as a member of the State Legislature.

"In 1956 I was persuaded to re-enter public life to help organize a unique research effort known as the 'Arizona Watershed Program.' Purpose of this experimental program is to see how we can get more water from our vast watershed's for the state's fast-growing population and industrial needs.

"The watershed program consumes much of my spare time, but I still run the ranch, with only occasional help during the spring and fall roundups.

"Patty and I and our two boys no longer live in 'splendid isolation.' Our ranch is now on the new federal interstate highway between Phoenix and Flagstaff. Classmates always welcome."

Dick writes: "Before entering Princeton I was reasonably sure that upon graduation I would study law, and many of my courses were selected with that in mind. While 'Jurisprudence' was an excellent foundation and Prof. Corwin's

'Constitutional Law' was much more valuable than the comparable course in law school, I feel that I gained most from the broad background in unrelated subjects offered by Princeton.

"I graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1938, having been elected to the board of the Law Review. I passed the bar examinations with an average mark and was admitted to practice in Pennsylvania.

"After a short period as an insurance adjuster, I became associated with my present firm in the general practice of law. In recent years, my work has been primarily in the corporate field and specifically concerned with anti-trust law problems.

"I had been rejected by R.O.T.C. at Princeton because of color blindness but this did not prevent me from receiving the President's 'Greetings' in December 1942. I had a rather varied but safe career in the Army, having been with the Internal Security and Intelligence Office of the New Cumberland Reception Center, in the Finance Corps for a time, and ending as Supply Sergeant with the 87th Field Hospital on Okinawa. I was discharged in April 1946 and returned to my old firm.

"I have indulged in a number of hobbies from time to time. I am a competent photographer although I haven't been active in this lately. I am a fair woodworker and do-it-yourself handyman, and I have been less than adequate in a number of amateur plays. For the past ten years I have been seriously interested in training and showing dogs in obedience, and I am licensed to judge obedience by the American Kennel Club. As an offshoot I have also become interested in raising gray standard poodles.

"I believe that Princeton has given me a foundation for living rather than making a living and I am glad that this is so. There is always time for specialization later, but the sound introductory knowledge of many fields afforded by Princeton cannot be replaced."

Jack earned a B.S. from Mt. Union College in 1936 and in 1939 he attended the Northwestern University Graduate School of Business, Institute for Management. He has worked as Sales Engineer Steel and Tube Division of the Timken Roller Bearing Co. from 1936-1943. From 1943-1945 he was with U.S. Steel, Columbia-Geneva Division; first as Superintendent of Production Planning and later as Assistant to Vice President of the Utah Operations. From 1954 to the present he has been Manager of Sheet Products Sales. He has been active in the Chamber of Commerce, the American Red Cross and has served as an assistant on personal solicitation for Annual Giving.

Jack's hobbies are golf, color photography, duck hunting and fishing. Until recently he and his family vacationed in Sun Valley, Idaho but lately have gone to Mexico; Santa Barbara and Carmel Valley, California and the Eastern United States. They usually take their vacations in the summer or fall when Jack plays golf, swims and relaxes with his family.

Jack writes: "I am more convinced than ever of the value of a Princeton liberal arts education with emphasis on humanities for training men for executive leadership in business and industry. In the Advanced Management Program at Northwestern University Graduate School to which my company sent me this summer, I found growing recognition of the importance of the Princeton type of education among fellow students comprised of industrial and business managers from all over the country and abroad."

After graduation Gil obtained a D.D.S. in 1939 at Columbia University School of Dental Surgery. He practices in Upper Montclair as well as in Newark, and is a member of the Essex County, the New Jersey State, and the American Dental Societies.

He is a Deacon and a member of the Church Council in the Congregational Church of Montclair. He also worked for several years on the Alumni Fund Drive for Princeton.

He has traveled to the West Coast, to Bermuda, Nassau, Panama, and Colombia, but to the question "When?" he answers "Years ago." The Garretsons vacation during July in the Sea Girt or Bay Head area of the North Jersey shore and spend their time fishing, boating and playing golf.

Gil's wife, Trudy, graduated from North Carolina State University and is a registered nurse. She has this to say about Princeton, "I have always been glad my husband attended Princeton. Socially and intellectually it has enriched our lives with good friends and in striving to maintain, in some measure, a cognizance of the world around us."

Bank Manager

Home: 18 Quai d'Orleans, Paris 4, France. Tel. Odeon 17-04

Married: Margaret Dodge, August 5, 1936

Johnss writes: "It is my good fortune to have a number of interests. Among these are my wife, of course, my business, church affairs, a hospital board, Chamber of Commerce activities, and a variety of other matters. For relaxation I play a mediocre game of golf, and enjoy music and the theater. Having lived abroad almost continuously since World War II, I have a keen interest in international affairs—a source of stimulation which has resulted in the fact that my wife and I have numerous friends and acquaintances of a variety of nationalities and careers.

"After college I went to work for the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Baltimore where I remained until I was ordered to active military duty in February 1941. I stayed in the Army (Field Artillery) until October 1945, having served in England, North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, and Germany. I finished my military service as a Lieutenant Colonel. Decorations included the Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

"In January 1946 I went to work for Pan American Airways and was sent, successively, to Newfoundland, England, and Syria, spending nearly three years in the Middle East. After returning to the United States in 1949, I went to work for the National City Bank of New York in June of that year. Since January 1950 my wife and I have lived in Paris where I became Manager of the branch of the National City Bank in May 1952.

"Our business, community, and social activities in Paris have been, and are, extremely interesting. My wife and I have had very worthwhile experiences serving on various boards and taking part in a variety of community affairs.

"I shall always prize my years at Princeton and take pride in the fact that I was fortunate enough to have the experience which those four years provided. If I were to go to Princeton now, with the experience of twenty-five years behind me, I would alter some of the curriculum which I took at that time and I would concentrate more on languages and on public and international affairs.

"Life brings its joys, its sorrows, its opportunities, its obstacles, its challenges, and its great satisfactions. All of these should, and can, be met with determination and a sense of humor and with a strong effort to use the gifts which one has been given for the purpose of helping to improve the lot of those less fortunate. As one noble bishop recently admonished his congregation, we should think less about adding years to our lives and add a little life to our years."

Bill writes: "Princeton's precept encouraging thorough analysis of each problem has emerged as the nugget which has guided me through Harvard Law School, the depression, the Army, and current battle of meeting ever-increasing tuitions in an era of general inflation. With the youngest of four daughters presently age 8, I am certain that there are at least an additional ten years of bitter struggle in store.

"As the temples gray, there evolves a decided preference for confining social engagements to Friday and Saturday evenings. Much time is also consumed in participating in the welter of activities of numerous corporations which lawyers are ever too prone to join.

"Further institutional disciplines were experienced during post-Princeton bachelor years. The mad cramming to grab an LL.B. at Harvard and to pass the bars was followed by two years as law secretary to a Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice. This proved excellent schooling for five years of National Guard service on extended active duty as General's aide and European GI prison supervisor.

"The post-war years have passed quickly owing to immersion in general practice as a Philadelphia lawyer, work in the Army Reserves and striving for more time with a growing family. Aside from the customary Army ribbons and an appointment by Governor Chandler as Kentucky Colonel, no high-sounding honors have been the lot of this plodder. It is hoped that by the 50th most of life's burdens will be over and the weekend can be one of complete relaxation and enjoyment."

"My predominant interest is to give my children, insofar as possible, a sound Christian outlook on life. In attempting this, naturally the association of our family life with the Church and schools stressing strong Christian ideals and the American heritage is of paramount importance. I have also tried to conduct my business and other activities with these ends in view.

"Since graduating from Princeton my entire professional career has been in the insurance field except for a gap of five years in the Army during World War II. Although originally a New Yorker, my business career started in Boston and with the exception of a two-year return interlude to New York, my roots are now fairly firmly established in northern New England. From our home here in Goffstown, near Manchester, N. H., we visit Boston quite frequently and New York on occasion. During the years since graduation, in addition to extensive study in the insurance field, I have taken graduate courses in law and business at Boston College and Boston University. As a Major in the Army Reserve I have also maintained my interest in Reserve activities and the Reserve Officers Association. My wife, Peggy, although burdened with a growing family, has been active locally in teaching and other activities.

"Frankly speaking, my interest in Princeton has been rather remote during the postwar years, although I follow any information in the Alumni Weekly and the press. It is always a source of real enjoyment, though, to see any of my old classmates and renew lasting friendships.

"This is more than enough in retrospect. Let us now look to the future and the training and education of our children in sound Christian principles. We Goodwins feel, as we imagine all Princeton '35 families do, that the next 25 years will be even busier and more fruitful than the last 25. We will strive to make the most of them."

Harold writes his autobiography: "Harold N. Graves, Jr., was born in Manila in 1915 and came Stateside the next year speaking bits of English, Spanish and Tagalog. He settled in Washington, D.C., and, having received the Harvard Book award in high school, naturally entered Princeton. He dwelt in McCormick Hall as an architecture major, was on the fringes of the golf squad, joined Key & Seal and graduated sine laude. He got a M.Sc. degree in journalism from Columbia in 1936. After a stint at The Literary Digest, he became an associate editor of Pathfinder, a weekly news magazine published in Washington.

"In 1939 he became Director of the Princeton Listening Center, a project of the School of Public and International Affairs for receiving and analyzing international radio broadcasts.

"He was drafted early in 1941 to establish the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service in the Federal Communications Commission, and served with FCC until the summer of 1943, when he joined OSS. He served as an operational planning officer in Washington, Ceylon and Thailand, graduating as a Lt. (jg), USNR, again sine laude except for an Order of the Crown (3rd class) from Thailand.

"In 1946, he joined the Washington bureau of The Providence (R.I.) Journal and Evening Bulletin, and was the only cub reporter at the Paris peace conference that year. Since 1951, he has been Director of Information of the World Bank (International Bank for Reconstruction and Development), and has visited five continents on Bank business. He was one of the 2% of '35 to switch from Republican to Democrat during the first 15 years out, and his wife, Judy, a girl from Missouri, has been a Democrat all along."

From the time of graduation until January 1940 when the President sent Fred his "greetings," he practiced with Smith, Hinchman and Grylls in Detroit the architecture he had absorbed in McCormick Hall. He first served in the Army in Infantry. He then trained in England in Military Intelligence with the 29th Division and participated in the Normandy invasion on D-Day. He then found himself in O.S.S. with which he remained in France until after VE Day when he was discharged as a Major. The French gave him a "Croix de Guerre" for the work he did at the time of the liberation. He remained in intelligence business in Washington right after the war for a short period and then returned to his business in Detroit.

Then, Fred writes: "When in time an opportunity offered itself to combine my vocation, architecture, with my avocation, history, and also to live in the country, yet near Washington, it seemed too good a thing to pass up, so I entered the still new historic-house-museum field as Director of Gunston Hall in 1954.

"This beautiful house, built in 1755 by George Mason, author of the Virginia

Declaration of Rights, advisor to his neighbor, Washington, friend and mentor to Jefferson, has been restored by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America and is open to the public daily. Its gardens on a bluff above the Potomac are among the finest in the country, the original boxwood having been planted by Mason. I find my varied duties very stimulating: publicity, research, teaching—and learning—the chance to do a little writing and considerable speaking to various groups about one of the most influential, if little known, of the founding fathers whose ideas and ideals seem especially important today.”

"In June of '35 I joined Douglas L. Elliman & Co. in New York City where for a year and a half I applied my architectural training and family background in real estate and construction as a real estate salesman.

"In 1936 I joined an English cosmetic firm, Cyclax Ltd., as Vice President and Treasurer of their American subsidiary.

"In 1940 I went on active duty as an officer in Naval Intelligence, initially in the 3rd Naval District as a personnel administrator and subsequently in anti-submarine warfare on the Eastern Sea Frontier and in England. I was released in 1946 as a Lt. Commander.

"I rejoined Cyclax of London after the war and spent much of my time in sales promotion throughout North and Central America. In 1949 I left Cyclax and started my own management consulting firm in New York City, serving clients in many varied fields and starting or investing in enterprises such as employment agencies, oil drilling operations, chemicals, real estate and construction. Since 1954 I have devoted my efforts to land development and residential construction and design, and am principal officer of S.A.L.E.S., Inc., P.R. Homes, Inc., and Bryant Halsey Better Homes. I am a member of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) and Director of the New Jersey Home Builders Association as well as of the Somerset and Morris Home Builders Association. I am also proud of the fact that we received the Better Homes and Gardens Award of Merit for our 1957 Idea Home.

"In 1950 I married Joanne Undine, a graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Music, who at the time was a promising recruit for the Met. For four years we divided our time between a flat in New York City and our houseboat on Manhasset Bay until our oldest daughter Hilary showed signs of wanting to be a mermaid which prompted us to move to a spot where there was more beer in the beer and less water for children to fall into. Our children are our principal hobby and interest, though Joanne continues to pursue her professional singing career and we both take an active part in community enterprises and politics.

"Hilary showed her independent spirit at a reasonably early age by earning her Social Security card when she was six months old so now at the age of 6 years she has already had a rather creditable career in modeling and TV films. Jill, of the innocent look and demoniacal schemes, is forever proving to us there is something new under the sun—and if it doesn't exist she'll dream it up.

"We hope that, in our youngest, we have a potential Princetonian."

David Ross, May 13, 1947

Don writes: "I am a physicist—which means one who communes with nature, one who struggles to glimpse the great invariants of the universe, a follower of humble men like Galileo and Einstein. More specifically, a nuclear physicist: my students, my close colleagues and I measure and meditate upon the 'spins' and 'moments' of radioactive nuclei; in years past we have chased the elusive neutrino; and I have enticed a horde of my peers into the study of 'angular correlations' of nuclear radiations.

"But my love of nature in the abstract combines with a fondness for the human race, that noblest of the phenomena of nature. And so I now find myself surrounded by a perfect family. Pat was a sculptor before she married me in my graduate student days on my 19 dollars a week (part-time teaching) and her 18 (commercial artist); since that happy day, her sculpture has given way to raising three youngsters (the pride of our life) and now to the equally demanding and recently added job of being a dean's wife. Perhaps partly because of the aforesaid fondness for the human race, I now teach young men as a Professor of Physics; and for reasons unclear I now further find myself Dean of the Graduate School at Princeton.

"The past 25 years have been straightforward; graduate study of Physics at Columbia, a Ph.D. in 1939; one year in the Society of Fellows at Harvard, cut short from three years by the war, five and a half years of klystrons and microwave radar (M.I.T. Radiation Laboratory, Sperry Gyroscope Company Research Laboratories, 1940-1946). At the end of the war I squeezed my mind like a toothpaste tube, put the contents in a book (Klystrons and Microwave Triodes, coauthors J. B. H. Kuper, J. L. Knipp), and went back to Physics. Since 1946, Princeton."

From Princeton John went to Georgetown Law School where he earned his LL.B. in 1938. He then joined his present firm and is now a partner. He is a member of the Barristers; the Lawyers Club; the American Bar Association and the District Bar Association. During World War II he was in the Navy as a Gunnery Officer on an Aircraft Carrier in the Pacific. He was awarded seven battle stars and his ship was awarded a Navy Unit citation. His rank on discharge was that of Lt. Com-

John is a Trustee for both Holton-Arms School, Inc. and the Landon School. He and his family summer at Bethany Beach, Delaware where they own a cottage and spend their time swimming, fishing and boating.

His wife is a graduate of Miss Harris' Florida School and King Smith Studio School in Washington, D. C. According to her husband her activities before her marriage were "having a good time" and now "same but more limited."

Dave writes: "Early in February 1933 I went to the Dean's Office and told Freddie Camp that I had eloped and was very much married. I guess that I was pretty excited because Freddie sent a freshman to my room at 133 Holder to ascertain whether or not I had been drinking. It was just plain excitement, however, and when things calmed down I followed the Dean's good advice, took my mid-year exams and drifted into my first days of married bliss with an honorable discharge and no blot on my scholastic escutcheon.

"Twenty-six years, two children and one grandchild later finds me happily married to the same gal; the intervening years, like everyone else's, had joys, sorrows, trials and struggles. I am far more rugged now than on the day I said a dreamy good-bye to Princeton.

"The first nine years I spent in the textile business were most profitable. My family-owned company designed, styled, colored and wove its many materials, and sold them from offices at 200 Madison Avenue in New York City. We pioneered the weaving and coloring of glass thread and were instrumental in setting up Thortel Fireproof Fabrics. During this period I became most active in the community life of Paterson, New Jersey. As I recall, I was involved with eighteen business or social agency jobs at one time—a most broadening experience. Among these experiences, I spent three months as foreman of the Passaic County Grand Jury (age 26 and the youngest on record in the State of New Jersey). For many years I was on the board of the First National Bank of Paterson and Chairman of the examining committee. One of the most gratifying of these experiences was winning the battle with the Board of Freeholders to set up a temporary shelter with psychiatric assistance for first offending juvenile delinquents. I also had the honor of serving as Chairman of the excellent and progressive North Jersey Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"The war years found me handling labor relations and manpower problems for the Air Corps Eastern Procurement District. This Richard Diamond job had me going night and day keeping the embers of labor unrest and misunderstanding from bursting into flame. I made lots of friends in labor and management and lots of enemies.

"With the war's end I returned to my textile business to find that making materials of war, weaving nylon, glass, wire, etc., had depleted our machinery and a survey showed that lack of usable raw materials and a market glutted by cheap Japanese woven goods made it risky and unwise to borrow the vast sums of money to re-equip. Kay's health, the poor outlook, and the rate we were losing money brought about a unanimous family decision to stop. After every worker in five plants had found other employment we moved to Florida in 1949.

"Needless to say, Kay is now a brown picture of health and I must admit that I rarely venture north of the Mason-Dixon line. Until last year I sold real estate in Clearwater, Florida. I was very active in Red Cross work and had the honor a couple of years ago of being named 'Best Fund Campaign Chairman in the Southeastern States.' For eight of these years my greatest interest has been the work of the United States Power Squadrons—teaching piloting and small boat handling to hundreds of enthusiasts here on Florida's west coast. I was made Commander of the Clearwater Squadron in 1956 and now bear the esteemed title of greying Past Commander.

"Then I really put my foot in it. Kay and I purchased a brand-new 42-foot double cabin Matthews cruiser—diesel-powered—with a good cruising range. We have moved from Clearwater and have built a home (complete with boat slip, of course) on beautiful Boca Grande island: population 400."

John writes: "Seventeen years of the practice of law in Seattle were rewarded with a profound respect and affection for lawyers and judges, particularly my brothers in King County, Washington. Yet, for many reasons, I changed to full time teaching two years ago, and this, too, is a fascinating and rewarding life. I was lucky in choosing Iowa, a university with great freedom, dignity, and gaiety; with a diverse and dedicated faculty, and a responsive student body.

"A half interest in a summer place on San Juan Island, in the waters between Vancouver Island and Washington, lures us west, and two sisters and parents on Martha's Vineyard lure us east. Either way, we recapture the sea, which is strangely absent in Iowa.

"Since there is no local sailing, I waste my time on golf-in-the-nineties, gardening, and a great deal of reading.

"My more serious hobby for some time was the chess game of world peace, and I still toy with this, respectfully, from time to time. It is, at present, a worthy avocation for anyone who spent four happy years in a school still misty with the presence of Woodrow Wilson.

"I should like a few thousand more words in which to muse on the fascinating contrasts and similarities between Princeton and Iowa. But, in a sentence, each has much to tell the other; and—football aside—the statements of each relate to the most magic, mystic and terrible of American words—democracy.

"I join in the very real affection of all its members for the Class of '35; and, more particularly, for Princeton—its splendid past, its proud present, and its strange, hope-filled future."

"In a more modest vein, I am an elder of the Third Presbyterian Church, President of the Rochester YMCA and of the Rochester Broadway Theater League and am a Director of the Auburn at Union Theological Seminary.

"I also meet with the Directors of the Rochester Savings Bank and the Security Trust Company of Rochester, the Rochester Manufacturing Company, and I'll meet if asked with anything having the name Rochester in it, as this place is tops. I suppose that I should add that I also meet with the Trustees of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

"My family may not believe it but they definitely and irrevocably come first. With six children and their charming mother looking over my shoulder, what else could I say?

"Next to my wife and children, in the animate line, excluding my friends and former teachers, I like horses. My wife and children also like horses, and these horses like very much to eat (regularly and extensively). We have just completed a barn to house these horses in the Genesee Valley. We also breed horses as well as ride them.

"In addition to riding, all of us (excluding, so far, our latest arrival) like to ski, and we like to do this in the Adirondacks, the Laurentians, and once we skied together in Celerina because my wife is Swiss and she thought this would be fun. It was fun, even though I broke my ankle trying to keep up with my family of howling snow der-vishes barreling down a place under-titled 'Diavolezza.' My wife holds the Swiss silver medal for skiing and the gold medal for skating. Our son holds the gold for skiing and his father holds the international certificate for effort on the slopes above and beyond the call of duty."

Paul writes: "Many things have happened to all of us 35'ers since graduation. I hope my classmates have been as fortunate as I have. The path of medical training led me to Harvard, then to an internship and part of a residency at the Peter B. Brigham Hospital in Boston. During the war I was a Flight Surgeon in the Mediterranean area and returned to become a psychiatrist at an Air Force convalescent hospital in Florida. Continued in psychiatry in Boston for two years, then moved to Fairfield, Connecticut where I am in private practice.

"The most important and fortunate thing that has come my way is my wife, Sibyl Hine Harwood, who, against her better judgment, married me in 1940. We have four wonderful kids: girls of 17, 14, and 9 years and a boy of 11. We are just entering the phase where college and prep school expenses will be rugged for many years to come (anyone else in this boat?).

"Our activities and interests in the community are varied: golf and swimming at the Fairfield Country Club, cruising on a cabin-type stinkpot out of Pequot Yacht Club. Ned Escher, Sam Walker, Chick Weaver and Neil Lebhar are among our friends in these activities.

Occasional ski trips and vacation travels fill out the fun activities. On the service side we are involved in the Eastern Fairfield County Princeton Association, school-parent groups, Rotary Club and, of course, various medical societies.

"In looking back at my four years at Princeton I have a much greater appreciation of the worth of a Princeton education and opportunities for social and cultural growth. I regret I did not take more advantage of what Princeton has to offer than I did. Perhaps I can still reach this goal vicariously if my son Paul chooses to go to Princeton."

Children: Libby Miller, May 14, 1941
Joseph Chalmers, III, May 14, 1941

Joe writes us in his autobiography: "Soon after graduation from Princeton's architectural department, Joe Hazen joined Time Incorporated in New York City as a cub writer for Architectural Forum. He has been on the magazine's editorial staff ever since and today is its Managing Editor. In his professional life Joe is dedicated to cleaning up the mess that is man-made America. His most cherished accomplishments are not so much the awards and reputation he has helped earn for his magazine but rather the friends he has made among the world's great architects and the enemies he has made among the promoters of ugliness. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects and the Architectural League of New York.

"A commuter from Summit, N. J., Joe brings his interest in architecture home with him each night. He is a member of Summit's Planning Board, its Architectural Board of Review, and the Board of Trustees of the local Baptist church which is in the middle of a building program he has planned. His hobbies, too, reflect his interest in design and graphics. He is a Sunday painter whose watercolors hang in the Edgartown, Mass. Art Gallery—and in the living rooms of a modest number of patrons. Other hobbies include photography, woodworking, fly fishing (and tying), sailing, and antique automobiles.

"In 1927 Joe undertook his most significant project: he began carrying Helen Stevens' books to school. The payoff came in 1939 when she married him and, two years later, presented him with twins: Libby and Joe III. Because their father never tolerated the mention in their home of any college other than Old Nassau, both children, of course, eventually applied to Princeton. Joe III was accepted; Libby was rejected. This episode is but a dim reflection of their father's keen interest in Princeton. He was Secretary of his class for ten years and Vice-President for the last five. He has missed reunions only when he was in Europe (as a Lieutenant Colonel in the Artillery) or in California (as a speaker at a UCLA conference on architecture in 1958).

"However, Joe Hazen's ties to Princeton are not all happy ones. He laments Princeton's failure to realize that what makes its campus beautiful beyond equal is not only the architecture of its buildings but also the architecture of the spaces between them. And he deplores Princeton's failure to realize that only the greatest architects are worthy of the responsibility of planning the future of the world's greatest university campus."

Rod continued his education after graduation, earning his M.A. at N.Y.U. in 1939. He then went to work for Merck and Company, Inc. in Chemical and Pharmaceutical Sales in Rahway, N. J. At the present time he is in the automobile business and has transferred his residence from New Jersey to Connecticut. He was in the Infantry from 1942 to 1946 and was a Co-Commander and Division Staff G.I. and was awarded E.T.O. three stars and Commendation Ribbon. His rank on discharge was that of Captain.

He has been on every continent but South America both with his family and the Army. He lists as his hobbies his family, Little League, boating, fishing and "quaffing beer occasionally," but to the question about vacations Rod wants to know, "What vacations?" His wife, Nance, is a graduate of Douglass College and her activities before her marriage, according to her husband, were "growing up. I knew her as a neighbor from the three corner pants stage. (She will want a chance to rebut.)" She now works at the Fairfield State Hospital (Conn.) with top rank among Civil Service staff.

Rod ends his questionnaire with this: "All I have to show for these twenty plus years is a house (owned by the bank), one car (a gift), another (owned by GMAC), a wonderful family, a lot of friends and the memories of 1935. Living next to the 'Bowl,' my son has outstanding dislike for blue, and aspirations for that orange and black in '64 or '65. He's now 12, 5'4", 145 pounds, maybe another tackle?"

"After graduation I attended the University of Virginia Law School for one year and finished my legal education at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, obtaining my LL.B. degree in 1940. Early in 1937 I started to work for The Rust Engineering Company in its principal office in Pittsburgh, primarily doing tax work. In 1941 I became Assistant Treasurer of the company and devoted most of my time from 1941 to 1946 to the financial affairs of the company. I was elected Secretary of the company in 1946 and since then I have been active in legal as well as financial matters. I was elected a Director in 1951 and Vice President and General Counsel in 1952. As can be noted, my entire business career has been with The Rust Engineering Company.

Ruth was an art major at Skidmore in the class of '35. Now that the children have become older she has been able to continue her art studies in Pittsburgh and is enjoying her participation in Pittsburgh's art activities. In addition to my work I have found time to help manage a community kindergarten, to serve on a local school board for five years, to be active for several years in local Republican politics and otherwise to be of some help in community and civic affairs. Our children are fast growing up. Our eldest daughter will go to college next year—probably Denison University in Granville, Ohio.

"As always, I am a firm believer in the kind of a liberal education offered at Princeton and, while I have not been an active participant in its affairs since my graduation, I am most interested in its continued progress. I subscribe to a program of providing adequate physical facilities, but am not in favor of increasing the enrollment."

Ken writes: "After Princeton I earned an MBA from Harvard Business School, married Mary Seaver, and went to work as a statistical clerk for the Mellon Bank. I immediately tried the executive approach learned at Harvard but had to abandon it. War and the threat of the draft encouraged me to join the Navy in 1943, and after some three years on stateside duty I emerged a Lieutenant and returned to the bank. In typical American tradition (at least in banks) I climbed the ladder to become a Vice-President, being presently in the trust department and in charge of trust investments. I am also a Director of National Union Fire Insurance Company, one of our local enterprises.

"Having built a house in 1951, I have since spent more time keeping it together and cutting grass than I care to.

The latter occupation is now being handled in good part by my son, however, and I am using the free time trying to learn golf, which is ruining my disposition and threatening to impoverish me but also promises to keep me competitively abreast of my wife, an ardent golfer.

"My son graduated from Andover last June and entered Harvard despite my efforts in behalf of Princeton. I am a member of the Duquesne, University, and Oakmont Country Clubs, and the monthly statements indicate that we spend most of our time at the last-named place. I cannot point to any great accomplishments since leaving Princeton, but I have been most fortunate in having good health and a fine family and the wherewithal to enjoy both."

2 or 3 of these things at once. I have been formally a student at the U. of Chicago (M.Sc. 1937, Ph.D. 1942, both in physiology); the Institute of Military Studies at that University, 1941-42, ending as 1st Lt. and Senior Instructor, Able Co., 1st En., 2nd Trg. Rgt.; and a part-time special student at the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery (Des Moines). I guess I'm now a student at the Mead Johnson Institute, run by Mead Johnson & Company, for whom I am technical writer, copy writer and medical writer.

"Dorothy is a branch librarian for the County and City governments here, but this does not tell the story of her activities. She's also mother of four girls, three of them in their teens.

"My hobby activities include some acting for the Evansville Civic Theater, most recently as Clarence Darrow in Inherit the Wind—a thoroughly enjoyable experience.

"In 1947 Dorothy and I were accepted as members of the Religious Society of Friends. We have been somewhat active Quakers ever since.

"3. My thoughts on the worth of my education are quite ordinary, I feel sure. My current opinion of Princeton is that it is a good representative of American universities. Since I have no sons, this opinion is (a) unbiased in one respect, at least; (b) pointless.

"4. My philosophy of life is essentially religious. The pet peeves and pet projects to which this philosophy makes me susceptible are as might be expected."

Carol Ann, May 3, 1954

Jim received his law degree at Harvard in 1941. He has lived in and around Washington ever since, and is now a partner in a Washington law firm. He was from 1944 to 1945 the Chief of the Legal Division of the Civil Aeronautics Board. He is a member of the American Bar Association, District Bar Association and the Federal Bar Association.

Jim's hobbies are bowling and hiking. He and his family spend the month of August on Old Mission Peninsula, Grand Traverse, Michigan, where they like to spend their time resting, eating, swimming and listening to ball games on the radio. He is a member of the Board of Stewards of his church.

His wife Janie went to Oberlin and the University of Minnesota and before her marriage was on the staff of the U. S. Bureau of the Budget; staff of International Operations Division of the State Department. Now she has to content herself with raising a family and teaching American Government at Mt. Vernon Junior College. Her uncle, Edward Capps, was one of the original preceptors brought to Princeton by Woodrow Wilson in 1905 and long-time professor of classics.

Jim served as alumni advisor to Princeton's Politics Department from 1948 to 1951. He has written law review articles which were published in various law journals.

Abe writes: "At present writing we are preparing to release the last fledgling from the nest. Family considerations have probably superseded most others since 'the day around the Cannon'. There were less than five, I think, on that memorable day who had taken to themselves a wife prior to graduation. By reason of an earlier beginning than most, the wife and I are at the ending of the teen-age 'Sturm und Drang' period, whereas others are in the middle of it or just entering it. It should also follow, most naturally, that the clan should increase. Almost three years ago on July 12, 1957, little Beth Tormohlen, our first grandchild, was born. Then our first grandson, Gregory William Tormohlen, arrived May 6, 1959. And at this point I hasten to say that Greg, on seeking admission to Princeton in 1977, will have to show considerably more brilliance than his grandfather did back in 1931. That is, if present admission policies continue. A parent or grandfather experiences quite an emotional response to his offspring's getting a 'bid' to Princeton these days. And the greatest of these, I think, is surprise.

"Our boy Bill is in the Air Force in Mississippi, having signed up in January 1959 for a four-year hitch. And our youngest, Beth Hooper, graduates from McCaskey High School in June 1959.

"We have lived in Colorado and the Virgin Islands and are now located in Lancaster. I have specialized in the field of marketing in livestock, now broadening my work to include security investments. I am presently employed full time by Hemphill, Noyes and Co. as a salesman."

At home my chief interest, other than in my good-looking wife and growing boys, is a studious attempt to emulate 18th century patterns of living and decor combined with the luxury of modern plumbing and electrified bar-b-q, a common inconsistency these days. Another problem in my life is an attempt to find a happy solution between my interest in my home and my interest in color photography and the Indians of Arizona, which necessitates frequent cross-country junkets.

"I am not politically minded but now find myself on the Board of Education—a three-year assignment which bids fair to cut into my Arizona Indian interests. Maybe some genius in the Class of 1935 will tell me how to provide expanded physical plant and improved educational opportunity for the elementary school population of Oradell at a cost that will not give the adult taxpaying population the screaming meemies."

"In the 25 years since being at Princeton (it's actually 26 for me, as I left at the end of Junior year) a lot of things have happened in my life. Both good and bad; I wouldn't change it. More or less and in sequence have worked 5 years for Continental Can Co., 5 years for Uncle Sam in the Field Artillery, 9 years farming in Maryland with my own hands and seat of pants on a tractor, and the last 4 years in New Mexico doing 'nothing' but a whole lot busier than ever before. Between 1941 and 1949 I lost my father, my only sister, my wife and my mother. Thus wound up with only kin a niece and nephew, and some aged aunts and uncles. Remarried in 1951 and divorced in 1953. Now married since 1955 to former Ethel Moulton Bond and nothing could be more perfect. Have three lovely step-children and five of their babies to make grandchildren. The youngest of the children is Frank Bond, now 16, who lives with us when he is not off at school . . . namely Governor Dummer Academy, in the fall of 1959. The two married girls and their families visit and are visited, and we are extremely happy. At this point nobody is making much money but we have a lot of fun.

"As for business, I read everything I can get before my eyes and now and then make a turn on the stock market . . . which am glad to tell about. The downturns show up at the end of the year. In real estate, have operated solely for myself and so far have made a few upturns near Washington and other areas where vacant land becomes urban development. I guess have done a part of my share of charity that you ask about. Also for several years I served on the board of Suburban Hospital in Bethesda, Md.

"My comment on the worth of education at Princeton is covered by the 4th Chapter of Proverbs, Verse 7: . . . 'get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding'. The college lays an excellent base for such 'getting'; and whether one continues through the years with knowledge and understanding is purely a matter of personal interest.

"My philosophy of life lies somewhere between the maxim that: 'Labor conquers all' and the old saying that: 'If a blind hog roots around where acorns are, long enough; sooner or later he will find one'."

derie was sufficient incentive to accept a regular army commission in 1941.

"The advent of World War II forced an early departure for the Pacific with service later in the European Theatre of Operations. In spite of being married on the night that the Battle of the Bulge began, the wonderful friendships and variety of interests held me on to continue the service for twenty or more years.

"During these years we have lived in many places of varied facilities. The truly democratic spirit imbued by a Princeton education has been a great boon to living in an ever-changing environment. Carpentry, electrical wiring, plumbing, etc. have been a wonderful extra-Princetonian education as a 'do-it-yourself' hobbyist.

"Margaret enjoys activities similar to mine. Recently we purchased two horses, and she is doing a fine job bringing them under control while I do similarly to a battalion. As all families, we have 'more than our share of disagreements,' but the three children resolve all our problems.

"In reviewing what Princeton has given me and what I have given Princeton, I guiltily feel on the red side of the ledger. I am proud and humble to know classmates who have carried my load. Suffice it to say that periodically I expose the rest of my family to my Princeton spirit with the playing of all the Princeton songs. May our generations of children continue to be Princetonians."

After getting an LL.B. at the University of Texas, I started out as an assistant district and later assistant city attorney, but ever since the war I have been a partner in Hutcheson, Taliaferro and Hutcheson in Houston. Among my partners are a father and two brothers, all Princetonians.

"Also, right after Law School I married Gwen Garrow, (who, by the way, was my date at house parties Junior year), and we have three daughters, Julie, Eleanor and Bettie, who by the time this book is published will be 18, 14 and 12, respectively. Julie is enter-

"Our favorite extracurricular activities include reading, hunting, fishing and spending an occasional weekend at our farm near Houston, plus travelling when we can arrange it. Aside from the usual legal and United Fund committees, I also serve as a trustee of the Museum of Natural History of Houston. All in our family are members of St. Theresa's Catholic Church.

"Like most of us, I remember Princeton and my classmates with a great deal of affection, and only wish that distance did not prevent more frequent contacts. However, my former roommate Johnny McCain is now a naturalized Houstonian, and we frequently stage informal but highly enjoyable reunions."

Ever since graduation Tom has been in sales work; first as Sales Supervisor and Manager of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.; next as President of Superior Stores, Inc. and now as District Field Manager for his present company. He is a member of the American Automobile Accessory Association and the Chain Store Retailers Association. He is a Director of Superior Stores, Inc. and Automated Circuits, Inc. During the war he was a member of the War Production Board, O.P.A. Service and Committee Chairman of Defense Mobilization.

His hobbies are golf, gardening (roses), swimming and especially 3-D photography. He takes his vacation in the spring with his wife and children and has been to such places as Mexico City, Nassau (where he played a lot of tennis), Canada, the West Indies and all the states east of the Mississippi. His wife, Lou, helped her father in his business before her marriage and now contents herself with housekeeping, golf and gardening. She very much wants her son, Norwood, to go to Princeton (Class of 1967).

Tom writes: "All my life I have been in sales work as well as management and marketing of merchandise. The field has been very interesting as each day produces many new and unusual challenges and interesting experiences. There are of course many disappointments, but the satisfaction of accomplishment, when it comes, outweighs them.

"My main interests in life have been my family, my home and social activities with friends and neighbors.

"The one thing I feel I gained from my experiences at Princeton is the need for tolerance in this world we live in. I try hard to practice it.

"While I did not take up my chosen field (medicine), I still feel that every young man should set his course early in life and specialize along those lines.

"Princeton today has the best methods of teaching and 'getting it across' for the boy who wants to learn. It should be careful not to overemphasize high scholastic standing as an entrance requirement as against a boy with average intelligence who works hard, applies himself and wants to learn."

Business: Bethlehem Steel Company, Rod & Wire Division, Johnstown, Pa.

Married: Elizabeth Stahl Reeves, November 25, 1939

Margaret H., August 29, 1942

Stew writes: "It hardly seems 25 years since that day in June when I stepped out of South Reunion for the last time to seek my fortune with the Bethlehem Steel Company. I am still seeking it with the same outfit, but in the process I've had a dozen fortunes worth of living.

"In 1939 the finest gal this side of the moon, Betty Stahl Reeves, (niece of Nicholas Stahl '97, and cousin of Dave Moulton '31, Nicholas Stahl '38), consented to be Mrs. Jones. She is a graduate of National College of Education, Evanston, Ill. And taught elementary grades in Elmhurst, Ill. Recently, after a lot of family raising, she decided to take up teaching again. The products of our efforts to date are three lively teenagers, each making a good record.

"As for my primary interest, my family is it, though in pursuit of that interest I've spent possibly an undue portion of evenings away from the family in business, church activities, scouting, and school board.

"With Bethlehem Steel I've had various duties in steel making, research, and now as assistant to the Superintendent of the Rod and Wire Division, Johnstown, where we keep 1100 men in line to produce the best wire made anywhere. Some travel is incidental to the job to help keep up with what is going on in the field.

"Except for a bit of swimming in the summer, my athletic efforts are nil, but I do get involved in otherwise stimulating activities. I am a vestryman and Junior Warden of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Lay Reader, Church School

Superintendent, and Chairman of the Building Committee for building our new Parish House. I was once a Cubmaster, and later a Scouting Committeeman, but that was crowded out of the picture by increasing activities as a School Director, and as Treasurer of the School Board. This work has become quite interesting since we have merged with a couple of other school districts. These activities leave no time for golfing and such, but I can get in a little time for gardening.

"We like to vacation at my wife's home in Evanston, Ill., or with my sister and brother-in-law at Mattituck, Long Island, or both. Some times we go fishing, but catching is still the problem.

"I hope to attend our 25th Reunion, at least to the extent that it does not interfere with attending my daughter's high school graduation."

Katz is in the steel business and before coming to roost in New York City has lived in San Diego, California, St. Louis, Missouri and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. His home is now in Springfield, N. J. so he belongs to the Commuters' Club like many of his classmates. He was in the Navy during the war, stationed in the States.

His hobby is golf which is a far cry from his days in college as a football player. He and his family spend the month of August on the Jersey Shore where according to Katz they "relax". His wife, Pinkie, is a Princeton girl. Their son (an excellent football player) attends the Hun School in Princeton so he still keeps his ties with the old place. His daughter, Suzanne, is a teacher.

Ned writes: "To put myself in a properly reminiscent mood for this sketch, I re-read my Fifteenth Reunion Yearbook. Commuting to my desk by foot for three-quarters of the year, and by all means of transportation from Bedford Hills for the balance, constitutes a business day. The 'Nine to Five' is occupied by people of all ages and both sexes whose financial affairs require administration and advice. Happily for the profession, they are many, though there seem to be as many competitors as there are prospective clients.

"In addition to banking, I now enjoy working with The Federal Grand Jury Association and also serve as President of our own cooperative apartment building. For many years I have served on the Rector's Council of St. James's; and, as my fellow New Yorkers will recall, I try to swell Annual Giving in this area as one of Dunc Van Norden's lieutenants. Political life to date has been limited to voting for Republican candidates with varying degrees of success.

"Our daughter, Sandra, who has a real talent for social service work, is married to a Dartmouth graduate, now in the teaching profession. Our son finds city life confining. Entrance in a college of his choice looms as a major problem yet to be faced.

"My wife, who has professional experience in the field, and I spend many pleasant hours and too much cash in the collecting of XVIII Century English furniture. Our ideal vacations are spent on Mount Desert Island, Maine, where we see much of prominent citizen Sandy Kellogg and Maine enthusiasts Dinny Dinsmore and Channing Way.

"Of changes during the last twenty-five years, to me the most serious is the decline of individual self-reliance. Our grandfathers considered it immoral to borrow for anything but the buying of a home. Our fathers had no qualms about installment buying if it was restricted to cars, refrigerators, and other capital goods. Now we are told to buy and travel now, pay later, and our wallets are full of credit cards. The incentive to save for a rainy day is gone. The urge for an individual to work harder and better is lost, for the unions demand that, if a company makes good profits, the profits should go toward higher wages and shorter hours for every employee.

"I believe Princeton is in good hands. My own philosophy is similar to that of President Goheen. The purpose of our being on this planet is to make the world a finer place than it was when we came."

Pete writes: "In the fall of 1935, while roommates Joe Hazen and Tony Rytina and most of the others from '35 were slaving in the business world, I was back at Princeton getting my M.S. Degree. I kept the same room on campus, continued to eat at Elm Club, still had classes at the Engineering Bldg., and in general led the life of an undergraduate. In effect, I had a bonus year.

"In the fall of 1936 I started work with Union Carbide Chemicals Company at South Charleston, W. Va. Three others from '35 were doing the same thing. Bill Hack, Ted Kelly and Roland Voorhees. Bill left the company, however, and Ted and Roland were transferred to other Divisions, so I am now the only member of '35 in Charleston. At present I am Production Manager of Olefins in the Union Carbide Olefins Company. We have two plants in W. Va., two in Texas, one in California and one near Chicago. Traveling to them and to our New York office keeps me on the go a good bit of the time.

"My family home was in Pelham, N. Y. When my father died in 1940, however, the house was sold and my grandmother ('Nan' to those of you who knew her) came to Charleston to live with me. When we decided to build a house in Charleston, Joe Hazen took a vacation with us and performed the architectural honors. We are still living in the house Joe designed for us.

"I was married in the fall of 1942 to Margaret Rich, otherwise known as Tee. Our boys, John and Jim, will be 16 and 13 by the time our 25th rolls around.

"My principal hobby has always been golf, although I have fooled around with photography and electronics. Vacations have almost always been on the water. We have taken several family cruises on Long Island Sound and have had the fun of sailing in Bermuda waters twice; as far as I am concerned the lack of water suitable for sailing is West Virginia's principle disadvantage.

"I have never gotten into political or civic affairs, but my wife does enough of the latter for both of us. However, I am Treasurer of our Episcopal Church and I am also Secretary-Treasurer of the Princeton Alumni Association of W. Va.

"I was back for our 15th reunion and had the family with me when I came back for the 20th. We are all definitely planning to be back for the 25th. I still feel that there is nothing like a Princeton education and all that comes with it. Both my wife and I are extremely anxious for our two boys to have the privilege."

From John: "Have been as busy as most everyone else in the past 25 years, even more so, I suppose, when it comes to family, now having 8 children plus two grandchildren. In business I am still with the newspaper (V.P.), president of two radio stations and V.P. of a third, one each in Sioux City, Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Omaha, Neb. Also several other small ventures.

"I am an avid golfer from spring until fall when hunting takes over, bowl regularly (league champions this past year), then devote extra time to numerous community activities. Wife Dorothy is in the same boat all along the line and possibly even more so in regards to community and church activities.

"My pet project is the same as it has been for many years, the fullest development of the Missouri River. It becomes more important every year as the national need for water for everything continues to increase. I am active nationally in this respect as a director of the Mississippi Valley Association.

"Would not trade my Princeton years for any other, but don't feel it has the same meaning for this section of the country as it does elsewhere, i.e., the number of alumni here is now so small that they cannot strongly affect our daily life here no matter how excellent a job Princeton alumni are doing on the national scene."

Ted is an alumnus who has picked Princeton for his home and seems to enjoy the choice. He started with Union Carbide right after graduation and as he says, "They haven't caught on yet." He is now Manager of Engineering and Construction. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and helped to start the New Jersey Section of which he was chairman for one year. During the war he was connected with the synthetic rubber program.

His business took him on a trip to Brazil and Argentina in 1951; and, since he had an aunt living in Peking until 1937, he traveled there to see her and also took in the sights.

His hobby is sailing and he is a member of the Yacht Club of Stone Harbor, New Jersey, and the Carnegie Sailing Club, Princeton. He and his family spend July or August at Stone Harbor but have on occasion chartered an auxiliary sailboat and cruised on the Chesapeake. His wife, Guy, is a graduate of Randolph-Macon and Columbia and before her marriage ran a county weekly newspaper. She was also one of the first fifty women who were commissioned in the Waves. Now she spends her time with music and the Republican Club.

Children: Joseph Patrick, November 16, 1946

Mary Dwight, January 30, 1949

"A few days after our 25th reunion," Joe writes, "I will celebrate my 25th anniversary with Bankers Trust Company. After three years of general audit and accounting work, I was fortunate to receive a special assignment to do research and study for the chairman of a special committee of the ABA in connection with legislation then pending in Congress for regulation of corporate trust indentures. Since then, except for World War II and two years helping to launch a Personnel Services Division for our Trust Department, my work has been devoted almost exclusively to corporate trust activities. These years have seen rapid changes and developments in methods and techniques of capital financing, and I have been fortunate in having been able to participate in many of these. At present, I am in charge of the Corporate Trust Division of the bank, and am just completing a book on the Principles of Corporate Trust Administration, which I hope will be published within the next year.

"In the area of professional study, I received an LL.B. degree from Fordham University in 1940, and was admitted to the New York Bar later that year. After additional special study in financial and tax law, I received the degree of Doctor of Judicial Science from New York University in 1942. In 1955, I attended the 27th session of the Advanced Management Program at Harvard Business School.

"My army experience was interesting although not particularly noteworthy. I served for almost three years in North Africa and Italy.

"In 1941 I was married to Emily Hopkinson of Cambridge, Massachusetts, and our combined efforts have produced two children and one dog.

"While I have not accomplished all that I had hoped, the years have been happy ones. I look forward confidently to the next twenty-five."

John writes: "My main interest in life is centered in my wife, Maggie, and our four children. My family and my work keep me busy so that there is not too much time for anything else. However, for hobbies I still play the piano, and do some painting and sculpturing from time to time.

"My career has become somewhat varied. I started out being a Philadelphia lawyer (after graduating from Harvard Law) and became an Assistant Deputy Attorney General and later a Special Assistant Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for about 15 years. During that time I formed a partnership with my brother operating as Kephart and Kephart, but at present I am now associated with Princetonians Elmer and John Serena and Bill Seyfert doing business as Serena, Seyfert & Kephart.

"In addition to the above, a hobby I started some ten years ago doing industrial materials handling and packaging design is now taking up about 90% of my time. The Patent Office has been kind enough to issue a couple of patents to me, the most important being a collapsible container called a "keppak." This container has been moving along nicely in both bulk and reusable field. In this work I've been associated with Penna. Box & Lumber Co.

"My brother and I still own and operate long distance the Bar N Ranch, a dude ranch located outside West Yellowstone, Montana on the Hebgen Dam. The ranch got shaken up by the earthquake this summer but we'll be open for business for 1960."

Joe writes: "After graduation I spent one year at Princeton as Assistant in the School of Public and International Affairs. Then to Hofstra College, Hempstead, N. Y. (along with Rod Henkel) where I taught economics until January 1942. Evenings I took graduate work at New York University (M.A. in 1938) and later Columbia University where eventually I got a Ph.D. (1947) in economics. Meanwhile, in 1936, I married Mary Anna Nettleton of Hempstead, N. Y. (Hollins College 1935) who is still my best girl and the mother of my two sons.

"During the war I served in the battle of the Potomac, pretty much opening up the office of Price Administration and definitely locking the doors in 1947. I had lots of jobs there, the most exalted being Assistant to the Administrator (Chester Bowles—a wonderful guy), but most of the time I spent in Rationing working out and administering the ration banking program which most people will have forgotten. When it was all over I wrote a book about it (A History of Ration Banking), Govt. Printing Office, 1947) which became my doctoral dissertation.

"There followed a year in Sao Paulo, Brazil where I was a Visiting Professor of Economics (1947-8) and in July 1948 I reported to the RAND Corporation, Santa Monica, Cal., where I have been happily located ever since. I'm an economist there and have become a specialist of sorts on the Soviet economy; a number of my journal articles have been published on the subject. RAND is mostly interested in Air Force problems, but in other things from time to time and just at the moment I'm studying some public education problems.

"We love Southern California. My wife is, and has been for years, active in the League of Women Voters, and is now President of the Los Angeles League, which keeps her hopping. We have two boys — Stephen and David. Dave wants to go to Williams College (a couple of years ago I took the family there while I was Visiting Professor and he fell in love with it) and is doing well enough so I suppose he'll go if I can find the dough! He puts Princeton as second choice and I hesitate to push him Tiger-ward.

"I get to Princeton from time to time on business and still love to wander around the campus, though it seems a shame they have allowed cars on central campus. It's a beautiful spot and I'm glad to be an alumnus, but when I try to think seriously about Princeton I find it a very complex business. I suppose I'm bothered mostly by the apparent inability or unwillingness to deal with the Club problem and the Admissions policy toward Alumni sons."

San writes: "There is a fact that simplifies any discourse on my business life—one employer. Dealing with lubricants and allied products, in both technical and promotional areas would account for most of these years. Recently I have engaged in activities that the present position suggests. As to travel, my work has taken me along the Eastern Seaboard and in Canada, with a three-year hitch in and around Chicago during the early Forties. It may be of interest to report that I have been doing some teaching within the company on human relations studies as they pertain to management and selling. This has proved especially rewarding as an opportunity to integrate with the needs of a commercial enterprise, the disciplines of inquiry on values, truth and understanding.

"Family statistics are inadequate to comprehend their impact. Other interests, when time permits, are non-fictional reading, bridge, squash, theater and golf. Charlie writes: "For ten years I have worked on research planning for the National Institutes of Health, a federal

tary of a committee studying the future of medical research; recipient of a Rockefeller Public Service Award to study the effects on universities in this country and Europe of national financing of research; study and writing at H—d, which gave me a doctorate in public administration. This led to a book, American Universities and Federal Research. Writing was my preoccupation for too long. Never again.

"My wife, Blanche, and I, and our boys David and Stephen, lived in Geneva in 1959 where I was a consultant to the World Health Organization on a research program. The job was interesting, the International School was good for the boys, and we had a good time bumming around Europe.

"At home, we live a suburban civil-servant life on the fringes of Washington.

"After graduation I dug ditches for DuPont. Then they shipped me toward North Jersey, but I got off at the Junction on a warm September day. At Nassau Hall I found about $400 in tutoring money, so I asked if I could get in the Graduate College. Economics for a couple of years. More studying, travelling around on a fellowship. On the way back to Princeton, on the strength of an offer — non-renewable — to instruct in economics, I married Blanche Hoover, and we had a fine time in Princeton.

"I've worked for the government since 1939, in the White House, on the Council of Economic Advisers, and as Secretary of the President's Scientific Research Board. During the war I started as a Seaman 2/C and ended as a Lt.jg in Washington, right where I started."

W. Kenneth, October 26, 1947

Don writes: "Upon graduation in 1935, my primary concern, like many of my classmates, was to find a job. More by accident than by good planning. I went to work for a division of the company now known as C.I.T. Financial Corporation—and will be celebrating my 25th with CIT as well as my 25th reunion in 1960.

"In 1935 I started as a mail room boy—since then I have put in time as sales correspondent, a short spell on advertising, several years as sales representative in New Jersey, three years as Asst. Vice President in charge of the C.I.T. Corporation office in Chicago, and finally, early last year, elected Vice President of C.I.T. Corporation and moved east again to open our new division office in Boston.

"Family life started a year after graduation when I married Auson Church in Montclair, N. J. We have been together ever since. Our two boys came along in 1946 and 1947. Since then our main interests have been centered on the activities of the boys. The elder, Donald Jr., is a quite talented pianist and musician—the younger, Kenneth, appears to be an equally talented Little League baseball player. Trying to keep up with such widely separated fields has kept both Auson and me thoroughly busy, particularly during the last few years of moving about the country. In a quiet way, it has been an exciting experience.

"Outside of the usual Red Cross, Community Chest and similar community activities, our principal activity not directly connected with business or family life has been in the field of mental retardation. My wife Auson has spent more time at it than I have been able to and was active in the early development of special schools for the mentally retarded in New Jersey and in the work which eventually led to the establishment of special classes in the public school system.

"I don't think I'm unusual in looking back with pleasure and pride on the years at Princeton. It may not have been apparent at the time, but the habits of thought and the training in the use of what brains we were given have stood me in good stead through many trying periods since graduation—and I hope they will continue to do so."

Julie, January 27, 1956

"After leaving Old Nassau that far-off June day in 1935," Rex writes, "I embarked for England, Scotland and Western Europe in company with Barney Fairchild and proceeded to have a very enjoyable summer seeing the usual sights. On returning home I began an apparently life-long career in glass container manufacturing at The Lamb Glass Company, Mount Vernon, Ohio, whose principal product was and is milk bottles. In 1940 I was fortunate to persuade Barbara Caulkins (Wellesley '40) of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, to leave about forty close relatives and move to Mount Vernon where, after a couple of years, we established a home on a twenty-five acre farm just outside of town.

"Our growing family has left little time for extensive travel but we have managed to enjoy several spring vacations in recent years in Florida, notably on delightful Captiva Island and at Islamorada where I have had a modicum of success in fly rodding into submission the agile tarpon and the elusive white fox of the flats, the bonefish.

Other sporting activities have been aided and abetted by a long succession of more or less quality bird dogs which will generally chase anything that flies such as grouse, woodcock, quail, etc. Golf and plain dirt gardening fill in during the off-season.

"Community interests have included the YMCA, Community Fund, country club and Chamber of Commerce. In 1957 I became the first President of the Muskingum Valley Council, Boy Scouts, and am currently it's representative to the National Council. I am also a dues-paying member of the Masons, the Episcopal Church, and the Republican Party, and a past president of the Rotary Club.

"My immediate aim in life is to see to it that my children obtain all of the best education each is capable of assimilating in order to better cope with this ever more complex world. I regard my Princeton education as having profoundly enriched my life and believe that nothing a parent can give a child is so valuable as a sturdy character and a sound education."

Ollie is Assistant Treasurer and Assistant Secretary of his company. Before becoming associated with this firm he was in the investment business for a time and also in diversified manufacturing. He is a Director of Arundale Manufacturing.

He has held one political office, that of precinct chairman. He has also served as a Fund Raiser for the United Fund, is a Settlement House Officer and is busy with Child Guidance activities. For his alma mater he has been active in money raising for annual giving.

His hobbies consist of tennis, squash, ice skating, water colors and golf: "still an old man's game."

He adds: "The old chestnut that Princeton associations become increasingly cherished and enduring with the passing years certainly applies in my case. How fortunate we were to have had the opportunity to have worked and studied together plus live together in a high moral climate, which the honor system so widened."

Bill writes: "The Lannings are away behind many '35 families; all our children are young; I wish I were sure they were keeping Teresa and me young too. Residing nearby, we are able to attend most Class, and many other Princeton, gatherings. We may usually be found among the '35 group in Palmer Stadium fall Saturdays. I am the current chairman of the Track Alumni Advisory Committee; with Mike Morgan I co-chaired our 20th reunion and have helped arrange off-year reunions since the 20th; Doug Ward has given me an assignment for the 25th reunion.

"Shortly after admission to the New Jersey Bar I entered military service, 9 months before Pearl Harbor, and served in staff jobs in Washington, Manila, and Tokyo. General MacArthur sent me home a full colonel and decorated me with the Legion of Merit. A diploma from the Army's Command and General Staff School is among my war souvenirs. For several years after W.W. II, I remained active in the Army Reserve and served a term as President, N. J. Department, Reserve Officers' Association.

"I engage in private law practice in Trenton and spend much of my time drafting and revising legislation for members of the New Jersey Legislature in my assignment as Assistant Counsel to the Legislature. Senator Dick Stout and former Assemblymen Andy Fowler and Duane Minard have been the only '35ers among my legislative bosses in this job.

"Princeton holds major interests for me. Recognizing I probably could not gain admission to Princeton today, I hope those who are fortunate enough to make the grade will learn to appreciate a Princeton experience as much as I do. In this day of mass production of everything, including college graduates, I believe Princeton continues, per tradition, to turn out quality products who will be of ever-increasing importance in community, national, and world-wide affairs and service."

Neil received his M.D. at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia in 1939. He practices in Westport but is also an assistant clinical professor at N.Y.U. and Bellevue Medical Schools, Assistant Attending at Bellevue, and Director of Education in the Pediatric Division of the Norwalk Hospital. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics. During the war he was a Flight Surgeon in the Air Force and was discharged with the rank of Major.

Neil's hobbies are sailing and tennis, and he is a member of the Weston Field Club, Weston, Connecticut, and the N.Y.U. Club. He takes his vacations when he can get them and spends them cruising, playing tennis, and going to medical meetings. He traveled to Bermuda in 1948 with Craig Fitzpatrick, and has also been to Nassau, Canada and England. His wife "B" is a Vassar graduate who worked in a real estate office before her marriage when she wasn't playing tennis. Now she concentrates on her four boys, P.T.A., and sailing.

Neil writes: "Have been busily engaged in pediatric practice in Westport, Connecticut, and I do some clinical work at Bellevue Hospital in New York City each week. Hope that my boys will go to Princeton. I realize even more now how important and instructive it was to me."

John Paul, August 1, 1951

Gil has been with the same company since graduation and has always lived in Little Rock except for the war years when he was in the Army Air Force, stationed both in the States and in Europe. He was an Intelligence Officer, a Ferrying Pilot, and a Squadron Commander. He was awarded the American and European Theatre Service Medals; World War II Victory Medal and the Air Force Longevity Medal. He is a Lieutenant Colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

His hobbies are private flying for business and pleasure, various YMCA activities, and games. He goes anywhere in the U.S. for his vacations and usually takes them between May and October. During these vacations he frequently spends his time taking a short tour (2 weeks) of active duty or taking a short refresher course in aviation.

His wife, Helen, is from Mason City, Iowa, and also works in insurance and real estate. About her activities Gil says, "She is smart, and a very good business woman." He also says that she likes Princeton men.

Children: Anne R., April 15, 1944

Dave writes: "After graduating from Princeton I attended Harvard Law School, graduating in the class of 1938, and while there, roomed for all three years with Claude Pierce and Paul Fitting. I started my legal career with a small New York firm and was a member of a partnership for a year and a half prior to entry into service in 1942. After the war I spent a total of five years in the legal departments at Columbia Records and DuMont Television, where I learned a good deal about entertainment-field law, particularly artists' contracts and copyrights and trade-marks. Since 1952 I have had my own office at 441 Lexington Avenue, New York City, where I maintain a general practice with emphasis on the entertainment field, corporate law, will and estates, and marital problems.

"During the war I enlisted as a voluntary officer candidate, and after going through basic training in the Infantry I graduated as a Second Lieutenant from the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia. I saw overseas service for 11 months in the European Theatre and was wounded in March 1945 while our division, the 87th Infantry, was approaching the Rhine River. After spending 13 months in an Army hospital I was retired as Captain because of combat-incurred injuries and am currently drawing retirement pay from the Veterans Administration.

"As extracurricular activities I enjoy most of all being with my family, but I have kept up my interest in both golf and bridge, which I play as often as I am able. I am a member of the Board of Trustees of the Columbus Boychoir School in Princeton, and am also on the Board of the Home Advisory Council in New York, which is an organization working with family conflicts involving criminal activities caused by bad home environment.

"I had the good fortune to be invited to attend the Princeton Today Program and was most impressed by the advances made in the University curriculum since we were undergraduates. I feel strongly that the University has kept pace with the changing times and yet has remained basically the same type of institution which we love and respect so much and, if possible, my loyalty has increased over the years."

"I celebrated graduation from Princeton by spending the following year at the Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University, where I received the degree, Master of Science. It left me feeling neither Masterful nor Scientific, but it did help me to get a job in that jobless era on the Jersey Journal, Jersey City, N. J. Spent a year covering a district that produced its quota of police, political and labor news. Then moved to The Evening Gazette, Worcester, Mass., where I did the usual assignment, rewrite and feature jobs until a few months after Pearl Harbor.

"For two years I fought a tidy war in the Harbor Defenses of Long Island Sound. Then to the ETO where I was an operations officer with the 44th AAA Brigade. Passed through the never-never land of the 'Champagne Campaign' (Riviera Front), then the AAA Command for 7th Army Rhine River Crossings, 7th Army Security Command, the Occupation. Was separated with a majority and the usual travel ribbons.

"Went to the foreign news desk at International News Service, where too often I found myself a one-man foreign news bureau. Then two years of freelance writing with Lucille Camps. Fiction sales ranged from Esquire to Gang Busters (fruits of a liberal education). One day, in a moment of truth, I realized that Lu sold to the top markets except when I collaborated with her. So I made a calculated, Princeton man's decision. I married the girl, left fiction writing to the creative member of the family and got a job with Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, where I am Press Relations Manager.

"My responsibilities cover public, press, internal and community relations. The usual product publicity, corporate and financial releases, the Annual Report panic, etc. Lu and I collect antiques, with first interest in American Pilgrim furniture. We have four miniature poodles who love to summer on the Maine coast as much as we do."

"Twenty-five years out. Princeton remains a valued and honored experience. Her steady expansion of facilities and her active participation in the early advance of the nuclear age are a source of continuing pride. But alongside this is the embarrassment over the annual asininity of bicker and 100% participation which is invariably publicized. Clubs are clubs everywhere and Princetonians of all people should absorb the fact that one makes the grade, one is not given it. Perhaps we depression classes are more aware of it than most. Still, if we are, it was learned at Princeton. Judging from the achievements of many of our classmates, we learned well how to work. Simply from that one fact may Princeton's superiority be easily recognized and the recognition was and is deserved."

After graduation Bill's next step was the short one to New York City where he entered New York University Law School, doing a law firm clerkship at the same time. Balanced against the law had long been another field, the Presbyterian ministry; and the Fall of 1936 found him back in Princeton, enrolled at the Theological Seminary, just one block away from the University campus. Receiving a B. Th. degree in May of 1939, he was called to Buckingham Presbyterian Church, a 17th century parish on the Eastern shore of Maryland at Berlin, Maryland. After 2 years there, a Field Artillery Reserve Commission (from R.O.T.C.) days caught up with him (and so many of our Class), then overseas in January, 1942, for 3 years' duty in Australia and New Guinea, with the Fifth Air Force. For a time he commanded a ground squadron in Queensland, then was recommissioned a chaplain, in which branch he attained the rank of Major. Spending his principal time with Air Force personnel in combat areas, he nonetheless found time to meet and marry Nancy K. Mills of Bellevue Hill, Sydney, Australia. After V-E Day, she was able to follow him to the States where they went to his home in Pennsylvania, and were soon installed in the First Presbyterian Church of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. In 1955 Bill came to Hillside Presbyterian Church in Orange, New Jersey, his present pastorate.

The ministry being a 6-day work week, Bill sees more of his family inside the church than out of it, chiefly by installing his wife and two sons in the Choirs. A Pennsylvania hobby of keeping saddle horses has been cancelled in a metropolitan suburb; golf and scale model railroading now provide occasional sublimation.

The Logans have two boys, Bill 3rd, and Bruce. Perhaps appropriately, the senior Bill is board member of the Bureau of Family Service of the Oranges and Maplewood. In the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, he is a member of the Stewardship and Promotion Committee.

As for Princeton, pastoral wanderings have kept him away through most years. But the present location in Orange offers more opportunity. Hillside Presbyterian is a strongly pro-Princeton church: Interim-president Edward Duffield was chairman of its board of trustees, and a vocal Princeton contingent reigns there now, despite the relentless heckling of Yale and Williams factions in the congregation. Pet project? More free weekends for preachers; how else Class Dinners, Picnics, and Football Gatherings?

Rollie's career, since graduation from Princeton, encompasses one year at Babson Institute of Business Administration and, after that, the coal industry. His first job was as a coal miner underground in the mines of West Virginia, and as he says, "I have held practically all jobs around a coal mine from coal miner to President of the Company." At present he is President of one company, namely, Peerless Coal and Coke Company and Vice-President of Pocohontas Fuel Company. His business activities include membership on the Boards of Directors of several industry associations, two banks, and several other business corporations.

He and his wife are both extremely active in community affairs, including the Red Cross, Bluefield Community Chest and Christ Episcopal Church. His wife is at present President of the Christ Church Women's Organization. Rollie is or has been President of the Bluefield Chamber of Commerce, President of the Rotary Club, Director of both the Virginia and West Virginia State Chambers of Commerce and is on the Boards of the Boy Scouts and the Y.M.C.A.

His recreation preferences are riding and training horses, quail hunting and traveling. His travels have taken him to Europe, Canada, South America, Panama, Cuba, Nassau and Haiti. Vacations are taken at no set time or in no set place though he probably goes most frequently to Sea Island, Georgia, where he enjoys fishing, swimming, and hunting.

His wife is a graduate of Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and held the distinction of being Queen Sylvia VI of West Virginia. Now she contents herself with her family, civic duties and farming.

He writes: "My educational experience at Princeton has proved to be most worthwhile, both from the strict educational standpoint, as well as from the social and contact standpoint. The liberal arts background obtained at Princeton through the fine course of study, excellent teachers, and the emphasis on the individual rather than on mass education, makes Princeton relatively unique amongst American universities. These concepts and their effective operation are responsible for the outstanding job of overall education which Princeton gives to its students as compared to a strictly limited or technological education as is found in the majority of our universities. My only regret is that I did not put more earnest effort and understanding into my undergraduate days so I could have received far more benefit from this experience than I did.

"Expounding one's philosophy of life in the space allotted is, to say the least, most difficult. Let us say, therefore, that the sketch of activities above may serve better than additional words in this connection. However, I do firmly believe that in return for the gift of life given to each of us, we owe it in return to earnestly endeavor to use our talents to the best advantage for the welfare of our families and for our fellowmen, so that we may each leave this world a little better place than we found it."

Bob writes: "Earning a living, achieving happiness in marriage, and raising four eager children have made the 25 years since undergraduate days seem like a very short time. Laurie and I are still young enough to hold our own athletically with our progeny, or else the progeny haven't reached full development. We are still able-bodied enough to cope with the do-it-yourself tasks demanded these days of the suburban mortgage payers.

"Socially, we get most pleasure from the rare occasions when we beat the neighbors at bridge. Participation in church and community activities is part of our pattern of living, and our efforts to obtain religious faith have helped us to weather such small and large crises as we have encountered.

"War years in the Navy kept us moving from place to place, principally with supply activities in Air Force, Atlantic Fleet. I have kept my Reserve commission, and currently as a Commander I am Commanding Officer of a Naval Reserve Supply Company. In the present state of world affairs, preparedness seems the only approach to peace.

"I have spent almost all of my business life with Public Service Electric and Gas Company. As a staff functionary in the Executive Department, I see a good deal of New Jersey, which is growing at a rate well beyond many other Eastern states. If New Jersey continues to grow, and if the utility business grows as is predicted, the future should bring its problems and challenges but should be a rewarding one.

"That Princeton still prepares well for life I have no doubt. In these days of mass education Princeton is right to keep standards high and to maintain its emphasis on quality. Right-thinking leaders are needed today more than ever."

After graduation, under the guidance of Dr. Swingle of the Biology Department at Princeton, Ted attended the biological laboratory at Cold Spring Harbor and was director of the dining hall at that institution. This job paid a good share of his medical education at Harvard Medical School. He interned at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester in surgery, obstetrics and gynecology.

He continues: "In 1942, I also entered the Navy. I spent two years as the medical officer on a destroyer, the U. S. S. 'Renshaw,' in the Pacific Theater. I received four battle stars. My remaining tour of duty in the Navy was spent at Brooklyn and Newport Naval Hospitals. I left the Navy as a Lieutenant Commander in 1946 and returned to Rochester to complete my surgical training. I completed my residency at Strong and Genesee Hospital, which are affiliated with the University of Rochester.

"I entered practice in 1948 with an older surgeon and have had a very active surgical practice since that time. My main interest in life is my family. I have four fine children, who provide a great deal of enjoyment for me.

"We belong to the Monroe Golf Club in Rochester, New York, and I play a little golf. My summers, however, are mostly spent on camping trips throughout the country.

"I have been president of Rochester Pathological Society and am a trustee of the Rochester Academy of Medicine. I am on the executive board of the Medical Society of the County of Monroe. I am chairman of the Medical Economics Committee of the County of Monroe, am attending surgeon at Genesee Hospital, and senior attending instructor at the University of Rochester Medical School.

"I am extremely grateful for the education I received at Princeton and look back upon the time I spent there with a great pride. I am hoping that my three sons will be able to attend Princeton and I am planning, very definitely, on returning for the 25th Reunion."

Bill went from Princeton to Stanford Business School and then to work for the New York Trust Company, where he remained until 1949. From this job he enlisted in the Army and emerged as a Field Artillery Major after mostly staff service in the U. S. and Europe.

He says: "Then I grew almonds in California, taught awhile, went back to Princeton to learn some history for teaching purposes, finally saw the light and went back to ranching for good.

"I married Shirley Fetterolf Weaver in 1958. Since then we have divided our time between Blue Bell, Pennsylvania, where her daughters, Marcia and Patricia, live, and Susanville, California. Here we raise cattle and horses on a small but neat ranch on the eastern verge of the Sierra Nevada mountains, where the pines meet the sage and there are no parking meters.

"Our current project is to find a completely undeveloped ranch in the western Sierra foothills and build it up just as we want it with some cattle and horses and specialty crops. and a house designed to accommodate plenty of casual visitors.

"Favorite diversions include skiing, the mountains, gardening, Friends of the Princeton Library (plug), and trips to San Francisco. I vote for the minority party, and I find this world more interesting than the next. Pet peeve: uninformed people who try to impose their half-baked opinions on others and withhold contributions from Annual Giving—especially people who favor the Brick-er amendment and legislation to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

"My admiration for Princeton grows ever stronger, though nowadays I would recommend it chiefly for bright, serious boys equipped to do credit to the nation's hottest seat of learning."

Navarre has worked for the same company ever since graduation and pretty much knows all there is to know about steel having started work in the mills themselves in East Chicago and Indiana, the working in various types of sales and in Public Relations.

He tells us: "In 1935 I began working for the Inland Steel Company: first three years in the steel mills, East Chicago, Indiana, learning the business. During this time also took ferrous metallurgical engineering at the Illinois Institute of Technology night school, Chicago. In 1938, I came to the headquarters office in Chicago, working in various types of sales. Prior to and following World War II was in Inland Steel's New York district sales office. Since 1951 I have been in the Public Relations department, in Chicago.

"Military service, following R.O.T.C. at Princeton, continued until 1958 retirement as Lt. Col.—Corps Artillery Intelligence Officer. War service for five years included first two in Panama and vicinity, final two in Europe. Decorations: 4 USA, 1 French, 1 USSR.

"Hobbies: Music (popular piano), photography, skiing, travel, languages, ornithology.

"Community activities: charity drives, vestryman in Winnetka's Christ Episcopal Church, photographer and musical entertainer in local events. Lecturer on subjects of local interest before business, religious, social or fraternal organizations, frequently illustrating talks with my own color transparencies. Member of civic bodies in Chicago aimed at better government honest balloting at the polls. On boards of several charities.

"I think that nothing beats college training and extended travel in addition to active business and interest in government and world affairs for broadening one's self and thus making less biased, more intelligent judgments in many needed directions. We at Princeton have all benefitted by a good foundation upon which I propose to continue building and hopefully contributing to many. My philosophy on life: I hope never to be completely satisfied; for then I might be inclined to sit back and produce less."

Navarre's wife, Marg, is a graduate of Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington and was active in the Red Cross before her marriage. Her interests now center around charities, politics on a local level and Church work. Since all her connections went to Yale, Navarre writes that her comments on Princeton are: "None printable."

"3. Participating, when time permits, in Cub Scout activities, collecting for and contributing to various local charity drives, training the boys for Little League Baseball, which is a big thing here in Darien.

"4. Trying to become a good golfer.

"We get to Florida about once a year. I have a strong interest in the future of this state, and we may eventually move there. I spent WW II at the Naval Air Station in Ft. Lauderdale as a Lt. in the Navy.

"I am now back in the agency field, with Compton.

"My wife, Kathryn, is the daughter of Thomas P. McKee, a Presbyterian Minister and graduate of the Princeton Theological Seminary. She is very active in Cub Scouts as well as in other charitable activities.

"While I value highly the worth of my Princeton education, I feel that it has 'type-cast' a good many of us. This situation may exist only around the N. Y. Metropolitan area and it may be a good thing rather than bad. At least not many of us are in jail, at least not to my knowledge!

"We are members of the Noroton Presbyterian Church and the boys go to Sunday School there. We have lived in Darien (on the shore of Long Island Sound), for 9 years and like it very much.

"I have been commuting (RR) to N.Y.C. since 1935 and one of my pet projects is to try to help solve the current plight of the commuter railroads—in my case the New Haven."

"In the summer of '35 George Gallup was starting his polling activities. I became his third employee. Doug and Donnie Stuart joined to give '35 some claim to pioneering in an exciting period of a new field whose life span is much the same as our time out of college.

"I lived in Princeton until 1946, working with Gallup and connected operations in New York, Peoples Research Corporation, Young & Rubicam, and National Opinion Research Center. My business life has focused on survey research and marketing research, trying to find out what people like and do, and why they behave the way they do.

"Just 20 years ago Louisville's Lucia McKellar became my bride, and in due course John, now 17 and at Hotchkiss, Robert McK. 15, Bonnie 12, and Lucy 10 arrived and thrived. The two boys were born in Princeton, not that it makes any difference to their hopes of entering. I'm one of the large group who thinks present entrance requirements are satisfactory. I haven't had to test my sentiments yet.

"A few months before the war, being uneager to enlist, I got a Navy commission. I hit it just right on the Alnav mass promotions, so that by early 1944 I was a lieutenant commander and exec of a new destroyer escort, with prior service on a rough and authentic old four-pipe destroyer much like the Caine. When the DE skipper got his third stripe I took command of the Wilke (DE 800) and spent the last year of the war mainly in the North Atlantic and Mediterranean chasing submarines with a group of DE's.

"Curtis Publishing called after the war and I spent a pleasant period until mid-1946 working in Philadelphia with Doug Stuart and the Curtis Development Division. Then the Reader's Digest decided to set up a research department and asked me to run it. The job has grown with the business. I do research on 30 international editions in 13 languages, advertising, books, records, business and editorial problems that require survey research. The early years required considerable traveling abroad which has now shaken down to about one trip a year.

"I've gotten involved in Westchester health and welfare agency activity. I chaired the Westchester County Council of Social Agencies for four years and was recently a founder and first president of a new united fund for the 23 communities of northern Westchester. In business associations I was president of the World Association for Public Opinion Research for two years, of the Market Research Council last year, and of the American Marketing Association, New York Chapter, this year. For the class my chief contributions have been the confidential questionnaires and summaries in this and the 15th Reunion books. I like to hack away at tennis and paddle tennis, doubles in both.

"Lucia has been active in Westchester as a founder of the United Fund and of Family Service of Westchester, and as first president of the Junior League of Mount Kisco."

He served in the United States Artillery from 1941 to 1945 and was stationed in Europe. He was awarded the Bronze Star, and his rank on discharge was that of Colonel.

During World War II he served in the Infantry-Armored Force from 1940-1946 and was in all theaters of operation. He was awarded the Legion of Merit and his rank on discharge was that of Colonel.

He lists as his hobbies swimming, collecting pictures (mostly drawings) and books. He vacations at Amagansett, Long Island at no specific time, depending largely on business and spends his vacation hours "swimming, reading and avoiding the young." He has done a good deal of traveling but now states that he does it only for business reasons.

Edward says that he has this comment: "The very few Princeton men of my years that I see occasionally seem to have jelled into a mould, and they reflect very little of what Princeton must have given them, unless, of course, they were incapable of absorbing anything from Princeton. I am sure that their lives are estimable and their interests varied but one would never know it, even after hours of country club conversation."

He may be back for our 25th, but he adds: "I went to the 20th Reunion; I thought it badly managed and not especially congenial. Most of the people looked and acted like Harry Truman."

Dick writes: "The first fourteen years for my life were spent in Paoing, North China, where my parents were serving as Presbyterian missionaries. But, aside from the usual interests of growing boys—bicycles, air rifles, and butterfly collections, my brother (Brews Mather '33) and I seemed not to take any special notice of our Chinese or missionary environment.

"Later on as a senior at Princeton I majored in Art and Archaeology and did my thesis on a Chinese poet-painter, the first real symptom of reawakened interest in Chinese culture. About this time I had also decided on a missionary career, and after a year with the family in China after graduation I completed my theological training at Princeton Seminary, graduating in 1939.

"The Presbyterian Mission Board at that time wanted its candidates to get some experience in American parishes, so my bride, the former Virginia Temple of Philadelphia, who had been doing graduate study at Westminster Choir College, and I took up our residence in the manse of a small town in Virginia.

"After two years we were appointed as missionaries to China; and, as relations with Japan were tense on the eve of Pearl Harbor, we were shipped off to Berkeley, California, to learn Chinese until we could get a passport. We finally got our chance to fly in by the back door in 1943, but a last-minute check in New York revealed a spot on my right lung, and I had to take nine months out in a t. b. sanatorium in the Adirondacks.

"This turn of events necessitated a drastic change of objectives which I did not see all at once, but by imperceptible degrees I found myself headed more and more toward the academic profession in the field of Sinology, specializing in Chinese Buddhism. After the usual delays I completed my doctorate at the University of California and came in the fall of 1949 to the University of Minnesota to teach their first courses in Chinese and related subjects and have been at it ever since.

"In November 1951, we adopted our daughter, Beth, who has enlivened things around the Mather household considerably what with her school, dancing class, piano, swimming, dramatics, her numerous friends, and two dogs. I feel like a veritable patriarch. Aside from running this menage, Ginny finds time to be soprano soloist in one of the downtown churches and gives at least one recital every year.

"My principal hobby is studying Chinese documents of the fourth and fifth centuries relating to the assimilation of Buddhism in China, but between my regular teaching duties and my responsibilities as a householder I find precious little time to pursue it. Therefore it was with the keenest delight and appreciation that I was able through the coinciding of a sabbatical with Fulbright and Guggenheim grants to take the year 1956-1957 with the family in Kyoto, Japan, to study at the Institute of Humanistic Sciences there. Beth was kindergarten age and learned Japanese from her playmates within six months while her philological dad limped on with pidgin through the whole thirteen months.

"All three of us hope fervently to get East for '35's 25th."

"My first year after graduation was spent in Princeton as Assistant Director of the Bureau of Appointments and Student Employment in charge of the various student agencies.

"Except for three and a half years in the U. S. Naval Reserve during World War II, my entire career has been with only two companies, which showed excellent judgment by merging in 1953. They were Merck & Co., of Rahway, New Jersey, and Sharp & Dohme, Inc., of Philadelphia.

"Less than perfect eyesight restricted my Navy commission to either the Supply Corps or the Chaplain's Corps. The latter had no more interest in me than I in them. I then achieved the dubious distinction of spending nine months longer at a Naval Base in Memphis than any other military person assigned there—and the average base population was 17,500!

"We moved to Bermuda in 1956 so that I could set up and operate Merck's offshore headquarters. We have a small plant, and sell our products, plus those we purchase, to all continents of the world.

"After the war Betty and I adopted two infants, a girl first and then a boy, who have brought us great happiness—particularly when it is obvious that we could not have done as well ourselves. Both are attractive, healthy and honor students.

"The amenities of life here are pleasant, and offset the obvious disadvantages of isolation. A biannual two-month's vacation gives us, for the first time, all the time we need to do the travelling we we always wanted to do. A constant stream of visitors—friends from the U. S., and business connections from all over the world, injects some change in ideas and routines. Our family of four swim right from our house (daily after work until November), we keep a small boat (a sad little thing really), do a little fishing, and sail occasionally."

From Princeton Henry entered Columbia University Medical School from which he graduated in 1939. He did two years of internship and six months residency in Radiology at Lenox Hill Hospital. This was followed by four years service as a medical officer in the Navy attached to a Naval Hospital. Upon discharge he returned to his studies and spent a year as medical resident fellow in Pathology at the University of California. He set up practice in Redwood City in 1948 and after two years passed the written American Board of Internal Medicine exams and nine months later the orals — "my last examinations in this incarnation, I hope!"

In addition to being on the staff of the Sequoia Hospital, Henry is also a Senior Attending Physician on the staff of the San Mateo County Hospital and on the medical teaching staff of Stanford University. His major medical interest is in the field of cardiology and angiology.

Henry's major recreational hobby is photography, both still and movie, and this fits in with his love of travel and the outdoors. He and his wife manage to go skiing and mountain climbing every year, usually to a new place, and have even succeeded in climbing over in Russia in 1956.

His wife, Ollie, is a mechanical engineer who runs her own business, which is to design and manufacture science teaching equipment for elementary schools. She also makes science toys. She has been a winner of the Bay Area Engineers Week Award.

As to Princeton, Henry says, "I am eternally grateful for my wonderful education and the four glorious years that I spent there. And Princeton continues to fulfill my pride in my Alma Mater. I hope some day to send my son there."

"Statistically I head up, more or less, a family unit of son Devereux, aged ten with red hair, and twin daughters—Mary, a blonde of nine, and Rosamond (Rocky), a brunette who joined the group five minutes after her sister.

"My partner in this colorful enterprise is their mother, the former Lydia Emmet Sherwood of New York, whom I married in 1948. Our base of operations New Yorker and worked in the United Nations. During the war she served with a Red Cross Clubmobile unit attached to the U. S. 5th Army, in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, and was awarded the Bronze Star.

"I suppose you'd call us urban types and, as such, we've resisted the trend towards moving to the suburbs. The children are all at schools here in town is a brownstone house and garden in Manhattan's East Seventies.

"I'm engaged in the advertising agency business with C. J. LaRoche & Co., Inc. as an account executive supervising advertising for Revlon. Prior to joining the firm in '59, I was with McCann-Erickson, Inc. for nine years, on the National Biscuit and other accounts. I entered the field after graduation, with the J. Walter Thompson Co., and have continued in it with only two interruptions: my Navy service and a year spent in an industrial design firm.

"In the Navy, I served largely in the Caribbean area around Curacao and Venezuela where the oil tanker convoys were an object of some enemy submarine interest. I also served, variously, as Admiral's Aide and as Personnel officer for the Tenth Naval District. My rank was Lieutenant.

"My wife is a writer, and holds down a job on the editorial staff of Vogue magazine. She has also written for the and are thriving—Dev at Buckley, the girls at Brearley.

"I think of hobbies as the things I'd like to do rather than do do—like travel, or art collecting. Golf, as I play it, ain't no hobby, man! We like to take winter vacations, when feasible, and have, in recent years, gone to Jamaica, The Bahamas, Bermuda, etc. — several times in company with the Sam Walkers ('35) and, another time, with the William Foulkes of '34.

"Our political sympathies incline towards the liberal; we have no party affiliation and some of our best friends believe in constitutional monarchy.

"Many of my undergraduate courses have been continuing sources of pleasure to me; some have provided lasting standards of values: Baldy Smith in architecture, Ira Wade on 17th Century French thought, Asher Hinds in criticism. I feel strongly that the people, and not the plant, make a university—and that the liberal arts are the essential matter to be explored in one."

much, despite the endless taxiing and commuting.

"My work is principally in the field of corporate and financial law, and has been especially heavy the past few months—late nights are not too satisfactory for a commuter. Used to do a good deal of traveling on business but have slackened off recently.

"Jean and I have taken up golf moderately seriously—much enjoy the game, although there is enormous room for improvement. Usually spend some time every weekend puttering in the garden with the girls. Enjoy painting low-grade water colors (all scenery, no people), but have not had as much time for this as I would like.

"After graduation from Yale Law School in 1939, I worked with Davis Polk Wardwell Sunderland & Kiendl in New York for about three years—came to my present firm, Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, after the war and became a partner in 1948. (Five of my partners are also Princetonians—the largest representation).

"Spent the war in the Navy in Washington—winding up as aide to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy who was in charge of material procurement—Commander, Legion of Merit.

"Served until recently as president of Youth Consultation Service, an Episcopalian agency in New York—have also been spending some time on the board of the Metropolitan Opera Guild. We try to get in to the opera every two weeks and much enjoy it. Jean and I went to Italy and France this past May—saw a few operas and a good many other things.

"I feel strongly that Princeton gave me as good an education as it was possible to get, and I believe it is doing an outstanding job today. Princeton must continue as in the past to establish a standard for quality in education—this promises to become harder for there seems to be little likelihood that costs will go down and the state-supported universities will provide stiffer competition for good teachers and hence good undergraduates."

Jim tells us: "After graduation from Princeton, I attended West Virginia University Law School for three years, graduating therefrom in 1938 with a degree of LLB. I immediately practiced law, being associated with Tom B. Foulk of Wheeling until I joined the Naval Reserve in May of 1943. I was discharged in February 1945 after service in Norfolk, the South Pacific area with PTs and Washington, D. C. in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

"I retired with the rank of Lieutenant and resumed the practice of law as a partner in the firm of Foulke & McClure. In 1949 I changed legal affiliations and became a partner in the firm of O'Brien & McClure.

"From November 1952 to March 1957 I served as judge of the Municipal Court of Wheeling. In February 1957 I was appointed Chairman of the West Virginia Racing Commission, upon which body I still serve. On April 1, 1959, I again changed legal affiliation and am now a partner in the law firm of Petroplus, Bailey, McClure and Byrum.

"I have had the usual experiences in civic enterprises, having served as Treasurer of the Wheeling Chapter of the Red Cross, President of the Board of Neighborhood House, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the United Presbyterian Church of Wheeling.

"Last fall I was elected Second Vice-President of the West Virginia State Bar, and, if I don't disgrace myself in the meantime, will become President in 1960.

"Last year I served as Chairman of both the Constitution and By-Laws and the Judiciary Committees of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners.

"As my time is pretty well filled up between my law practice and my official duties in regard to horseracing, my hobbies are few and far between. The little time I have to spare is mainly spent in my hillside yard at my home in the West Virginia hills."

"My war was gentle enough. After getting a j.g. commission I went to beautiful Fort Schuyler—then Harvard Communications School and then two years in Argentia, Newfoundland.

"Have been interested in or sucked into the usual local charitable activities—Crippled Children, Family and Children's Service, Hospital Board, all cam-

"I've managed, mostly as a result of inheriting some money from my parents, to get my daughter through Westover and now in Briarcliff and Hank in Berkshire and I'm constantly horrified to find they are as lousy students as I was and about as interested in their work.

"Princeton is doubtless so far out of my son's reach that I find my interest waning somewhat (very poor attitude, I'm sure, especially since it has always meant a lot to me.)"

Married: Catherine A., May 14, 1940

Donald Adams, May 29, 1945

Bob writes: "Main interests relate to my Wisconsin-raised wife and our two teenagers, the chemical industry (especially the development of new products, product uses and processes) the chores connected with home owning, the cocktail before dinner, our small putt-putt on the Sound, water skiing, the Republican party, Episcopal Church, Boy Scouts, non-business and technical reading, parties and women.

"My 'career' has been somewhat unusual inasmuch as I am essentially still with the company, Buffalo Electrochemical Co. with which I started but which was merged into the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation structure in 1951. Having graduated as a chemist, I started in research and development, targeting efforts primarily toward peroxides and their applications to the textile, plastics, and pulp and paper industries.

"I tried about two years of night school at the graduate level, but could not complete Master's requirements due to the extensive travel which ran 40% to 75% of the time from 1937 through 1942 and from 1944 through 1956. Travel was coast-to-coast, Canada, and included two trips to Europe on business. Have authored about twenty patents and a number of papers for technical journals. I have been wrapped up in the American Chemical Society, Amer. Inst. of Chemists, the Commercial Chemical Development Ass'n, Tech. Ass'n of the Pulp and Paper Industry, etc. I have done my share in community fund raising and local affairs Princetonian.

"My wife, Cathie, graduated from Wisconsin in 1938, interned in dietetics in Boston, where we met. Her interests are reading, crosswords, gardening (a fairly green thumb), stamps (including first flight covers), U. S. coins, sewing (a mean needle), and for about ten years has been active in the Red Cross staff work and especially in medical library work in several hospitals.

"Looking back on my Princeton education, I only regret that, as an undergraduate, I had too much work and too little play, and that I was not financially able to continue graduate work. I claim to be an ardent Princeton alumnus and hope my son, Don, can make the grade (doubtful) if he wants to. FMC built a Central Research facility near Princeton in 1956, and my current activities get me there quite often, including overnights at the Nassau Inn or the Princeton Inn. To me the campus atmosphere is nostalgic, especially 3 North Reunion (dive bombing with water-filled paper bags).

"My pet peeves concern themselves with commuting, industrial and political red tape, the pace of business particularly in New York where everything is wanted 'yesterday.' However, the 25 years since Princeton have been full, challenging, interesting, and happy. Our two adopted children are grand kids, and we have every expectation that they will grow into happy, useful, and contributing citizens—especially after they work through the teenage years."

Ross Hayward, July 26, 1953

Ross writes: "While at Princeton I had the greatest admiration for those classmates who had established a clear aim in life. Now, after 25 years, I am all the more convinced that a firm purpose is the priceless ingredient in the recipe for fruitful education . . . and the career thereafter.

"It is encouraging to note that this feeling seems to be shared (perhaps because of the draft) by my son's young friends who are approaching college. I would like to see 'purpose' made a requirement for admission to Princeton, along with academic, athletic and sociable attainments; and I am sure that, on an informal basis, it is.

"It has given me great pleasure to write the preceding philosophical paragraphs without once using the word motivation. And now to the nuts and bolts!

"Emerging from Princeton with fuzzy but amiable intentions, I went to the New York Daily News as a copy boy, evolved laboriously into an assistant picture assignment editor, and then joined the Air Force after being told I was physically impossible.

"Every time I see an IBM machine today, I think of the Air Force classification system. I was progressively a Base Legal Officer, Base S-4, Squadron Commander, and finally a Group Intelligence Officer. I ended up in Burma seeing sights that I would love to be able to afford today.

"In 1946 I joined an oil trade journal with the "blue sky" name of PLATT'S OILGRAM and this seems to have had a lot to do with what followed. Two years later I went into the public relations business with Cunningham & Walsh, representing the brand new pipeline company, Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation. From there by way of the late Cecil & Presbrey, Inc., to Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles to work on the American Petroleum Institute advertising. In 1959 I joined Bozell & Jacobs, Inc., which acts as PR Counsel to the American Gas Association. And that's about it.

"Marion, the children and I live pleasantly in New Canaan. We have an exciting swamp below us where poachers and bird watchers abound, and the younger children half drown themselves every day. Laundry is a big thing in our lives.

"My only real hobby is for foreign affairs. I have been able to indulge this as commander of the intelligence and psychological warfare reserve units in New York."

"Harking back to the opening paragraph, I have been tremendously impressed by the sense of purpose that pervades Princeton these days. Last April I spent the night in Princeton with several gas utility men. One of them, a real good-time-Charlie when he was in college, was overwhelmed by the fact that students were boning in the Firestone Library at 11:00 p. m. Perhaps the reason we were so impressed and pleased is that our country now has a purpose it did not have when we went to school.

Roderick William, November 29, 1954

Rod writes: "After leaving Princeton at the end of freshman year, I went to Northwestern for one more year, and then called it quits with the academic world in the strict sense. I have spent more than 20 years in the advertising agency business, climbing that exciting and uncertain ladder from 5th assistant production dept. assistant to a vice-presidency, though not at the same agency: it almost never works that way.

"After leaving the agency business because of uncertain health, I started free-lancing, calling myself an advertising counsel because that increases the hourly fees acceptable to the naive. Having proved that I could starve to death comfortably in this line of work, I moved, with my wife and son, to Fort Lauderdale in 1956.

"Here I work five days a week in slacks, sports shirt and tennis shoes, in a small office . . . taking time to take care of life's important things, such as swimming when the weather is good, which is nearly always.

"I am impressed with what I read about Princeton, and, when working in New York a few years back, used to get back to Princeton for an occasional game and weekend. It seems to me that there is a somewhat more realistic air layer in the Princeton atmosphere these days; yet the bases of a 'Princeton Education' remain pretty constant, it would appear. I wish that I had been mature enough and interested enough to take advantage of the Princeton opportunity at the time: I wasn't, and as the old Moorish King wrote, 'We put on wisdom with the robe of dust.'

"I have pronounced beliefs about education anyway; the first being that by and large the American general educational system is close to awful; the second being that, if a core of intelligence is destined to be saved for the use of this nation at all, it will be saved by such institutions as Princeton; and third, that to reverse the incredibly swiftening pace of social revolution in this country will require very great changes in the educational point of view. From which you may rightly gather that I am not an optimist.

"However, I hope and believe that Princeton will stand for a long time as a strong link between the good things of the past and the opportunities of the very unpredictable future.

"This egotistical sounding memo should, you ask, be concluded with some mention of the interviewee's interests. I do some writing, primarily for the trade and business press or its offshoots, and hope to do more. I like reading, art, swimming and a few other things."

Investment Banker

Home: 122 East Gramercy, San Antonio, Texas. Tel. Pershing 2-2743

Business: Lentz, Newton & Company, Alamo National Building, San Antonio, Texas

Married: Martha Moore, September 15, 1937

Children: P. J. McNeel, Jr., November 3, 1939

John K., June 18, 1946

Before going into the investment business, Pleas was President of the McNeel Jewelry Company. He is now a partner in his investment firm, which is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. During World War II he was in the Air Force as a Ground Officer Wing Adjutant, stationed in Europe and was discharged with the rank of Major.

His main hobby is fishing, which he does each year during the month of July in Port Aransas, Texas. He and his wife have taken trips to Europe, Mexico and Central America, where they have spent most of their time sight-seeing.

His wife, Martha, is a graduate of Vassar and now spends her time being active in such organizations as the Red Cross, the Junior League, the Art League and the Garden Club. Her husband states that her comments about Princeton are "censored."

Married: Alice Reed, October 26, 1939

Children: J. Alexander, Jr., June 21, 1944

Marcia, November 11, 1946

Alex was with the Elgin Watch Company before turning to farm management. He is now co-manager of McWilliams Farms. He is a member of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers and is a Director of the Bank of Dwight, the Dwight Country Club and the Alver Popcorn Company. He served in the Field Artillery from 1942 to 1945, stationed in Oklahoma as a Battery Executive, F.A.R.T.C. camouflage instructor, and was discharged as a 1st Lieutenant.

He and his family have traveled around the United States and Canada, and he has often been fishing in Canada, sometimes with Harry Gilbert '35. His vacation spots vary from Rye Beach, New Hampshire, to various places in California. Mac lists as his hobbies: reading (mostly history and current events), golf, fishing, and hunting (birds). He is a member of the Racquet Club, the Glenview Golf Club, the Lions Club, and the Dwight Country Club.

His wife is a graduate of Pratt Institute and before her marriage was an artist and dress designer. Now her time is pretty well taken up with her family, but she does do some painting now and then. According to her husband, "she doesn't entirely understand 'this Princeton business' but puts up with it fairly well."

Jane Beekman, May 10, 1954

Yank is the Executive Vice-President of his company. Before joining it, he worked as a real estate negotiator, a Housing Administrator for the Brookhaven National Laboratory, and for a time he was connected with the Atlantic Refining Company. He was in the Naval Reserve from 1941 to 1946 attached to the Amphibious Forces. His rank on discharge was that of Lieutenant Commander and he earned one battle star (North African Invasion).

Yank serves on committees of Rochester Day Nursery and St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He has also found time to be Secretary and Graduate Council Representative for the Princeton Alumni Association of Suffolk County.

He says his hobbies are "gun collecting and raising a family." Summer vacations are spent in Cooperstown, New York, where as he says he "takes it easy, primarily; plus fishing and swimming and short excursions with the family." His wife, Dede, is a Vassar graduate and before her marriage was a Lieutenant in the Waves. Now, besides being busy with the family, she finds time to do church work and belong to a few women's clubs. Both of her brothers are Princeton men: the elder, Pete Schwarz, Class of 1936.

Children: Mary Helen, August 19, 1941
Jane Southgate, July 22, 1947

Ray writes: "I started working for Corn Products one month after graduation and have been with them ever since. After two years in a variety of jobs training at the biggest plant, near Chicago, I transferred to the Edgewater, New Jersey, plant. I went back long enough to marry Mary Southgate of LaGrange, Illinois, on Christmas night, 1937. The only good thing to be said for Christmas as an anniversary is that it is impossible to forget. We lived in Leonia, New Jersey, for three years. Mary organized a nursery school with a friend and ran it until we were transferred.

"At the New Jersey plant I was moved from engineering into manufacturing as a supervisor. This was more of a blow than this old plant could take and it folded. We were, as a consequence, sent to the plant at North Kansas City in 1940 and I remained there in various supervisory jobs for two years.

"In 1942 I was sent to the Argo plant, outside Chicago, where I had started with the company, but this time it was in the supervision of certain manufacturing operations. In 1945 I was sent to Harvard Business School for three months of retreading, as it was called. Two years later I left direct manufacturing operations to become staff assistant to the general factory manager, located in Chicago. A year after that I got back into engineering through the front door as staff assistant to the Chief Engineer.

"Since then I have been in the Central Engineering Dept. of the company, much of the time directing process engineering work. A year ago I was made Director of Mechanical Engineering. Since this is what I was graduated in, it seems appropriate."

William Robert Meighan

Office Manager

Home: 32 Princeton Terrace, Oakland, N. J. Tel. Federal 7-4595

Business: 485 Engle Street, Englewood, N. J.

Children: Robert Phelps, May 29, 1946

As Bill's home address implies, if he can't live in Princeton he does the next best thing by living on a street of the same name. Before his present job he tried his hand at a variety of things: accountant, cashier, stenographer, salesman and clerk. Therefore he brings plenty of experience to his present job, that of being Office Manager for Michael M. Burris, Consulting Engineer and Land Planner.

From his list of hobbies one could well believe that Bill is busier or as busy during his free hours as he is in business hours; fishing, tennis, bowling, hiking, reading and writing are some of them. He spends the month of July or August in Ocean Grove, New Jersey, and has on three separate occasions traveled to Colorado, Canada and Florida.

Bill's wife is a graduate of Parsons School of Fine and Applied Arts and the Art Students League, both in New York City. Before her marriage she worked for a publishing firm. Now, she keeps up with her art interests besides being a housewife, doing church work, and playing an occasional set of tennis.

Children: Carol Ann, March 26, 1945
Barbara Louise, December 29, 1949

Wayne holds the distinction of being his own boss; nice work if you can get it. His autobiographical sketch runs as follows: "Following graduation I became associated with the American Preserve Co., a family owned business distributing Schimmel Brand Preserves and Jellies throughout the eastern part of the U. S. I became president in 1940 and continued as principal and active head of this business until 1956. The business expanded during the 1940s, but soon after 1950 competition from manufacturing chain store organizations caused a contraction of profits and the operation was discontinued in 1956.

"Since 1956 I have done consulting work, engaging in two assignments on behalf of Philadelphia banks, and in a third on behalf of acquaintances of the family.

"I served as a Director and two terms as President of the National Preservers Association. Have served as Chairman of Philadelphia Food Manufacturing Division of Community Chest; Director of Garfield Federal Savings and Loan Association, Trustee of Perkiomen School; Teacher and Board Member, Carmel Presbyterian Church, Glenside, Pa. I am a member of the Manufacturers Golf and Country Club and the Union League Club of Phil.

"My wife has been quite active in P.T.A. and related school activities, serving as President of both the Elementary and Junior High P.T.A. Associations. She is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College.

"A number of summers have been spent at Pocono Lake Preserve in Pennsylvania, although in more recent years the children have been to camp in New England. Last summer Carol spent the summer living with friends of my wife in Germany, and this summer one of the children of the German family is living with us. We expect to show her some of the country during the summer."

Bill obtained his M.D. from Jefferson in 1939 and for ten years was the Industrial Physician for the Philadelphia Electric Company. He is now in private practice. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Pennsylvania Medical Association, the Montgomery County Medical and the Main Line Medical Associations. He served in the Medical Corps of the Army from 1941 to 1946 and was discharged a Captain.

Bill and his family spend August at Sea Isle City, New Jersey where they spend their time boating and fishing. His wife was a teacher before her marriage and now has her hands full raising four boys.

Bill writes: "The only gem I have to offer is a grievance. I have always been a loyal supporter of Princeton (perhaps not financially), but, when I took my boy to have an interview at Princeton in the Spring of 1958, I would say I got a good brush off by one of the young assistants to Bill Edwards. I was not surprised that my boy was turned down because his grades were not superlative, but was slightly annoyed at the way he was ruled poor Princeton material. A classmate of ours whose son had the highest grades in his class — football captain, President of his class, etc., also was turned down and the son is now doing very well at Dartmouth, contrary to the facts in the Alumni Weekly. I am afraid if one of my other boys could possibly be Princeton material (whatever that is), I will not steer him to our alma mater."

"After leaving Princeton," Herm writes us, "I entered the Lutheran Seminary in Philadelphia, from which I graduated with a B. D. degree in 1938. I started as an Assistant Pastor in Reformation Lutheran Church of Rochester where the most notable achievement on my part was to win my wife, the former Dorothy Agne. We were married in 1940.

"Shortly thereafter, we moved to North Tonawanda where I became Pastor of Grace Lutheran Church and remained there till December of 1958. While there I served all offices in the local Ministerial Association, of the Lutheran Pastors Assn., of Conference and also served on the Executive Committee and Home Missions Committee.

mittee of Synod, the Examining Committee. I was active in civic affairs and joined the Lions Club.

"This year (1959) I became Pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer of Utica, N. Y. and now reside here. I have four wonderful children as has already been noted in the department of vital statistics. My latest honor, and one I deeply appreciate, will be to have charge of the Memorial Service at our coming 25th reunion.

"I can truthfully say that I appreciate increasingly my education at Princeton as well as the background it gave me. Princeton surely gave me much more than I ever gave Princeton."

Children: Thomas Finletter, June 12, 1956

"After Princeton, I went to Yale Law School where I spent three pleasant years and made many good friends. After that I worked hard as a young lawyer in New York City until World War II.

"I had a long but undistinguished war spent in this country, Panama, England, France and Germany. I ended up a Major and the French were kind enough to give a Croix de Guerre with Palm and the Belgians one with a Silver Star.

"After the war I returned to my old firm and was soon hard at work again. In 1951, I went to Washington and spent three and a half fascinating years as Assistant General Counsel to the Central Intelligence Agency.

"In 1957 I joined my present firm, Choate, Mitchell, Bayes & Baker. Although I do a little of everything I am primarily interested in law that involves international trade or the representation here of foreign companies, governments or individuals.

"I do a small amount of "pro bono publico work. I am a director and the Secretary of the Institute for International Order and a trustee and the Secretary of the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples.

"I have recently become much interested in the United World Federalists, an organization that believes in world peace through world law and in disarmament under a system of inspection and control, supervised by a strengthened United Nations. At present I am the President of the New York State Branch and this keeps me busy.

"I married Margot Finletter in 1949. We have one child, a boy of three-and-a-half named Thomas after his grandfather, Thomas K. Finletter, who was Secretary of the Air Force under Truman. We have a small cottage in Bar Harbor and spend as much of each summer as possible there. In the winter we ski in the Berkshires whenever we can.

"New York keeps me very busy, often with very trivial things, and I therefore do not see enough of my classmates. Whenever I do it gives me great pleasure and I hope to see more of all of you in the next twenty-five years."

Minot C. Morgan, Jr.

General Manager, Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N. J.

Home: 36 Mercer Street, Princeton, N. J.

Business: Institute for Advanced Study, Olden Lane, Princeton, N. J.

Married: Virginia S. Myers, September 7, 1950

Children: Starr Kohlsaas Wilson, February 17, 1933 (stepdaughter)

Cecily Gates Kohlsaas, May 4, 1935 (stepdaughter)

Dana Louise Morgan, February 6, 1939

Minot C. Morgan, III, February 10, 1942

William D. Morgan, June 13, 1944

Mike has been Class Secretary for the past five years. One of his stepdaughters married S. D. Wilson of the Class of '50 and another married W. H. Von Oehsen of the Class of '56. Of himself, Mike says:

"Autobiography is a difficult tightrope between pride and self-pity, with a large dash of false modesty, but here goes. After many hours of arithmetic, it seems that what there is of me has run in four fairly parallel channels for the last quarter-century: (1) Profession—School-teacher, getting further and further from the classroom, until I am now, I hope, a moderately efficient and devoted educators' business-man; (2) Family—One unsuccessful marriage, and a second, very exciting putting-together of two families, three children on each side, and now grandchildren apace; (3) Politics—Semi-retired Democrat, small-town politician, office-holder (but still an old fire-horse when the right bell rings); (4) Princeton—Probably still listed as a sophomore—never left town since Raycroft's examination.

"I. Profession—1935-40, teacher of young men, Hun School; 1940-53, utility infielder, Princeton University administration; baby dean under Root, Gauss, and Eisenhart (no young educator could ask for a more rewarding apprenticeship, generous, exacting, gracious, exciting); Director of the Bureau of Student Aid and Employment; Princeton missionary for the Graduate Council and the Admission Committee, tens of thousands of miles and hundreds of dear friends; 1953 to date, General Manager of the Institute for Advanced Study, where I try to serve a few of these dedicated people that are very near the frontier of truth about the nature of things.

"II. Family—Ginny and I, almost ten years ago, merged two families of three children each and waited for the explosion. We are still waiting; peace, it's wonderful; these people really liked each other and have ever since. We attribute our success to large doses of the Atlantic Ocean, music, laughter, and not a little love.

"III. Politics—I am a proud, unregenerate Wilsonian Democrat (five will get you ten that the next President is an egg-head, a Wilsonian, and a Princetonian). I have held one term of elective office (Mayor, Borough of Princeton), and I am an expert in Lost Causes (notably the consolidation of the two Princetons—we wuz clobbered). If my name is ever again on a ballot, it will not be sooner than the graduation of my youngest son from Harvard.

"IV. Princeton—It is exciting to be a three-fold alumnus of this place: the University Administration, the Class of 1935, and the College. I have had very rich years in this service, and much pride. I have worked with and for great and dear people. I have seen and been part of much growth and much change; I have earnestly promoted some change that did not occur, and I have stubbornly resisted some that did. This tri-alumnus status has sometimes been a bit like being an ardent Dodger fan, and suddenly finding that you are playing third base, and the rest of the infield is Hodges, Robinson and Reese. Sometimes maybe you don't throw as well as the other fellows.

"V. Princeton, 1931-1935. The lovely intangibles (stealing a clapper with Hart, writing edits with Prich, being reprimanded by Page) are endless, but beyond the confines of this space. I was a very happy young man during those four years. I would live them again, verbatim. But it should also be in the record, loud and clear, that somewhere along the line I picked up a very healthy respect for the dignity of man and the brotherhood of man, and I have endeavored to live thereby. This I attribute to my parents, to Princeton, to my classmates, but particularly to one preceptor guy named Willard Thorp, who is, thank God, still in the business of education at the same old stand. Twenty-five years ago, in gratitude for an insight that they did not yet quite understand, six guys named Gullion, Page, Prichard, Smith, Welles, and Morgan gave him a fine bottle of sherry. Then, it seemed quite right. Today, it seems a little small for a legacy of faith."

Peter, November 15, 1947 (step-son)

Elsa, February 15, 1957

Mike writes: "Some months after graduation went to work as an accountant for a subsidiary of Diamond Alkali Co. in Pittsburgh, Pa. In 1936 went to Oklahoma City as office manager of the Midvale Industrial Chemical Corporation and remained there until October, 1940. Managed to dodge the draft by enlisting in the Infantry at Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland, on October 15, 1940. Was commissioned in the QMC in 1941 and transferred to the Adjutant General's Department. Served at Camp Lee, Va., until 1944 when went overseas (New Guinea, Biak, Philippines, and Japan). Reverted to inactive status as Lt. Colonel in 1946.

"Was married to Josephine Lown Bond in December, 1941, this marriage ending in divorce in 1955. After the war entered the Real Estate and Insurance business in Sewickley, Pennsylvania. Sold business in 1952 and came to the Virgin Islands, where I founded my present company, Morgan-Yates, Inc., dealers in bottled gas, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Paints, and other household items. Was married in New York to Patricia Appleton McLane in May, 1955, and we are now building a home in the Constant section of St. Thomas.

"I have been interested and active in Community services. Am at present Vice-Commodore of the Virgin Islands Yacht Club a Director of the Virgin Islands Museum, Trustee and Treasurer (and past President) of the Antilles School, member of the St. Thomas Chamber of Commerce, Classification Committee Chairman of the St. Thomas Rotary Club, Member of the St. Thomas Council of the Navy League, and other civic service organizations. In fact, I have just realized why it has been so difficult to find time to write the above. While I have never followed my field of endeavor at Princeton (Geology), I have always been appreciative of the opportunities I received there. I feel that Princeton is in step with the times and our new President is doing an excellent job."

"After graduation from Princeton," Boss writes, "I went to work for Francis Willey & Co. Boston. The company manufactured Wool Tops for use in the worsted trade. Most of the time prior to the war I spent at the Barre Wool Combing, the mill which Francis Willey & Co. owned.

"During the war from 1942 to 1945 I was in the Ordnance Dept. I rose to the rank of Captain and for better than two years was Chief of the Renovation and the Surveillance section of the Philadelphia Ammunition Supply Office, Office of the Chief of Ordnance. In brief the duties entailed control of use and restriction of use of ammunition lots. We maintained all records pertaining thereto and furnished technical information to all installations of Continental United States and Overseas Theaters relative to Small Arms Ammunition.

"After the War, I returned to Francis Willey & Co. where I remained until its liquidation in 1946. Most of this period I was head of the Synthetic department.

"After the liquidation of Francis Willey & Co. I joined the brokerage firm of Elmer H. Bright & Co., Boston, and became a registered representative in this member firm of the New York Stock Exchange. My experience here led to the opportunity to join David L. Babson & Co. in the capacity of investment counsellor.

"Among extra-curricular activities locally, I am Moderator of the Unitarian church, Director of the Y.M.C.A., board member of the Anna Jacques hospital, a member of the Institution for Savings, and for five years Treasurer of the Merrimac River Power Squadron."

Married: Hope W., May 2, 1959

Stepchildren: Frances Kidder Dukehart, December 3, 1949

Hunter writes: "From 1938 through 1958 I lived in Baltimore, formed The Moss-Rouse Company, mortgage bankers, in 1939, and Hunter Moss & Company, real estate consultants in 1950. Business activities consisted of counseling on urban renewal opportunities and procedures, on central city and suburban retail, office building and industrial problems, and providing location analyses, market studies, tax advisory services, and appraisals. In 1958 Hunter Moss & Company moved its headquarters to Miami because of expanding opportunities in Florida and throughout the Caribbean area. A construction financing business is also conducted throughout South Florida.

"In Baltimore I became interested in many civic affairs and was, over a period of years, Vice President of the Baltimore Community Chest, President of the Baltimore County Children's Aid Society, Vice Chairman of the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency, Chairman of the planning Council of the Greater Baltimore Committee, Chairman of the Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy, and Trustee of the Enoch Pratt Free Library and of Goucher College. I was also a Director of the Fidelity-Baltimore National Bank.

"From 1942 to 1946 I was in the U. S. Marine Corps, serving overseas with the 2nd Division as company commander of the 2nd Assault Signal Company with major engagements at Saipan, Tinian, and Okinawa.

"In 1959 after moving to Florida I changed my focus from a single city concentration to a broad area coverage encompassing the entire Caribbean and Latin America, with Miami as headquarters. This recognized the increasing effect of population growth and jet airplane transportation, combined with the natural desire of so many people (including me) to live and play where it is warm. My Owens cruiser tied up in front of my house for cruising, fishing, water skiing, and swimming only proves that I live my warm weather philosophy.

"Princeton made much of this possible by giving the broad foundation that is so necessary, and if I had to choose a college again, it would be Princeton—if I could get in."

William C. Motter

Dental Supply Manager

Home: 756 Fairmont Avenue, St. Paul, Minn. Tel. Capital 7-3095

Business: P.O. Box 225, St. Paul, Minn.

Married: Ellen Gorham, November 4, 1939

Children: William C., Jr., January 25, 1941

"My life has been anything but sensational since leaving Princeton," Bill writes. "However, it has been extremely pleasant. I have been with the M. F. Patterson Dental Supply Co. since graduation. This is Jack Patterson's '35 family's company. The Patterson Dental Supply is the largest retail dental supply company in the country and has 40 retail outlets in the western part of the U. S. I started with them at their Minneapolis store and then was transferred to Houston in 1936 and managed the branch there. In 1947 I was transferred back to St. Paul and appointed Assistant Sales Manager of the company, a position which I held until 1950 when I took over the management of the St. Paul Store which is still my present status. Also I have been editing a company magazine since 1952. This is distributed to about 700 employees.

"In 1939 I married Ellen Gorham of Buffalo, New York with assists from Jim Quigley, Satch Chamberlain, Bob Etherington, Pat Patton, Bill Edwards '36 and Gordon Brown '34. We have one son, Will, who was born in 1941 and who has just graduated from the St. Paul Academy (a country day school). He is now in the Class of 1963 at Union College.

"Since returning to St. Paul, I have been President of the Princeton Alumni Association of the Northwest and also was Chairman of Princeton Alumni Giving for St. Paul for 5 years. My other odd jobs have been President of the St. Paul Academy Alumni Association and President of the White Bear Yacht Club which is a country club in the suburbs of St. Paul. My hobby is golf and, I might add, that I have one hell of a job beating my wife, who gave up an excellent game of tennis after she married me, because it was too embarrassing for her to appear on the court with me."

Ithaca, N. Y.

Children: Elizabeth P., January 2, 1941
Susan K., May 11, 1946

Bill writes: "Things being what they were in 1935, there was no point in trying to get a job and earn an honest living, so I got myself an exchange scholarship and spent the year 1935-36 at the University of Berlin, Germany, studying German language and literature. Then in the fall of 1936 I came back again and started graduate work at Yale. A year later I began teaching German, along with my graduate work, and so it took me until June of 1941 to get my Ph. D. Yale had (and still has) some marvelous linguists, and linguistics was the field in which I did most of my work. I stayed on at Yale through part of the war years, and in 1943-44 taught German to several classes of military government officers at the Yale Civil Affairs Training School. Then in April 1944, I went down to Washington, to work as Language Supervisor in the Military Government Division, Office of the Provost Marshal General, supervising language instruction in six Far East Civil Affairs Training Schools. A year later I gradually moved over into another part of the Office of the PMG, and wound up working on the re-education of German prisoners of war at a number of camps. By that time I was a captain, AUS, and my immediate superior was none other than Major Henry Lee Smith, Jr., '35. We continued working together until April 1946, when we were both separated from the service.

"Back at Yale again I lasted for only a year, and then allowed myself to be tempted up to Cornell, arriving here in the fall of 1947 and staying here happily for at least the next twelve years. Here I teach courses in general and Germanic linguistics (I have the latest thing in Gothic for anyone who wants it. A surprising number do, incidentally.) This has gotten me into all sorts of things: visiting professor at the University of Michigan in the summers of 1951 and 1955; Vice President of the Linguistic Society of America; member of the Executive Council of the Modern Language Association; etc. More to the point, it has brought me two delightful years abroad doing research. In 1953-54 I had a Fulbright research grant to Holland; in 1958-59 I had an American Council of Learned Societies fellowship to spend the year in Zurich, doing research on Swiss German dialects.

"My one claim to fame: I work like mad every fall on annual giving. This year I am again chairman for the Ithaca region. And once a year I try to get to Princeton for a meeting of the Advisory Council of the Department of Modern Languages or, under the new reorganization, Department of German."

Advertising Executive

Home: 1045 Westchester Way, Birmingham, Mich.

Tel. Midwest 6-8047

Business: Grant Advertising, Inc., 2900 Guardian Building, Detroit 26, Mich.

Married: Harriett Knight, June 26, 1937

Children: Edwin M., III, April 14, 1938

Bruce Knight, November 6, 1942

"Chronologically," Mac writes, "I graduated, took a quick family tour abroad, and returned to the suburbs of Detroit and the girl I had intended to marry since dancing school days. (Harriett Knight, in case any of you remember her from house parties.)

"This seemed to require earning a living. Since I had put down 'advertising' as my future occupation in The Nassau Herald' (simply out of desperation), I got a job at Campbell-Ewald Company, gravitating quite naturally to writing copy.

"About a year later, Harriett asked me if I planned to court her the rest of my life. That's what I really had in mind, but we were soon engaged, married, and raising a family, in that order. (Tom Moore was best man; stopped in on Jim Crane and house-guest Jim May in Buffalo.)

"In retrospect, I was a singularly unambitious guy during my 16-year career at Campbell-Ewald. Life in suburban Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills was pleasant, we had lots of friends, and my work was an accepted interruption to the more important issues of golf, squash, tennis, swimming, softball games and the casual enjoyment of social and family living.

"This is not to say that I didn't work hard and conscientiously from 9 till 5. I ended up supervising the copy department, and was pretty well respected as copy chief for Chevrolet. But I don't think I ever looked on my work as a challenge.

"About 8 years ago, I took on a new job with Grant Advertising, Inc. when they acquired the Dodge car account. By force of circumstances, I was caught up in the vacuum of responsibility and turned into a high-priced, hard-working advertising executive, involved in all phases of marketing, research and advertising.

"It isn't exactly the life I would have planned. Fourteen hour days are more the rule than the exception, which is strange for someone who liked the pleasant life. I guess I get my reward out of solving problems and working with people to produce effective advertising. It's considerably harder on Harriett, who seems happily resigned to a pretty limited social life.

"I'm a golf bum at heart (5 handicap), playing weekends at Orchard Lake Country Club, Spring family vacation at Farmington Country Club in Charlottesville, Virginia, and Fall stag junkie to Pinehurst. Also very fond of bridge, martinis, and stereo symphonies, reading good books and bad two-bit Westerns. Princeton activities: I've worked on the Schools and Scholarship Committee, been President and on the Board of The Princeton Club of Michigan, and certainly had some fun presiding at the informal cocktail-and-dinner evening of the 'Princeton in Michigan' Alumni Conference.

"I feel my love of Princeton (my father was '02, my son is '61) is related somehow to the honesty of its teaching and the honesty of values on the campus. Something about the school makes pretense and sham unworthy. I can't look on a Princeton education as being a means to financial success. It is a background for an honest perspective on life."

Ed has lived in or around Schenectady and been with General Electric. He is now Manager of the Auditing Company. He is a member of the Controllors Institute of America and the Institute of Internal Auditors; he is also a Director of a Paper Manufacturing concern, and Director and President of the Albany Control, Controllors Institute.

Ed is equally busy in civic organizations as a member of the Board of Managers of Ellis Hospital and various activities with respect to financial affairs of both his church and the Girl Scouts. He published an article entitled, "The Business Values of Classical Training" in the Classical Journal, and several professional articles in the "Internal Auditor."

He enjoys golf and some tennis and swimming. He and his family summer in the Adirondacks (Blue Mountain, Pleasant, Brant) or at Kennebunk Beach, Maine. There, as he says, "I rest (with a bit of swimming, boating, fishing, and walking as an excuse for more rest)".

The summer of his graduation he spent in Europe with Steve Hoover '35 via freighter and bicycle, and since that time he has made visits to Mexico, Canada and various parts of the U. S.

His wife is a graduate of Oneonta State Teachers College and holds the distinction of having taught in one of the last one-room schoolhouses (grades 1-9). Her activities now consist of "golf (she beats me too often)", a Director of the Girl Scouts, church and school activities (by the dozen), home, garden, and the kids".

Dick's wife took over for him in answering his questionnaire as she says, "he never has time for anything these days."

During World War II from May 1943 to October 1945 he was with the Paratroopers-Airborne in the European Theatre and was at Bastogne on that famous 1944 Christmas and for which he was awarded a Presidential Citation.

What traveling he had done has been in the western part of the U. S. as his wife's relatives all live on the west coast and this is where they spent August "sightseeing and tracking down ghost towns in the Sierras that have never appeared on a map." His hobbies are landscaping and gardening, and his wife thinks that Princeton "should have offered courses in Landscape Architecture."

His wife was a teacher in secondary schools before her marriage and now spends her time "keeping Dick fed and out of mischief."

Nick owns and runs his own business. He doesn't explain it very fully but simply puts after the occupation question: "steamship." Since graduation he has worked for several steamship lines in New York and, as he says, "started on the piers in '36." He also spent a couple of years as an engineer with Remington Arms. During World War II he was in the Navy in port director units and Naval Transportation Service. He was discharged as a Lieutenant.

He says that he probably belongs to every Export Club in New England. He spends his vacations East or West (usually East) of Narragansett Bay. He and his wife, Janie, "invite a friendly couple to join them for a cruise on their schooner BARTHOLOMEW GOSNOLD." Janie is a graduate of Miss Wright's School in Bryn Mawr. Her father, Ralph Polk Buell, was a member of the class of '00 at Princeton. Her comment about Princeton is that she is already in training for the twenty-fifth reunion.

Business: Benton & Bowles, Inc., 666 Fifth Avenue, New York 19, N. Y.

Married: Jean Cole, April 13, 1957

Bob writes, "One of the rewards of a relatively uncomplicated life is that it makes writing your autobiography so simple. With but two employers, one marriage and a single hobby over the past twenty-five years, my reporting job is an easy one.

"My business career began immediately after college when I joined my father in the R. E. Noble Engraving Company, manufacturers of engraved stationery. Eight years later, perceiving there was more money in writing words than in printing them, I joined Benton & Bowles, the advertising people. For their clients I wrote, and am currently writing, campaigns and other persuasive messages to build the sales, it is hoped, of a variety of products and services.

"Three years ago I was married to Jean Western Cole, of Poughkeepsie and New York. With those prompted to comment, 'Better late than never,' I can only agree. My marriage came late but it couldn't possibly be better.

"Hobbies? Fishing, solely fishing, with no pun intended. My stamping grounds are the wild fastnesses of Maine, where the big ones are alleged to lie, and still do, as far as my efforts are concerned. I find fishing an excellent foil to the hectic business world and strongly recommend it to anyone who feels it necessary to escape, for the time being, into a world of woods, water and unlimited optimism.

"Perhaps a few words on the worth of a Princeton education would make an appropriate closing. As I travel through an increasingly technically oriented world, I look back with more and more appreciation on my four-year brush with culture. It was a wonderful opportunity to learn for learning's sake, with no 'angles' to be considered. Of course, the same can be said about most colleges, but in the case of Princeton (to paraphrase a well-known slogan) I feel I was lucky enough to attend the very best'."

Married: Ruth-Ann Koerner, October 18, 1938

Fallis writes: "For twenty-three years have owned and operated The Sherlock Baking Co. in Toledo, which serves super markets and house-to-house routes. Most of the time has been spent figuring how to apply automation to a combination machine and hand operation (we turn out every thing from bread to cream puffs), how to appease the union, and how to end the year with a black figure. Pretty dull, actually, but I understand I have lots of company.

"Major hobby has been collecting antique and classic automobiles, of which I'm at present stuck with several. Following that comes book-collecting and the hoarding of antique Mettlach steins. The absence of golf, bowling, etc. (plus the stuff that goes into the steins) has contributed to my membership among those who are losing the 'battle of the bulge'. (I'll never forget the night beer came back to Nassau St.).

"I have been blessed along the following line: My son is the one that gets the good grades—not the daughter. So, like many, I'm hoping he'll make Princeton and I can afford it. And I hope he appreciates the opportunity.

"My wife's life has been much more interesting. Perhaps in the next installment . . ."

Don writes: "My main interests in life? Certainly family—and then, no doubt, business (while I enjoy my work which is demanding, it certainly does not occupy my entire life). I still enjoy sports, both as a spectator and participant (golf primarily) and reading—and since my move to the country, a new hobby—gardening.

"I have not devoted much time to my community's affairs. The time spent on Princeton, and my ten years as Treasurer, occupied most of my spare time and to me are far more rewarding.

"My memories of Princeton are still quite vivid as, luckily, I am able to get back there quite often. Perhaps what I benefited from most was the teaching on how to find out things for oneself . . .

how to think problems through and how to reach a conclusion (and decision).

"The many things that Princeton gave to me—including friends—are things that I hope my son will be lucky (and smart) enough to receive."

Don has been connected with Union Carbide since graduation, formerly in advertising and now in sales. During World War II he was in the Navy in Supply. He was discharged as a Lieutenant (S.G.) and spent two of his years of duty in San Francisco.

He and his family spend part of March in Florida (Ponte Vedra or Delray) and occasional summer months at Nantucket.

Married: Amanda D., June 20, 1939

Elmer Wesley, III, December 31, 1949

Wes writes: "My wife, Amanda, my children, Mandy and Wes, and the boys whom I teach are the main interests in my life. Most of my activities are centered on these primary interests. As a family, we always try to do things together, particularly travel and cultural activities, and much of what we manage to do finds its way into my classroom in one way or another.

"For hobbies I am a devotee of photography, philately and fishing, and sometimes the recreational tail begins to wag the educational dog.

"On graduating from Princeton, although I had thought about teaching as a life's work, I did not feel that I had seen enough to make up my mind: so, for the better part of two years, I served a brief apprenticeship in business with the old Provident Trust Co. of Philadelphia, an experience which has stood me in good stead in later years in the management of my own affairs.

"After some post-graduate study in Romance Languages, mostly at Princeton, I put in a year of apprentice teaching at Penn Charter while I completed my M. A. (awarded in 1940), then two years, ably assisted by my wife, as a teacher and dormitory master at the Slade School, near Washington. I was called back to Penn Charter for one year of teaching French and Latin before entering the army in June of 1943.

"After a meteoric rise from buck private to master-sergeant in the short space of four months, my headlong course sputtered to a halt and I spent the rest of the war as a humble worker in the vineyard of G-2 SHAEF. At the end of the war in the ETO, as our country and the Belgians seemed to have a surplus of colorful ribbons, they saw fit, for in our time."

reasons which have never been too clear to me, to decorate my flat chest with a Bronze Star and a Croix de Guerre.

"Released from our good uncle's paternalistic care in December of 1945, just in time to make it home for Christmas, I beat a hasty retreat back to Penn Charter, where I spent the years from early 1946 to mid 1958 teaching languages and finally administering the Department of Foreign Languages, accumulating a Princeton Ph. D. (1952), an ACLS fellowship in linguistics at Michigan (summer 1952), and a Fulbright to Brussels, Belgium (1956-57), on the way.

"'Nel mezzo del cammin' and with a severe case of the mid-forties itch, I pulled up stakes from Penn Charter, where I had enjoyed almost fifteen years of rewarding teaching, and migrated to Yankeeland, where, since September 1958, I have been happily teaching French and Latin and discharging the duties of Director of Admissions at the Roxbury Latin School.

"As I look back over the past twenty-five years, I feel that the Princeton experience was a happy and rewarding one, developing in me an abiding love of literature, art and science, the 'things of good report,' and stimulating in later years a continued interest in things of the spirit. From what I have seen of the younger Princeton men, having haunted Firestone Library for more than three years and having observed a number of undergraduate classes in action, the University seems to be doing an ever better job of the educational process, and the Princetonians of today are, I think, a more serious and dedicated group than perhaps we were

Sarah Ann Gruber, December 19, 1948
Charles Welles, May 31, 1955

"Since graduation," Charlie writes, "I've spent three years studying, one at Princeton and two at Oxford (B. Litt.); three years teaching English at the University of Buffalo; five years in the army (drafted in July, 1941; O. C. S. at Camp Davis in Antiaircraft Artillery; 27 months in the Pacific, where I saw no

Jap planes but plenty of palm trees; discharged a captain with a light case of malaria that atabrine kept under (until I got home); and thirteen years teaching English at the University of Connecticut.

"Mab and I were married just after I got out of the army. She is Sam Welles's sister and graduated from Wellesley in 1937. We've had four delightfully exasperating children, and have graduated from living in a two-room barracks apartment and summering in borrowed houses in Princeton to building a house of our own in Storrs and summering in Freedom, N. H., in a two-family set-up with Mab's sister and her family. Our two families finally made it binding by acquiring a house, barn, mill-pond, and woodland in Freedom, where Loon Lake and an as yet unexploited New England village give the children a fine change from the academic environment. The house is right in the middle of the village, with plenty of room for visitors, while here in Storrs we sit on a forested ridge with a view to the south that includes few evidences of civilization, though we're within a mile of the university.

"Though we chafe sometimes at the limitations and annoyances of a state university, we really have a full and exciting time of it, what with the children, whom Mab would spoil if I didn't brow-beat them into some sort of discipline; the church, where I've become a lay reader, as well as running their every-member canvasses; my job as Prosecutor of the Town of Mansfield, which I helped the Democrats win several years ago (I don't claim credit for Rubicoff's sweep in '58; the Republicans get all of that); the constant challenge of classroom teaching; the work in Chaucer, which has led to a number of published articles and a startling theory on the development of the Canterbury Tales (I hope it's true), and which will, God willing, result in a book this year; my interest in foreign affairs, which has led to an active role in the local World Federalists and occasional talks outside of Storrs; some acting with the local Thespians including the title part last year in Chekhov's The Boor; the odd jobs of academic life such as a seven-year stint as faculty adviser of the student newspaper and the excitement of doing a fifteen-week TV series on Chaucer last year; and above all the constant association professionally and socially with people who are always alert and alive, sometimes eccentric, and even occasionally brilliant and good. It's a life of myriad small responsibilities, none of them likely to bring fame or fortune, but most satisfying.

"At the same time I'm uneasy about our tendency to emphasize speed, power, and a purely material standard of measurement. I can sum it up in two questions that sound devilishly pretentious but are the best I can do at the moment: Are we so surrounding our children with machines, gadgets, highways, and cheap amusements that they have little room to develop and grow in? Are we earning with our carelessness about the quality of our own living the destruction that is each year more of a threat and may one day become a reality?"

Ted writes: "After graduating from Princeton, went to Maine for the Summer, as I had done the year before graduation. Spent the Summer teaching horseback riding at a Girls Camp in Maine and then in the Fall entered the University School of Medicine. I graduated from the University School of Medicine in 1939 and was elected Alpha Omega Alpha in 1938. I served my Internship at the University of Chicago Clinics from July 1939 to July 1940 then started Surgical Residency and taught Surgical Pathology from July 1940 until July 1941. In July 1941 to July 1942 I did research in Pancreatic and Gastric Physiology in Dr. Lester Dragsted's Laboratory. I was elected to Sigma Xi in 1942 and served as Assistant Resident in Surgery from July 1942 to November of 1943. I was married to Lucy Trumbull in September 1942. I entered the Medical Corps of the USA in 1943 as a First Lt. I was sent to Neuro-Surgical School at the University of Pennsylvania and Tilton General Hospital in New Jersey. In July 1944 I was assigned to McCloskey General Hospital in Temple, Texas where I served as Assistant Chief of Neuro-Surgery until March of 1946 when I was inactivated as a Major in the Medical Corps. After the War, I returned to the University of Chicago where I was Assistant Professor of Surgery until 1948 when I spent a year out because of pulmonary tuberculosis. The time on my back persuaded me to leave Chicago and return to St. Paul whence I originated. I have been in St. Paul since 1949 — first with the Veteran's Administration and then in private practice of surgery in St. Paul. I serve as Clinical Associate Professor of Surgery at the University of Minnesota and Consultant in Surgery at the U.S. Veteran's Administration Hospital in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"I have three lovely daughters, a wife and four horses and a forty acre farm outside of St. Paul. St. Paul is a much nicer place to live than Chicago.

"I have published twenty-five medical papers in various Surgical Journals. I am a member of the American Board of Surgery, American College of Surgeons, Society of University Surgeons, Central Surgical Association, Western Surgical Association, St. Paul Surgical Association and the AMA."

Jane Howe, September 30, 1941

"Since graduation," Doc writes, "I have been in the life insurance business with John Hancock in Hartford, Stamford, Boston; New England Supervisor, now Manager in Portland which is only a half-hour from my old home town in Maine. Have a C.L.U. degree which means I know everything there is to know about life insurance; this will come as no surprise to my classmates.

"In Maine the Princeton Alumni Association of the Pine Tree State is in capable hands, mine.

"For a long time I was known as the longest hitter, pound for pound, in the City of Boston. This has been toned down a bit to where it is said truthfully that I hit the ball off the tee as far as any girl in the State of Maine.

"Unlike the thinblooded inhabitants of the metropolitan area, I do not spend the winters by the fireside or in the sunny climes. I look forward eagerly to the time of year when the great white cold walks abroad. Then I hie myself with my small but intelligent family to the nearest mountain which is an hour from my front door and put on the boards to charge down the steepest part of the hill with a little fancy wedeln thrown in. Needless to say, this, together with my youthful appearance has made me a great favorite with the ladies who frequent such places in the winter. Only last December I was voted unanimously, Le Vieux des Monts.

"I do spend considerable time trying to get young guys in Maine interested in Princeton. Have had some success. Also have sent several kids on to Exeter. I get a vicarious thrill out of giving some kid a boost, who would not have had the opportunity otherwise to attend these two fine institutions which had such a marked effect on me or vice versa.

"These past few years I have become very interested in history of the U. S. Read considerably about the Revolution and the Civil War. Don't know whether or not it has improved my fine keen intellect; but it has kept me out of the saloons."

Theresa, November 13, 1955

Frank writes: "Pasley considers himself a family man — he says that with five active children he has no other choice. Besides, he wants this to be his main interest. Nevertheless, he somehow finds time for church and community activities. For instance, he is active in Junior Achievement, being President of the Schenectady, New York program this past year.

"After four years in the Army (Captain) in World War II, Pasley joined the General Electric Company in 1946 in his chosen profession of accounting. He has worked for General Electric in Schenectady, New York, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, and Coshocton, Ohio with the Company's Chemical business, and for the last several years has been back in Schenectady with GE's radio and television broadcasting business. He enjoys his business activities, and finds television and radio broadcasting particularly stimulating.

"Pasley enjoys golf, but doesn't work too hard at it. In the winter months he has just about given up skiing for ice skating — those twenty-five years went by pretty fast — and he usually manages to get in a few weeks of bass fishing in the summer.

"He met his wife while in service. She was an Army nurse. She keeps pretty busy at home with the children, but manages to be active in church affairs.

"Although Pasley has not been active in alumni affairs, he thinks fondly enough of his own undergraduate days to want to send his son to Princeton, but believes the boy should have something to say about it. A firm decision is several years away.

"Pasley would like to see a little more tolerance in this world of ours, particularly on behalf of the other fellow's opinions and beliefs. And if we could unite tolerance with courtesy, and salt this porridge with a sense of humor, wouldn't we all be better off?"

"If this autobiography seems a bit long," Fred writes, "it is because I have a few years more to write about than most in the class of '35. As you may recall, in 1933, the end of our sophomore year, things were rough financially with Roosevelt throwing his weight around, closing banks etc. So, after a last summer's fling I took a temporary job and twenty-seven years later I'm still there. The first day I worked I got a raise because our company joined the N.R.A. and the minimum hourly rate was raised from 38c per hour to 40c per hour.

"For several years I worked through the various departments to learn the operation of the business, and then advanced rapidly to Vice President and Director, positions I have held for about 15 years. I might note at this point that my father is one of the owners and President of the company! This might have something to do with my progress? I am also Vice President and Director of the C. T. Williamson Co., Belleville, N. J., and Director of the Hesse Eastern Corporation of Boston.

"After leaving Princeton, there were many carefree years. I joined the Montclair Athletic Club and participated quite strenuously in squash and bowling in the winter and tennis and softball in the summer. I became Vice President of the club and within a year it was sold to become a girl's school. However, I blame this on the President, Bob Spofford, a Yale man, brother of Homer Spofford, Princeton '36.

"Of course, all this exercise did not keep me from enjoying the company of the opposite sex and, at age 28, Mimi and I were married. We spent the first night of our honeymoon at the Princeton Inn on our way to Seal Island, Georgia.

"We were in residence in Bloomfield, New Jersey for 10 years. While living there, two daughters arrived, Sandy on April 28, 1943 and Tina on Dec. 9, 1948.

"We moved to our present 14 room home in Denville, New Jersey in June 1951. It is a lovely, comfortable home on a beautiful 3 acre spot along the Rockaway River. The Rockaway River Country Club is directly opposite our house, so, needless to say, my wife and I have both become golfers. Three years ago the members decided to purchase the golf club and I ended up a charter member and Treasurer. A little white ball sure gets one in a lot of trouble!

"I have always been interested in singing (Princeton—choir and Triangle Club) and, after leaving college, continued that hobby. I have sung with such organized groups as church choirs, the Contemporary of Newark, the Madrigal Group of Montclair, and the Mountain Lakes Glee Club at present as well as many much disorganized groups at cocktail parties.

"At present, I am a trustee and Vice-President of St. John's School in Mountain Lakes, a preparatory school for girls, which my daughters attend.

"My politics remain the same, essentially Republican, and as for a philosophy of life, all I can say is, 'It's later than you think'."

After graduation Bob worked for the Crown Cork & Seal Company in Baltimore, Maryland. After a number of years he decided to return to Princeton to enter the Theological Seminary. He was graduated in 1950. Bob was in the Navy from 1942 to 1945 in the amphibious forces in the Pacific. He served as Line Officer on an LCI (G) and on the staff of the Commander of Amphibious Group One as Communication Officer. His rank on discharge was that of Lieutenant Senior Grade.

Bob was voted "Father of the Year" for the state of Wyoming in 1959. He has also been President of the Wyoming Association for Mental Health, twice past State Chaplain of the American Legion for Wyoming, Red Cross Board member for nine years, and FHA Father four times. He belongs to the Lions Club, the American Legion, and the V.F.W.

Bob and his family take their vacation during August and usually go back to Baltimore where they visit their old home and members of the family. His wife was a surgical secretary on the staff of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore before her marriage but now her time is well taken up with her family and church activities.

Walt writes: "Princeton launched me on a career of municipal reform in Philadelphia. After law at Harvard, I jumped into the 1938 campaign for a new City Charter for Philadelphia. It failed of adoption. I then participated heavily in a movement for effective city planning, which was achieved. In '51, many of us joined in another effort for a new charter. This effort succeeded. In '52, I helped in election of reform Mayor Joseph S. Clark and served for four years in his Cabinet as City Representative and Director of Commerce. We like to think that all this has given the old town a shot in the arm.

"During these years Mary and I lived and raised our children on the banks of the Delaware River, at Torresdale. Increasing industrialization in that section has now forced us to move away, so we have a small house in Chestnut Hill and for week-ends, a farm in Solebury Township, Bucks County. In summer we go to Mary's mother's place in Wianno, Cape Cod.

"Water resources problems have engrossed me these past three years. Have been trying to steer a program on behalf of four Governors and the Mayors of New York and Philadelphia for the comprehensive development of the waters of the Delaware Basin, attempting to look 50 years ahead. Involved is the planning of some major reservoirs on the upper reaches of the river system. Through a study financed by the Ford Foundation, some proposals for improving government machinery for dealing with water should result from our efforts. Water may not be the liquid of a Princeton man's first choice, but it can be intriguing."

From Princeton, Claude went to Harvard Law School where he earned his L.L.B. in 1938. He has worked as attorney in the office of the Chief Counsel for the Internal Revenue Service, and now is a partner in a law firm in Greensboro. He is a member of the Greensboro, North Carolina, and American Bar Associations, and is on the tax committee of both of these. During World War II he was with the Army Engineers in Counter Intelligence with headquarters in the Pentagon. His rank on discharge was that of Lieutenant Colonel and he keeps his reserve status.

Claude lists his hobbies as golf and surf bathing and enjoys both of these and fishing as well during his summer vacations at the seashore.

His wife, Kay, attended Goucher College and her activities include tennis, Junior League, and civic and charitable activities. Claude hopes that she has no comments to make either about Princeton or the class of '35.

Home: 3561 Brookside Road, Toledo, Ohio. Tel. JE 1-2728

Business: Doehler-Jarvis, Division of National Lead Co., Smead Avenue, Toledo 1, Ohio

Married: Agnes, July 5, 1941

Children: Richard E., Jr., November 7, 1945

David R., July 14, 1949

"First employment after graduation," Dick writes, "was with the Bethlehem Steel Co. at their Lackawanna Plant in New York. Jack Withington and Bill White were also in the trainee program that year, all of us living together with two fellows from Lehigh.

"After a year in steel, investment banking was tried with Parrish and Co. in Philadelphia, and the following year went with Doehler Die Casting Co. in Pottstown, Pennsylvania. In 1954 this company was made a division of National Lead Company, and in 1957 we moved to Toledo, Ohio as Executive Engineer in the division's general office.

"My work is in the field of engineering and research, and entails enough traveling so that we have fairly well covered the United States. Within the last three years visits were made to Sydney, Australia — with a delightful stop-over in Honolulu, in England, and on the continent.

"During the war we were entirely engaged in the production of war material, and since I was classified as essential, attained no war record.

"In the past years I have been, or am, a member of a number of engineering societies — Society of Plant Engineers of Northwestern Ohio, ASME, AIPE, ASM.

"In Toledo we are members of Christ Presbyterian Church, and I served in the capacity of Deacon in the Presbyterian Church in Pottstown.

"Member of Stichter Lodge F & AM in Pottstown and Consistory in Reading, Pennsylvania, various historical societies, American Numismatic Association, and American Forestry Association. Have been active in United Fund and allied drives and most recently in the successful Alumni Fund Raising Drive for the Hill School. Have been interested in scouting, and was member of executive committee in Cub Scout group.

"Gave up tennis in favor of less strenuous golf, although we did become active in a badminton club last winter which played mixed doubles. Favorite participating sports are fishing and golf — spectator sports, college football and professional baseball.

"Our family enjoys motor trips, and we have vacationed in Canada, New England, Florida, and intermediate points. This year it will be the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

"Have lived since 1935 in Buffalo, N. Y., Pottstown, Pa., and Toledo, Ohio.

"Our main objective now is getting our two boys well launched, and along the way, we hope that that includes the choice of and acceptance by Princeton."

Jim writes: "After graduating from Princeton, I worked in my father's company, J. B. Preston Company, Inc., for several years at Granville, New York and Ely, Minnesota. In 1938 I entered the mica business in North Carolina with The English Mica Company and opened an office in New York City. In 1940, along with another classmate, Christian F. Zieseniss, I started the Bradley Mining Company in Franklin, North Carolina, which was also engaged in mica mining.

"During the war years, I was not in the service but was actively engaged in the production of mica, which at that time was a strategic mineral. I was a member of the Industry Advisory Committee to the War Production Board during these years and for a while was quite active, spending a few days a week on this work.

"After the war, I expanded in the mica business by purchasing the U. S.

Mica Company, Inc., which had plants in New Jersey and Chicago. For a while I was an active member of the National Association of Manufacturers, serving on their International Relations Committee for three years.

"In 1955 and 1956 I served on the Mica Advisory Committee to the Office of Minerals Mobilization. In recent years our Kings Mountain Mica Company has built several new plants at Kings Mountain, North Carolina. About ten years ago, I moved my office from New York City to Stamford, Connecticut, where it remains.

"This year I became actively interested in a new company, Boothbay Boats, Inc., which makes a 33-foot Sport Cruiser in East Boothbay, Maine. We have a fine sea boat that is also good for sport fishing. Part of my time is now spent working on sales arrangements for these boats."

"Four happy years at Princeton," Jack writes, "then on to Pittsburgh in the summer of '35 and I've been here ever since. Ten months with Farmers Deposit Bank, then to The Union Trust Company which merged with Mellon National, my present employer, in 1946. Attended Duquesne University Law School at night for four years and in 1940 graduated with LL.B. degree.

Passed the Pennsylvania Bar exams and was admitted to practice in 1941.

"The smartest thing I've ever done was to marry Marjorie Vilsack, sister of my Princeton roommate Ray, in 1941. After a few months of wedded bliss, I was commissioned an ensign, USNR, in the fall of '42. Served as a legal officer in Trinidad, B. W. I., for two years and in the Judge Advocate's office in Washington for one year. Discharged as a lieutenant in 1945 and returned to trust banking. Have held various titles at Mellon Bank and am now Vice President in charge of the Administrative Division of the Trust Department.

"In 1953 was selected as one of Time-Life's one hundred outstanding young men in Pittsburgh.

"Served as chairman of the Schools and Scholarship Committee of the Princeton Alumni Association of Western Pennsylvania for five years, on the Executive Committee for three years, President — 1954, Co-Chairman of Princeton in Pittsburgh — 1955.

"Served on Executive Committee, Pennsylvania Bankers Association—three years, and as Chairman of the Trust Division — 1958-59. Past President — Corporate Fiduciaries Association of Allegheny County.

"I am one of the five members of the Urban Redevelopment Authority of Pittsburgh which is an important factor in the Pittsburgh Renaissance.

Susan Lanier, November 1, 1941

"On graduation," Neill writes, "I entered federal service and have been in it ever since. Two main lines: investigator, 1937-1950 & 1958 to date, with U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and war years with OPA; personnel security officer with Dept. of State and USIA 1950-1958.

Those are unpopular positions, and incidentally I have known of no other Princetonians in these fields. I can't explain how I became an investigator. The man who interviewed me for the job — he was a tough ex-FBI Agent — practically threw me out of his office because I was neither a lawyer nor a CPA and had said I did not want to travel. Next day he hired me, and I traveled. In order I've been stationed, with intermittent stops in Washington, at the following large cities: Birmingham, Salt Lake City, Chicago, Sioux Falls, San Juan (P. R.), Atlanta, Memphis, Cincinnati and Denver. From those points I have traveled deep into America, — close to a million miles in all.

"I've written one book, 'Special Agent — FSA' about a little known federal investigative outfit. In my writings on federal personnel security I've always lacked a publisher. The crowning blow came when THE YALE REVIEW asked me to write a review of a book by a Yale Law School prof on that subject, and then paid me for it unpublished.

"At Arlington Presbyterian Church I've been a Deacon since 1953, serving three years as Chairman of that Board, and also being a leader in evangelism. My wife is a mighty good Sunday School teacher.

"My hobbies are fishing and reading (5th year participant in a Great Books Discussion Group.) I've been a rabid Democrat (subject to Hatch Act limitations) ever since Adlai Stevenson appeared on the national scene.

"At this writing I am among those working on what might be a million-dollar claim by the federal government against Pennsylvania. If I have a business philosophy, it is to try to give those in difficulties with Mr. U. Sam a fair shake. And by that I mean a Square Deal."

Married: Elizabeth Smith, August 15, 1945

Children: Margaret E., September 1946

John R., March 1949

Thomas H., January 1954

Arthur writes: "The nearly twenty-five years since we left Princeton fall into three sharply divided periods.

"In the first five years (1935 to 1940) I followed my undergraduate interests into the field of public affairs, went from a Spellman Fellowship in Housing at the Public Administration Clearing House in Chicago to the office of the Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington, and from there to the National Peace Conference, whose headquarters were in New York. My work took me to all parts of the country. I did a lot of speaking, writing, conferring. It was stimulating to be concerned with the big questions of the day, and to know so many prominent people, to be experimenting with new techniques of public education. But it was also frustrating to see the area of constructive choice rapidly narrowed, and finally engulfed by the War.

"While the War interrupted this career, the immediate occasion of my resignation from the post of Executive Secretary of the National Peace Conference was my father's illness and the need for stop-gap action to conserve the insurance agency he owned in Newark. The five years which followed (1940 to 1945) were dominated by the War in one way or the other. Everything was improvised and transitory. I enlisted in the Signal Corps Reserve, while running the insurance business during my father's prolonged last illness. When called into active service, I shortly found myself in a super-secret outfit, the 2103rd Signal Service Battalion, engaged in radio counter measures, and was whisked overseas as soon as basic training was completed. We never stopped rushing. Our big job was done in England before D Day, but we were hustled over the Channel to act as a communication net for 12th Army Group. I was made a cryptographic technician, one of a small team attached to the huge Tactical Air-Command of 9th Air Force. The work was not difficult, and we were fortunate that the long periods of waiting and inactivity were in places where we had a chance to learn to know the country. The war disrupted my life, but disciplined and hardened me and gave me a grand tour of the Continent, and moments of danger and adventure as well as number of lasting friendships, based on the common experience. Most permanent carry-over from this period was my marriage to Elizabeth Smith while I was still in the Army on V-J Day, August 15th, 1945.

"These last years from 1945 to the present have been uneventful, but solidly satisfactory centered as they have been on business and family. Participation in church and community organizations, the interests and activities of three growing children, the effort to make a living combine to make this the busiest if not the most newsworthy of the three periods. We moved to South Orange, N. J. from Newark in 1950. One year I was President of our County Insurance Agents Association. Another year I was Chairman of the Christian Education Committee of the local Presbyterian Church. During a good part of the period, in addition to running my own insurance agency and brokerage business, I was manager of another.

"I read a great deal, I like to swim in the ocean. My boys may make a sportsman out of me, if they keep trying, but my chief pleasure now as it was in college and has been during all three periods since has been to talk with old friends after the day's work is done."

From Ralph; "I have either lost the art of writing, or I don't like to write about myself, but here goes — after graduation, I took to the law, graduating from Harvard Law in 1939; then a Buffalo law firm (then the old home town). Being then more restless than settled, I entered the casualty insurance business in Boston and later in New York City. After Pearl Harbor, four interesting years as an Army Intelligence Agent in New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia. In the latter area, I married and took root.

"Have been in industrial relations work for the past nine years, serving presently as a Director of Industrial Relations for a company, which work involves all phases of public and industrial relations, from union negotiations to awarding high school sports trophies. Have been formerly associated with several other companies in a similar capacity in Philadelphia area.

"Politically, I have wandered back and forth but am solidly convinced that basic progressive Republicanism will preserve our economic system and our nation best. As evidence, I belong to the Union League in Philadelphia.

"Wife Mary Ellen and I frequent Princeton picnics, football games etc.—with heartiness. Princeton is doing a triple A job in qualitative education!

"Hobbies — not very original; child rearing; civic and charitable activities; a little ocean fishing; a little travel; good friends, both old and new.

"Philosophically, I believe the world is progressing in human relations; fear only that we, as individuals, may be losing our personal identities and personal ingenuity in this very push-button age. Good luck to all!"

Married: Gladys Albright, August 1, 1942

Children: Fred Tracy, October 27, 1947

John Harvey, April 14, 1951

Fred writes: "To hear an angel play a harp usually requires a ticket through the Pearly Gates, but I found a short cut in marrying a harpist. My wife Gladys also plays organ and piano, and tries with only modest success and frequent loss of all angelic traces to infuse some appreciation of music in our boys, Fred (b.1947) and John (b.1951).

"I work for Avco Corporation on the President's staff in New York, where a wide business experience is useful. As for other interests first place goes to the church where I was ordained a Ruling Elder. My love of Princeton, with which I was indoctrinated as a child, has grown continuously. I served a term on the Board of Governors of the Princeton Club of Philadelphia, and worked with the Schools and Scholarship Committee. Additional interests are the Lawrenceville Alumni Council, politics from time to time, and golf.

"After graduation I worked for J. A. Roebbing's Sons Co., for a few months. I left to join the Pennsylvania Railroad where I was in the operating and purchasing departments until 1947, except for about a year in government service in Washington as the war was starting, and three years in the Army, mostly overseas. I participated in six campaigns of the war and was a Lt. Colonel when released. In 1947 I was made President of Central Supply Company of Virginia, with headquarters in Philadelphia, and in 1955 I left that position for my present association with Avco Corporation.

"So far the years have treated me kindly, and for those who have not yet experienced their Twenty-fifth I would quote Robert Browning:

Grow old along with me!

The best is yet to be."

Joe F. Richardson

Business: Same

Married: Virginia J. Elston, November 14, 1941

Children: Susan Starr, January 27, 1950

Joe writes: "After graduation, came to California because, as you may dimly recall, jobs were rather scarce at the time, and I had been offered a job (with salary!) by M-G-M Studios. Remained at M-G-M as Story Analyst, then Script Supervisor and finally Assistant Director until 1949 when TV laid motion pictures low and me off. Following the if-you-can't-lick-'em-join-'em principle, began writing for TV — mostly kiddie westerns. Now have over a hundred credits and a reasonable number of residuals in the offing. (Residuals mean you get paid again when your show is re-run. Like manna from heaven! A friend, who I wish wasn't, calls our house "Residual Manna.")

"In 1941, married Virginia Elston, a

Stanford girl but otherwise very nice. Daughter Susan born 1950; also very nice and probably destined for Stanford if she can get in.

"Three years in Navy during World War II. Duty stateside and on Guam. Last known rank: Lt. Cmdr. No citations, decorations or court-martials. Very dull.

"Hobbies: gardening (and I work like a dog at it); swimming (ocean not pool); cards (mostly bridge); and trying to give up tobacco.

"No burning ambitions, no major triumphs, no high honors, not even much money.

Married: Suzanne Lansdell, 1936

Children: William L., April 22, 1939

John M., May 8, 1941

Linda L., May 10, 1945

Grandson: William L., Jr., August 3, 1959

Bill writes: "One year after graduation Sue Lansdell, to whom I had been engaged during Senior Year, and I were married. I am happy to say we still are, and have three lovely children and one grandchild to complete our family. Bill, our oldest, left Tufts College to marry his long-time sweetheart. They have a brand-new son, Bill Jr., which makes this old man feel his years. Son John graduated from Hotchkiss last year and now is a freshman at Trinity College. Daughter Linda will go to prep school next year.

"On the business side . . . After one year with Time Magazine in New York and Chicago, Sue and I were married and moved to Los Angeles, where I became supervisor for the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company. Two years later we moved back to Greenwich, Connecticut, my former home, and have lived there ever since.

"Upon our return East, I joined the Vick Chemical Company, ultimately becoming Manager of their Cough Drop Division. In 1945 I joined Young & Rubicam with whom I am still associated, as a Senior Account Executive.

"As for hobbies and interests . . . After my family, my major interest is golf. The years have been kind enough to permit me to maintain a 6 handicap and win my share of trophies. Sue and I both enjoy bridge and gardening. Sue's main hobby, however, is flower arranging, at which she has become a recognized authority.

"Church plays an important part in our family life. I have taught Sunday School for the past 15 years and been a Sunday School Superintendent for 10.

"Some 30 plus members of our family have attended Princeton, so it has been natural for me to maintain an active interest in Princeton affairs. I have been a member and/or officer of the Princeton Clubs of Southern California, New York and Greenwich, helping to found the latter. I've served 20 years as trustee of Cannon Club. I have particularly enjoyed serving our Class as a member of the Executive, Nominating and Reunion Committees.

"I really have no 'pet peeves'; although I do think that the judgment of Princeton's Admission Committee on the ability of a Princeton graduate's son to complete satisfactorily the requirements for graduation is open to criticism and should be reviewed."

Frances, October 12, 1943

Patrick George, September 23, 1946

James Whitcomb, August 12, 1953

Bill is the President of both of his companies and, before moving to California, was in the contracting business and machine tool sales in Indiana. He is on the Board of Directors of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce and is President of the San Mateo County Junior Museum. During World War II he served in the U. S. A. F. in aircraft production and procurement as Canadian regional representative.

About his travels Bill writes: "After planning present house down to material on throw cushions in the living room and last twig of landscaping, we took all seven children to Europe for over a year. We went over on the Liberte, traveled through England, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, etc., arriving in Lausanne, Switzerland in the fall in time to rent a house and enter the five eligibles in school. Miles returned with to the States to continue in the Seminary. I returned in December on business and to spend the holidays with the family. Francie and I got in some travel alone and some delightful skiing. The following summer the entire family reunited for a great deal of Spain, more of France and Italy and a delightful return through the Mediterranean on the Julius Caesar. Although most friends seem to consider this an impossible undertaking, I wholeheartedly recommend it as being simple, reasonable and a family experience away from business, telephones, social obligations and other distractions, that will always be remembered and enjoyed."

About his vacations Bill says, "Last two years have been a few days or week in mid-west, east or south in connection with business. Prefer February or March. Have taken house in Aptos—50 miles South on the Pacific—or at Lake Tahoe where family stay a month or so—I commute."

His wife was a teacher before her marriage and now uses her training on her seven children, but also finds time to be active in the Junior League, the Children's Theater and the Crippled Children Association.

Bill adds: "Real friendships, like good books, can be picked up at any time and have only to gain in appreciation through our experiences and understanding."

I am a member of the Delaware County, Pennsylvania Superior and Supreme, the Federal District and Circuit, Bars, and was admitted to practice before the Federal Treasury Department. In addition to the legal profession, I am still active in the military line (Reserves). I am a Colonel and Commandant of the Philadelphia U.S.A.R. School, which meets at the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot one evening each week, and two weeks of summer camp. I am also active with my local Rotary Club, being a past President. I served two terms in the Pennsylvania State Legislature, but did not stand for additional terms because of the tremendous pressure of my law practice. I am still active in politics as a Republican, being on the County Speakers' Committee, and Chairman of the Township's Zoning Board of Adjustment. I am the President of the Pennsylvania State Association of High Twelve Clubs, having been reelected for a second term in May of 1959.

"I reside just outside of Media in a renovated barn, which was completed while living there. In addition to the work set out above, I do a lot of the maintenance and grass cutting of my three and one-half acres myself. When I find a free moment or two, I spend it on my model railroading, in which I build many of my models myself. Occasionally I play golf at a Rotary outing, etc., but not often.

"I still try to get back to old Nassau at least two or three times a year for football games or reunion, as to me Princeton University is one of the nicest spots on this globe for the beauty of the campus and the wonderful nostalgia of school days."

Deborah Ann, September 8, 1951

Cynthia Louise, September 30, 1953

Carl writes: "After receiving M.D. degree from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1939, I had a two year internship at Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City from January 1, 1940 to January 1, 1942. Following this I had a surgical residency at Lenox Hill Hospital from January 1, 1942 to June 30, 1942, and November 1, 1945 to November 1, 1946 — residency interrupted by service in the army.

"U.S. Army, 1942-1945: 37 months on the Surgical Service of the 12th Evacuation Hospital — serving 33 months in ETO in charge of surgical team in England, Wales, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Germany. Then, on 'Detached Service' to Navy as surgeon in charge of L.S.T. during Normandy invasion — four channel crossings taking troops over to France and bringing casualties back to England. Entered as Captain, discharged as Major AUS.

"After completion of surgical residency, entered practice (general surgery) in 1947 in New York City with staff appointments in surgery at Lenox Hill Hospital, Bellevue Hospital, Post-Graduate Hospital, and St. Joseph's Hospital.

"With the inception and opening of the Hunterdon Medical Center in Flemington, New Jersey in 1953, I gave up practice in New York City to move to New Jersey and assume the position of Director of Surgery at the Hunterdon Medical Center."

Carl is also Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery at N.Y.U. Bellevue Medical Center; a member of the American Medical Association, of State and County Medical Societies, and President of Hunterdon County Medical Society in 1960; a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery; a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and a member of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Carl's hobbies are trap-shooting, swimming, fishing, photography, and stamp-collecting. Carl and his family take a two week summer vacation and occasionally another two weeks in mid-winter. They try to go to a different place every year.

Carl's wife attended Finch Junior College in New York City. She now devotes most of her time to home and family.

"My wife says life in the Roop household is hectic, never dull. If there isn't a domestic crisis, there is surely a civic one. The two girls come in for a goodly share of devotion—genuinely joyful surprise packages. We all enjoy family camping or hiking trips, and at present music is pretty important—helping with piano lessons, plus concerts or fooling with the old clarinet. I have been drafted again as Chairman of the Board of Beverly Unitarian Church, also actively participate in a project known as "HOME" (Housing Opportunities Made Equal). I took a flyer in local politics a few years ago in Park Forest (famed for its 'Organization Men'), when I served for three years on the first Village Board of Trustees, and later on the Village Plan Commission.

"Before all this there were four years of naval service (Aerology), followed by a Ph.D. in Meteorology & Applied Mechanics at Cal. Tech. As a research engineer for Standard Oil (Indiana), in the past 11 years I have worked on various special projects such as stack vibrations, off-shore drilling platforms; I also helped prepare a manual on Air Pollution Surveys for the American Petroleum Institute and was advisor on long-range forecasting research. Recently I have been in digital computer programming (IBM variety) and am now one of a team at Standard for developing automatic control of large refining units.

"A rebel against 'do-it-yourself', I get involved instead as Secretary for Beverly Ridge Home Owners Association, as Area Chairman for the Unitarian Service Committee, and in professional Society meetings.

"My wife, after 17 years' library experience, is now the boss at the Public Library in South Chicago. As disciples of the Adelle Davis school of nutrition, our homemaking principles are based on ascorbic acid, wheat germ and the pioneer spirit.

"In my 'spare' time I teach our 9-year-old to play the saxophone, help my wife in organic gardening ventures, go square dancing or play intellectual with one or another local discussion club.

Frances, August 11, 1947

David Cutler, March 13, 1949

Sally, July 15, 1953

Nancy, May 11, 1956

Fred writes: "After graduating I went on to the Harvard Medical School and received my M. D. degree in 1939. In many ways I found Medical School more enjoyable than college primarily because during my first two years at Princeton I was painfully immature, younger than most of my classmates and quite insecure in my social relationships. I have always felt that I sort of grew up about the time I was a Junior and the transition from Princeton to Harvard was far easier than the transition from prep school to Princeton.

"After graduating from Harvard I started on a long course of training in surgery mostly at the Peter Brent Brigham Hospital in Boston. This training was slowed down but not stopped by four years in the Army, my time being divided between a large Harvard-affiliated general hospital in Australia, a tiny portable surgical hospital which supported the 32nd Division in the fall of 1942 when the Japs were pushed back through the jungles from Port Moresby to Buna on the north coast of New Guinea, and finally a large general hospital back in this country where for nearly six months I did nothing but take care of people with serious hand injuries, an experience which has stood me in good stead ever since.

"When the war ended I returned to the Brigham and continued my training in surgery as Assistant Resident Surgeon and finally as Chief Resident Surgeon at that institution which is possibly the outstanding university teaching hospital in the country. It was not until 1948, 13 years after graduating from college, that I finally earned an income on which I could live (the four years of Army officer's pay should probably be excepted from this). This length of time can be understood by all doctors but I find it never ceases to amaze my friends in other fields. I then spent three years as Chief of Surgery at the West Roxbury Veterans Hospital in Boston which is affiliated with and directly under the control of the Harvard Medical School. Although I was on the faculties of both Harvard and Tufts Medical Schools it became obvious that I was unlikely to reach any position of importance in academic surgery and in 1952 I resigned from the Medical Schools and the Veterans Hospital and moved to Fitchburg some fifty miles from Boston to enter private practice and become Surgeon-in-Chief at the 250 bed Burbank Hospital in this city of 45,000.

"In the last eight years this hospital has undergone a period of reorganization and expansion and is one of the finest community hospitals in New England if not in the entire country. It is one of the very few hospitals in New England to which resident surgeons in training are sent from the university hospitals in Boston for part of their surgical training under my direction. These young men from the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and the New England Center Hospital come up here for periods of up to six months in a regular rotation. We learn a lot from these young men and we hope that in turn we teach them a good deal too, and it has been a very happy arrangement in the seven years that it has been going on.

"The smartest thing I ever did was to persuade Olivia Vogel to marry me. This took place early in 1942 and after an eight day honeymoon I found myself enroute to the South Pacific for a period of 2½ years. This delayed the start of our family so that now our oldest boy, Jeff, who is entering Milton Academy in the fall and hopes someday to go to Princeton, is just fourteen and our youngest only three. We have two boys, Jeff and David, three girls, Frances, Sally and Nancy.

"Living in a small city one inevitably becomes very much involved with local activities. My wife has recently been President of the League of Women Voters, she is a trustee of the local library, on the Board of the Visiting Nurse Association and numerous other things. I find that besides carrying on my practice I have become a trustee of the hospital and have served both as chairman of the local Cancer Crusade and more recently as President of the Fitchburg United Fund, and, to my complete amazement, I even seem to be a trustee of one of the local banks. I have managed to contribute over a dozen papers to the surgical literature and keep up an active interest in the activities and meetings of the American College of Surgeons, the Society of University Surgeons, the New England Surgical Society, and the Boston Surgical Society, and for the last three years have been a Councilor elected by our county Medical Society to represent it at the meetings of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

"Vacations are too few and too short. Since the war at least half of them have been shared with the Caulks cruising on chartered sailing yachts off the New England coast save for one memorable one out of Nassau which also included the Stronges.

"Like so many of us I have lost most of my hair and acquired an ulcer. The hair keeps going but the ulcer has behaved itself for a long time. I often think of myself as one of a dwindling group of completely self-employed and independent people. This group is discriminated against by our tax laws, our productive years are relatively few, we have no provision for old age or retirement from any employer or other outside source and the only thing that we can hope for is to keep productive and healthy long enough to see our children adequately trained and educated so that they can be useful, self-sufficient and contributing citizens. Therein lies our only hope for the future."

Republican Party), Kiwanis, Sons of the American Revolution, and as a lay reader in the

"After 45 years am still in the process of working out a 'philosophy of life.' One thing seems evident, so far, and that is that too many of us, too often, put our trust and place supreme value in material possessions and/or accomplishments; i.e., in the temporal, rather in the unseen things of the spirit."

Twenty five years later I am still playing squash but am no better than the first time I hacked around at the Princeton Club in New York.

"The War put an end to the then feast or famine investment business, and after a stint with the CAA as an Airway Traffic Controller I received a Navy commission with a color vision waiver. Navy BuPers said if ever I received a commission with my color vision I would be the most color blind officer in the Navy, so I have that somewhat doubtful distinction. Most of my Navy duty was spent at NAS Honolulu as Officer In Charge of the Weight & Balance Loading Division for the Naval Air Transport Service. Upon separation from the Navy I joined other air minded men in promoting, organizing and operating a feeder airline in the Maryland-D. C.-Delaware area. When our application for a certificate to fly as a scheduled airline finally was rejected I lost my shirt and my job as Secretary-Treasurer of the Maryland Airlines.

"The next couple years I was in commercial refrigeration, then Korea washed me out as a manufacturers representative, and in 1951 I joined Southern Packing Co. We are an old established canning and freezing concern manufacturing a diversified line of standard and specialty foods from Appleberry Sauce to frozen strawberries. As a relatively small concern all of us are quite versatile, one day buying raw products on the market, the next figuring out a Federal Census Report and on the third peddling our finished products. Mainly my job is sales, to the national chains, large wholesalers, ice cream manufacturers, bakers and preservers.

"My wife Pat and sixteen year old daughter Lee join me in an active interest in most sports. We love those Colts and Orioles but we are avidly interested in local politics, social and community affairs. Lee is a good little swimmer, having made her high school varsity as a Freshman. Pat watches squash, plays tennis a little and is the best chauffeur in these parts. She is very active in the Woman's Club of Roland Park. In the summer we prefer the beach for our vacation.

"My enjoyment of squash has taken me to many tournaments, as a player, as an official, as a spectator, and I have been rewarded with a rare collection of fine friends in various cities. At one time I was President of the Maryland State Squash Racquets Association and today represent Maryland on the United States Squash Racquets Association Executive Committee.

"Princeton is a part of my life too.

I find no serious fault with Princeton, think she is still the greatest University, and certainly I am grateful for the fine education and many friends she has provided. Locally I am active in Alumni affairs, serving on the Executive Committee of the Maryland Alumni Association and working enthusiastically for Annual Giving. This year I was selected as Annual Giving Chairman for the City of Baltimore. For the past several years I have represented our Class on the Alumni Council, not a job, but an honor and a pleasure.

"All in all, I am a happily married guy, healthy, satisfied and optimistic for the future, but thank God my he is a she and does not have to try for Princeton."

"After leaving Princeton," Carl writes, "I took one year of post-graduate work at the University of Cincinnati and then four years at Cornell Medical School. Interned at New York Hospital and entered a surgical residency but after one year entered the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army in Sept. 1942. After two good years at Bushnell General Hospital in Utah where our first two children were born, I went to Oahu, thence to Okinawa and Japan returning to the U. S. in 1946. My Army experience being in Urology I then finished a three year residency in Urology at the New York Hospital. We moved to Centre Island, Oyster Bay, Long Island which is still our home. Entered private practice of Urology with the North Shore Medical Group in Huntington and then opened another office in Glen Cove, spare time being used up at Memorial and New York Hospitals in teaching. Country practice gradually increased and gave up my city work. At the present time I am Chief of Urology at the Community Hospital in Glen Cove, Director of Urology, Meadowbrook County Hospital, Consultant in Urology at the U. S. Naval Hospital, St. Albans, and Consultant in Urology at Huntington Hospital.

"Our third boy was born in New York City as was our first girl. After eight years we had another girl born in Glen Cove.

"I have always been interested in sailing, a fact which brought me to Long Island. We live on Oyster Bay and sail out of Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club on Dovekie which I sailed to Bermuda in 1956.

"Locally in our village of Centre Island I have a job as a village trustee and Medical Director of Civilian Defense. I am also a trustee of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club.

"Besides sailing, my main other hobby is duck shooting which I do with my boys on an island off the eastern shore of Virginia named Parramore Beach. On this island we once raised goats and now are beginning to raise Chincoteague ponies.

"In general we live a very relaxed life but population growth is crowding Nassau County with considerable city influence and city problems are becoming our problems. If still around in ten years may very well move away from the New York area. Until then will try to improve the practice of Urology in Nassau County.

"I would say my pet peeves are lack of political courage, lack of individual sacrifice, public apathy and conformism, the Welfare State, Government spending above tax returns, loss of incentive for the hard worker, and most of all the power and corruption in labor. I do not believe Communism will destroy or conquer us but that we will do it ourselves unless we change our ways—which is doubtful.

"My primary interest outside of my family and my work is conservation of our natural resources at least in part to retain some vestiges of the past for the future.

"As far as education is concerned today, even though we may need scientists, I believe it is too narrow and strenuous, and places too much emphasis on intelligence alone, and does not consider the whole individual. What a dull world it would be if only filled with brains!"

Married: Ann DelleCave, April 9, 1941

Children: Norton R., Jr., March 27, 1945

Nort writes: "As we all know, work was hard to find in 1935, and it took a personal letter of introduction from Major Bowes, then the King of Radio, to get me my first job, that of a page at the National Broadcasting Company in New York. After six months, I was promoted from the job to a position (new salary $22.00 per week) in the Cost Accounting Division. That unit folded during the so-called Roosevelt Recession. Thereafter, I worked as a sportswriter for a county seat daily, bookkeeper, car salesman, and junior accountant.

"In February 1941, I entered training as a Special Agent with the FBI. April, 1941 was a momentous month — I finished FBI training, I married Ann DelleCave from my home town, and I was assigned to the San Francisco FBI office. After Pearl Harbor, I took part in the apprehension of enemy aliens in the Bay Area. Later, I worked in the FBI offices at Chicago and New Haven, and in 1947 I was transferred to FBI Headquarters at Washington to supervise civil suit investigations, particularly war frauds.

"In March 1945, my son, Norton Jr., was born at Evanston, Ill. His twin sister died two days after birth.

"The Air Force, made a separate Department in 1947, organized its own investigative unit in 1948. I was offered a position which I accepted effective July 1, 1948. In February, 1950, I was named Chief of the Procurement Investigations Division of the Air Force's Office of Special Investigations, a position I still hold. That Division supervises fraud and contract investigations for the Air Force worldwide. I have traveled extensively throughout the country, and have flown to Europe frequently.

"My wife, my son, and I live in Bethesda, Maryland, a Washington suburb. My son is a student at St. John's College High School, Class of 1963. At age 14, he is a fine athlete, particularly in golf. Ann and I also are ardent golfers, and are members of Kenwood Golf and Country Club. We are active in church and school affairs, and our greatest enjoyments are our home and trying to keep up with an alert and engaging teenager."

Bryce, after graduating from Princeton, went to the University of Pittsburgh where he obtained his LL.B. in 1938. He now practices in his own name in association but not in formal partnership with his father. He is a member of the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, the Allegheny County Bar Association and the Pennsylvania Bar Association. He is an Elder for the Mount Lebanon United Presbyterian Church, Secretary of the Board of Directors of Light of Life Rescue Mission, Inc., a member of the Mt. Lebanon Public Library Board and of the South Hills YMCA.

His hobbies include color photography, water color painting, gardening, golf, bowling, carpentry and attending all local plays, concerts and lectures. About his travels Bryce writes: "Farthest from home was by air to Virgin Islands for a brief, bright week of winter holiday in February, 1958. Jean and I enjoyed immensely the sun, swimming, sightseeing, fabulous food and restful luxury of Caneel Bay Plantation, on St. Johns where we stayed, and the quaintness and beauty of St. Thomas which we visited. 'Carry me back to the Caribbean has been my nostalgic sentiment ever since.' He and his family have spent their August vacations on the seashore at Ventnor or Ocean City, New Jersey; on Chautauqua Lake, New York, and in the Allegheny Mountains north of Ligonier, Pennsylvania.

His wife, Jean got her B.A. from Westminster and her M.A. from Oberlin and taught languages in Junior

Bryce writes: "From the vantage point of twenty-five years more experience in which to appreciate the privileges of being a Princetonian, an American, and a Christian in the midst of the Twentieth Century, A.D., and with grateful consciousness of the advantages of a learned and lucrative profession and a happy and fruitful marriage, I can, with greater fervor and sincerity than during the University Chapel services of our undergraduate years, repeat the classic petitions* of the General Thanksgiving: And we beseech Thee, give us that due sense of all Thy mercies that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful; and that we show forth Thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives; by giving up ourselves to Thy service; and by walking before Thee in righteousness all our days; through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom, with Thee and the Holy Spirit, be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen."

David H. Scott

Home: 3050 West Lane Keys N.W., Washington, D. C.

Tel. DUpont 7-7069

Married: Rosamund Ellis, March 29, 1941

"After graduation in 1935," Dave writes, "I set about earning a living in the business world of steel and spent the years up to World War II in various steel plants in the Middle West and finally ended up in an office in New York City. Then came the war and an assignment to the British Purchasing Commission in Washington as a steel specialist. Finally peace and back to New York, still in the steel business but finding my thoughts and all spare time pretty well wrapped up in rebuilding a country home on Long Island.

"Four years of this and I found life pretty routine what with commuting and the rigid demands of being boss of a steel export operation in lower New York.

"Then came a break which jolted me into an assignment which broadened my horizons and taught me that many people were finding enlarged opportunities for self expression and happiness in lives that were very different from a commuter's world between the city and the country. This assignment was to Paris, France where I served as Chief of the Steel Division of the Economic Cooperation Administration—the Marshall Plan. We fell in love with Europe, rented a house in Paris and tried to live like the natives. This was no trick for my wife as she had lived in Paris from 1919 to 1938. We travelled all over Europe, mostly by car, acted as the United States delegate to steel committees in Paris and Geneva, and found ourselves meeting many people of most fascinating and varied backgrounds.

"Back home after over a year of this the old routine of commuting and meeting office deadlines seemed hard to adjust to once again.

"So when the opportunity came to pause for a while and revalue what was most worth while in life I felt I had some thinking to do.

"What came out finally was this and I pass my experience along not with the idea that anyone would want to copy it but with the thought that it may encourage someone who may have an inner urge to break any pattern that seems to merge into a rut.

"In this age one must, of course, by necessity first support his family. But perhaps there is a level which one can reach that will take care of his essential needs while the endless cries for 'more' can be silenced by looking at the 'more' and seeing if it is really worthwhile. Won't these new things wear out, or won't we soon grow tired to them, or perhaps find that we didn't really want them after all?

"What one really yearns for is a feeling of being worth while. To some this may mean the presidency of a large corporation and so he doesn't mind the sacrifices of time and energy required to achieve this goal. Others have other aims. Perhaps some of us are made to be artists, or educators, or salesmen, or engineers, or diplomats, or what have you. But each of us should find his niche of self expression where he can say at the end of each day, 'I have been worth while today.' This is real happiness and here one finds peace and contentment. This then is success regardless of whether there is a financial reward or public recognition or not.

"As far as Princeton is concerned I am very grateful that I had the opportunity to be an undergraduate there. Of course we all feel we could have made better use of the opportunities that were offered to us but I have no real regrets as it was a milestone in a learning process which I hope will never stop for me."

"After graduation" Ed writes, "I joined the Princeton contingent at Harvard Law School for three years and was admitted to the Connecticut Bar, but the Philadelphia pasture appeared greener and I proceeded thither, practicing first with my uncle, Samuel B. Scott '00 and, after his death, with Pearle and Henderson. Three days after Pearl Harbor I commenced active duty as Lt. (j.g.) in the Naval Reserve.

After two years with Naval Intelligence in Philadelphia, I went to sea in time for the invasions of Leyte, Luzon and Iwo Jima. Early in 1946 I was released to inactive duty as Lt. Cdr. I still attend reserve officers' school weekly to earn retirement credit and try to retain some military usefulness.

"In 1946 the Connecticut legal pasture seemed greener and I returned to New Britain to associate with Camp, Williams and Richardson, and have remained ever since engaged in the variety of work which a small city law practice entails. I am a Rotarian, have served as Secretary and director of our local Club, Secretary and Executive Committee member of the Red Cross Chapter, Executive Board member of the Boy Scout Council and on the Committee having financial responsibility for the First Congregational Church. Community interest includes political activity and I have served as Mayor of New Britain for one term, 1954-56 and as Chairman of the Republican Town Committee. Since Republicans are here overwhelmingly outnumbered, this activity has not been as productive as I should like but, in the interest of good government, it had to be undertaken.

"The most rewarding part of it all has been the acquisition of Helen Rick-enback Scott, Skidmore '42, formerly Home Service Director of the Red Cross Chapter, and our descendants, whose winning ways, inherited from their Mother, have quite captivated their old father."

"I was very pleased to be given the opportunity to serve on the Executive Committee of our class. I believe that Princeton is doing outstanding work in so many phases of education. It is to be regretted, however, that there are not more facilities to provide more men with a Princeton education. With the admission requirements as they are today and the number of applications, it is regrettable that we must have a situation wherein many sons of Princeton graduates are unable to be admitted or direct their attention toward colleges and universities.

Fran writes: "My 25 post-Princeton years have been a lot of fun — far more laughter than tears. Memorable experiences include: a climb to the summit of the Matterhorn, a close look-see into what made Nazi Germany tick, exciting days (and nights) maneuvering members of the Abraham Lincon Brigade out of Spain and out of France, a long-lasting love affair with France, 18 months' service as aide to the Commanding General of the First Army in World War II, a very happy married life, and the companionship of three unabashed, clear-thinking children.

"My chief avocation — as well as my vocation — is the putting together of words. Hobbies include: reading, golf, fund-raising for United Givers Fund and deserving Democrats (and most of them are that), mountain-climbing, deep sea fishing, vacation trips to the Caribbean, and the company of people who like to think for themselves and have no hesitancy in expressing their convictions.

"Wife Jeanette is past President of the Fairfax County Girl Scouts. She currently serves as the first woman Regional Health and Welfare Council President (Fairfax County), and is a member of the Board of Directors of United Givers Fund (Metropolitan Washington). I have served as Chairman of the Fairfax County Community Chest Fund drive, President of the Hollin Hills Community Association and am currently serving on a committee investigating substandard housing in the County and what can be done to remove it.

"Pet peeves include: supposedly educated people who can't tell the difference between its and it's, and Francis and Frances; the inability of our Congress to come to grips with the problem of agricultural surpluses; and the racial prejudices which remain with us.

"For Princeton and its preceptorial system — the education it gave me and has given to so many hundreds more — I retain only the highest respect."

George writes: "Ever since leaving the Grad School in 1938 (where I got my MFA in Architecture), I have been fortunate enough to have had an extremely interesting—if somewhat hectic—career as architect, author and teacher.

"This began in February '38 by being sent as architect to the Princeton Expedition to Antioch, Syria. Evacuated from Antioch because of local troubles (in transferring the area to Turkey), I then worked in architects' offices in New York. In 1939 received Fellowship from American-Scandinavian Foundation to do book on modern Swedish architecture. Jack Faron—also on similar fellowship—and I were notoriously 'arrested' as spies in Stockholm in November 1939 (soon released), after the war in Europe was well under way. Repatriated, again worked in New York.

"Sent to Brazil in 1942 with Philip Goodwin to do book and exhibition on the new Brazilian architecture for Museum of Modern Art. Both decorated by Brazilian Government for this. U. S. Navy, mostly with Navy Engineers and Capt. Steichen, from late '42 to '46 in numerous theaters. Nothing heroic.

"Guggenheim Fellow in March '46 to complete Swedish book and do another one on Switzerland. (Sweden Builds and Switzerland Builds). Taught architecture at Yale in '48-'49 when I got President's Fellowship from Brown University to do book on contemporary Italian architecture, with Research Fulbright Grant to complete this. Spent almost two years abroad with family. Italy Builds resulted, getting Gold Medal from Italian Government as best book on Italy in 1956.

"Between commuting to Cambridge to hold Master's Class at MIT Graduate School in '52-'53, and lecturing at forty to fifty universities in U. S. and abroad, managed to use only a bit of my national architectural registration in native Alabama, Colorado and Connecticut. In 1959 got Brunner Scholarship to do a pocket Guide to Modern Architecture in Europe. Spending summer of '59 abroad to do this, also small Guide to Modern Architecture in Germany (for German Government), a substantial book on The Great New Churches of Europe, and, I hope, a color book on Italy (The Magnificence of Italy).

"Have written on the architectures of seventeen countries and also did 'Religious Architecture' article for Encyclopedia Britannica. Recently made Fellow of the American Institute of Architects for 'contribution to architectural literature'. Several of my photographs are in the collection of the Museum of Modern Art. Just got a patent for an entirely new kind of stilt which I hope will be the hoola-hoop of 1960!"

"My life revolves around my family, and this is my principal interest. Jean and I have been blessed with two lovely curly-headed daughters (Jean - six and Mary - three) and we are quite busy rearing them at this particular juncture. Zermah, my seventeen year old daughter, is presently attending school in England and seems quite happy over there. Harold, III, my fifteen year old son, is attending military school and hopes to enter Princeton in a few years to study engineering.

"Carborundum moved us to St. Louis for the period 1954-1956 and we returned to the Niagara Frontier area in January, 1957. We settled in Williamsville, a suburb of Buffalo, and I commute to work in Niagara Falls when I am not traveling all over the country on company business. My present job makes me responsible for the Merchandising Sales Force of The Carborundum Company, which sells all of our abrasives (Sandpaper, Grinding Wheels, Sharpening Stones, etc.) throughout this country to all trades except industry. This makes it necessary for me to visit most of the major cities in the United States annually, and I am away about 40% of the time. If you think that much travel is just a lark, I have news for you!

I do like my job, however, because I have always been keenly interested in people and I see a lot of them constantly.

"I am a Presbyterian, a Republican (Roosevelt cured my early Democratic upbringing), and I still prefer golf to any other sport. Am strictly a week-end golfer with a 10 handicap. Still have a tendency to have a fast backswing, after 35 years of patient attempts to cure it, but love the game anyhow and always will.

"The privilege of attending Princeton as a member of '35 was one of the finest things that has ever happened to me, and I shall always be grateful. I think Princeton is currently in good hands and that her future is bright indeed.

"My philosophy of life is based on tolerance, and I feel that kindness and consideration toward others are of paramount importance. We must have more understanding among people and countries before permanent peace can ever be attained. This, I think, should be our common goal."

"My main interest," Henry writes, "has always been anthropology and linguistics, and now I find myself chairman of the only department—college or university—which incorporates the names of both fields in its title. Teaching has been both my vocation and avocation, and if I have a hobby, it's spotting Americans' geographical localities by their patterns of speech. But I was paid for that on WOR when I conducted the 'Where are you from?' radio program, from 1939 to 1941. This was during the time when I was teaching in the English department of Barnard College (1939-40) and Brown University (1940-42) after getting my M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from Princeton in linguistics in 1937 and 1938, respectively.

"Though a Princeton ROTC artilleryman, I was assigned by the Army in 1942 to the Education Branch of the Information and Education Division (until 1945), and later (1945-6) to the Army School Center of the Office of the Provost Marshall General.

In the first assignment, I was in charge of preparing all language instruction and reference materials for the Armed Forces, and in the second, for teaching English to selected German POW's. Both assignments included the application of the findings of linguistic science to language teaching problems.

"After the war (1946), the State Department asked me to develop a worldwide language teaching program for Foreign Service personnel and other government employees going abroad on official business. I was at State for ten years—ending as Dean of the School of Languages of the Foreign Service Institute—when I resigned to come to the University of Buffalo in 1956.

"Luckily I was able to continue basic research in linguistics and anthropology during my fourteen years of government educational administration and two former colleagues at FSI came with me to Buffalo to help found the new department. My colleague George Trager and I wrote An Outline of English Structure in 1951 and my Linguistic Science and the Teaching of English was published in 1956. Neither makes for racy reading, but they have both been translated into Japanese.

"As a holder of three degrees from Old Nassau, I think I know better than most the inestimable advantages of a Princeton education. I think the University is developing rapidly but soundly and could only wish my own fields of interest were better recognized. With this in mind, I am delighted to have been appointed a member of the Graduate Advisory Council for my department—now called Oriental Studies. I am also a director of the Princeton Club of Western New York. Princeton gave me my professional training but also something even more important—the understanding of the value of a liberal education.'

He is also President of MacEwan and Smith, Inc.; a Director of Open Stair Dwellings Company; a Director of York-Jersey Committee and President of the Community Councils for the City of New York.

His hobbies are exploration, boating, skating, tennis and language and among his many club memberships are that of American Geographical Society; Horticultural Society of New York, Massachusetts and National Audubon Societies; Skating Club of New York and the West Side Tennis Club.

His travels have been extensive and he writes about them: "These trips provided what later have proven to be some of the most important keys to my further personal, character and business interests." His vacation spots vary but some are the Bahamas, Bay Head, Lake Placid or the White Mountains. His wife is a graduate of Douglass College in New Brunswick, N. J., and her activities before marriage included teaching, home economics, swimming and ice skating. Now she has dropped the teaching and has taken up gardening instead, besides being actively interested in her husband's many projects.

Henry's pet peeve: "Lack of public attention and effective means to cope with misleading or fraudulent reporting of technical and economic fact by constituted authorities and their consultants is the greatest single threat to our economy, our children, and our national security."

"After some pavement pounding in July 1935," Jay writes, "Wood Struthers hired me as a trainee security analyst and I have been doing analytical work for this firm ever since. I am currently senior analyst, Assistant Manager of the Investment Research Department, and more confused about the stock market with each passing year. My economics major at Princeton was of some general background value, but not nearly so useful as the skeptical attitude and intellectual curiosity that were stimulated and developed by the overall Princeton experience. Much of my job now consists of editing the written work of younger men: the correlation between their educational backgrounds and their intellectual approaches is fascinating.

"In 1936 I met a charming New York girl named Mary Mairs, and persuaded her that Smith was a better name in June 1938. After a couple of apartment years in New York, we built a house in Irvington-on-Hudson in the summer of 1940. This was and still is a relatively small town in character as well as size, which makes it a delightful place to live. Our first child, John, arrived in September 1941; he is abroad this summer as a Winant Volunteer in the east end of London, and will enter Princeton's class of 1963 (frightening number!).

"I enlisted in the army in February 1942, having been a strong interventionist. OCS later that year made me a lieutenant in the Signal Corps; stationed in this country until summer of 1945; wound up service in the Far East with OSS, but no romantic adventures. My second child, Deedee, was born in Hampton, Virginia in 1943. She weighed only 2½ lbs. at birth, but has put on weight since. She's an active Girl Scout, currently camping in Colorado.

"After the war, we returned to Irvington and another potential Princetonian, David, appeared in late 1946. Our youngest, Linda, was born in 1950. A family of four energetic offspring is prima facie indication of how Mary spends most of her time, but she somehow was able to help start an Irvington League of Women Voters two years ago, and serve as President of it until this spring.

"We're interested in many activities in and around Irvington. I'm serving my fifth year on the School Board, having been President in 1957-58. I was on the vestry of our local Episcopal church for a time, but two years ago, after much soul searching, we decided we are really Unitarians in conviction, so we now belong to the First Unitarian Church of Yonkers, where I am chairman of the finance committee. In politics, Mary's a Republican and I'm registered as a Democrat, but we both lean toward a liberal political outlook."

Steve writes: "Since leaving college I have been engaged in the public utility business in Iowa. A side line, family business, occasionally but regularly takes me to Wyoming. The latter gave me the opportunity to meet my wife.

"In 1940 I joined the National Guard with the usual consequences of that period. I saw no combat in spite of being in service five years, as my only overseas duty was in the Aleutians after that campaign was concluded. I returned to civilian life and began raising my family of three boys.

"Over the years a good deal of my time seems to have gone into the various fund raising required by various civic, health, artistic and educational groups. I see no end to it as something new in the way of funds seems always to be coming up.

"My other community obligations seem to have been directed toward the theatre and music. For several years I served as a director of the local community theatre with the group which was instrumental in re-activating its activities after the war time hiatus.

After that I began my service on the board of our Symphony Orchestra Association. At present I am still active there and find it the most rewarding and the most fun of any of the community activities I have yet experienced. I have served as President of this group for two years and manage now to serve only as secretary (takes less time). Margaret also enjoys her part in the Symphony's supporting activities, for she is constantly engaged in some handicraft work which can be sold and the resulting cash used to help provide for the orchestra. It would be fair to assume that this is the project to which both devote the greater part of our extra curricular time. It has been really good fun for both of us. To date none of the boys seem destined to be interested in music which I suppose is the normal reaction.

"As my eldest is now rapidly approaching the age when good secondary schooling is a must, I expend considerable thought on that problem. Getting into Princeton is going to be extremely difficult for these war babies. Since I consider my years at college without any doubt the key and probably the most pleasant years of my life, I should like my boys to have the same opportunity I had."

John S. Spruance

Newspaper Reporter

Home: 1805 Bellewood Road, Wilmington 3, Del.

Tel. Olympha 4-0083

Business: News-Journal Company, 831 Orange Street, Wilmington, Del.

Married: Mary Magee Wright, November 1, 1941

Children: Susan Corbitt, January 12, 1950

Johnny writes: "The life of Johnny Spruance hasn't changed much since the 15th Year Book was published.

"He's still covering the courts for the Journal-Every Evening in Wilmington. He's still bulging at the middle, and thinks he'll probably need a new Reunion outfit. While his two front teeth were replaced by a plate a couple of years ago, he still has hair of its original hue and a reasonably good disposition when he's not pushed too hard.

"He's still married to his Mary—it will be 19 years this November (1960)—and Miss Susan Corbit Spruance is still their only offspring. The household revolves pretty much around that lively fourth grader at Wilmington Friends School, where her Daddy prepared for Princeton. She got a big kick out of marching in the 20th Reunion parade with him when she was five, and is looking forward to the 25th.

"Behind the subject of this piece are some years of floundering—not altogether unhappy ones—before he settled down to his present way of life. He's been with the same company since 1942. While it took him some time to work his way up to his present eminence—covering higher state and federal courts—and the future does not promise a great deal in the way of advancement, folks tell him he has an interesting and challenging job.

"Johnny's start in the newspaper business came in the late 1930's on the old Wilmington Sunday Star, now defunct. Behind that lay the wreckage of several unpromising (for him) careers, such as law and banking. It suffices to say he met his wife on the old Star and made a decision he has never regretted.

"The John Spruances were married a month before Pearl Harbor, after he had been working for the Newport News, Virginia, Times-Herald. In the fall of 1942, the Journal-Every Evening, where he had always wanted to go, called him back to Wilmington. That call, as things turned out, was about 10 months before the Army's summons. His service in the artillery was about 32 months in all, half in this country and half in Europe. He came out a kind of lower bracket sergeant—an indication of the shape of things to come.

"From 1942 to 1955, the Spruances lived in Newport, Delaware, a fascinating old town, teeming with characters one doesn't encounter in conventional suburbs. After the war, the Spruances bought an old house and remodeled it. Johnny served on the board of town commissioners and was also alderman, a post corresponding to magistrate. He was also on the commission which helped draft the town's first zoning ordinance, and in addition was a vestryman of St. James Episcopal Church. Finally, after an unsuccessful battle in which the town commissioners decided the street on which they lived was to become a one-way thoroughfare to the Delaware Park racetrack, Johnny and Mary decided to move, and take five-year-old Susan with them.

"They chose a two-story brick house in one of Wilmington's northern suburbs. The grounds keep the household busy on weekends and in between, when he has time. There are roses, a grove of crab apples, various shrubs, and GRASS. The power mower is a great invention, but something else is needed to reach the borders. The claimed benefits of bending and stooping have to be balanced against advancing years. And there's also snow shoveling in winter.

"At the newspaper, the step leading from lower to higher courts was an assignment to cover an antitrust suit against the Du Pont Company. The case lasted the better part of three years and opened up the way for—more court assignments, of course. The author believes it a strange quirk of fate which steered him from an unsuccessful try at the University of Pennsylvania Law School and set him down in his home town, his life closely tied to lawyers and judges, nearly 25 years later.

"An interesting sideline in recent years is the Civil War Round Table of Wilmington, especially for one who wrote his thesis on Delaware in the Civil War. That Princeton thesis has formed the backlog for later writings—a chapter on the Civil War in a history of Delaware and a pamphlet written for children of junior high school level, and supervised by University of Delaware faculty members. The latter was the toughest job of all.

"As the Wilmington Round Table's chief publicity man, covering stories about its meetings, speakers, and battlefield tours, the author is also a member of its executive committee.

Johnny is also a member of the Federal Advisory Committee for Delaware's Civil War Centennial observance.

"The Spruances are members of a suburban swimming club, a summer-time activity which has largely taken the place of vacation tours and out-of-state sojourns. Mary conducts a summer poetry class for neighborhood youngsters. They use their art work in creating poetic images.

"Hopes, dreams and aspirations? They're largely tied to seeing a daughter through Friends School and to the college of her choice, as yet unselected. Sometimes it is impossible, as well as distasteful, to think beyond tuition bills, income taxes, and house repairs.

"It is assumed, however, that there will be another 20 years or so of work on the newspaper which may entitle the author to retire with the title of 'grand old man,' 'dean of local journalists,' or some such. After that's over, there are things like surf fishing, looking after the homestead (if we still have it), and organizations in which one can narrate to a room of dozing listeners, 'I can remember when . . .

"Trips to Europe? Mary is more interested in a steamboat voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi. That probably will have to come first, or that may be The Trip, period. Fiftieth Reunion? Can't see that far into the crystal ball."

Charlie and his family live on a farm outside of Lancaster and this farm is his main hobby, though he earns a living by being the Assistant Manager of the Lancaster Storage Company. Within recent years he has become very interested in the Red Cross and for the last couple of years has been Chapter Chairman for Lancaster County.

He and his family spend the month of June traveling either in New England or out West by car taking in local points of interest. This enables Charlie to indulge in his other hobby, photography. He is a member of the Lancaster County Country Club and the Union League of Philadelphia.

His wife, Dotty, is a graduate of Wilson College and before her marriage was an Laboratory Assistant for R.C.A. Now her interests are the Red Cross and Junior League. According to her husband, "She would like to live in Princeton and she would like to make some comments about me, but I refuse to accept them."

"One month after graduating from Princeton," Bob writes, "I got a job in one of the plants of the United States Steel Corporation, the company for which I still work. In 1947 I became Chief Metallurgist of this plant, the Duquesne Steel Works, and in 1950 I left operating to join the U. S. Steel Research Staff specializing in blast-furnace and raw-material research.

"The most interesting highlight of this work was a trip during the fall of 1958 through England, Scotland, France, Belgium, West Germany and Sweden to obtain European blast-furnace technical information. On this trip, my wife accompanied me, so that the trip was as much one of pleasure as of business.

"My wife, Madeline, who majored in painting and design at the School of Fine Arts at Carnegie Institute of Technology is still interested in painting, although the many demands that the family makes of her leaves her very little time for this.

"Our major accomplishment, shared both by my wife and me has been the raising of our three boys into the teen age range. At present all three are much smarter than either of their parents.

"As a family we like to travel, and when not travelling, we spend the hot summer days at the seashore in Avalon, New Jersey."

"Relying on the liberal arts education I gained at Princeton through peddling laundry subscriptions, tailor shop tickets, free passes to the Theatre Intime, etc., I got a job in Wall Street in 1935 as a sales trainee. After about a dozen years in the sales field, I became Sales Manager of the same firm, Hemphill, Noyes & Co., so that I could draw a salary for telling other people how to do it without having to do it myself. I'm still with Hemphill, Noyes as a General Partner and am still enthused about the securities business.

"Back in 1939 I married Virginia Vogt of Montclair, N. J., who has since presented me with three beautiful blondes, who look just like their mother. The eldest, Susan, is now a freshman at Vassar, while Sharon and Lissy are both pursuing their studies at Miss Fine's School in Princeton.

"During the first quarter century, I suppose my various interests in 1935 affairs and other Princeton Alumni activities have been to me the most rewarding extracurricular activities in which I have engaged. I thoroughly enjoyed the privilege of being President of 'Princeton's Greatest Class' and now am currently involved in other Princeton Alumni work as chairman of the Alumni Council and President of the National Alumni Association as well as a member of the Executive Committee for the $53 Million Campaign.

"About 10 years ago I had the pleasure of serving as President of the Lawrenceville School Alumni Association, but more recently have spent six years on the Board of Miss Fine's School, oddly enough, what with three daughters in attendance there.

"Obviously, I have enjoyed these various connections with educational institutions, particularly Princeton. Who else owns a life-sized tiger?"

Before his present job he was Assistant Chief Engineer for the Gerotor May Corporation and Project Engineer for the Vitro Laboratories at Silver Spring. At the present time he is the Senior Staff Engineer for the Applied Physics Laboratory at John Hopkins University.

As far as civic activities are concerned, he is a past President of the Laurel Police Association and the Laurel Holy Name Society and is Chief of the Laurel Auxiliary Police Department. Riv says that his hobby is Electronics (Mobile Communications). He and his family spend either July or August touring the country by auto.

Riv writes: "I consider that the Princeton of my day had a miniscule social apprehension. It appears that the situation is much improved today. While I respect Princeton scholarship I do not regard it (the university) as inherently superior in any important characteristic. I consider it the primary function of a university to teach, not to perform research on a government contract. Just as a professor must himself 'profess' in order to communicate his wisdom to his pupils, he cannot be free to do so when his livelihood (or at least the luxuries which we all now accept as necessities) depends on research, particularly for a rich uncle. If the editor is uncritical enough to want to quote any of this he is welcome. It seems pretty stuffy to me."

"After leaving Princeton I spent one year at Columbia University Law School, and then transferred to the University of Newark Law School, Newark, New Jersey—now Rutgers Law School—and received an LL.B. in 1939. I was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1940 and the District of Columbia Bar in 1941.

"In September 1940, I went on duty with the United States Army as First Lieutenant and was separated from service in May 1946 as a Colonel. During this period I served in Washington in the Office of the Under-Secretary of War, then with the United States Armed Forces in the Middle East in Cairo during part of '42, '43 and '44. Then with the G-4 Staff in the Pentagon in Washington. Visited the E.T.O. Pacific Areas, including the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

"I began law practice with my father in the firm of Stout and O'Hagan, Asbury Park, New Jersey—said firm moved to Allenhurst in 1957. President of Monmouth County Young Republicans in 1949. Ran for State Senator from Monmouth County in 1951, was elected for four year term; re-elected in 1955, and again in 1959. Served as Majority Leader 1957, President of the Senate 1958. I have been active in general community activities, served on the Fitkin Hospital Board, Trustee of the Monmouth County Historical Association, American Legion, V.F.W., Princeton Club of Monmouth County, and a director of the Allenhurst National Bank and Trust Company.

"Married to Nancy Tucker of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania January 18, 1947. Father-in-law was Yale 1912 and one brother-in-law Yale 1951.

"The fact that I was a graduate of Princeton University was a great asset in the United States Army and in government circles both in Washington and New Jersey. In addition it has been an asset in my profession. The reasons for this are obvious: (1) the high standards of the University, and (2) the examples set by many graduates in the past. As for the present day Princeton,

I believe that the college is measuring up to its responsibilities in the new post-war era and that it has maintained its leadership in the higher educational field."

"When I was eight years old, I cut my finger one day and my Mother noticed on bandaging it that the blood was black. Somewhat resignedly, she told me, 'You've got printer's ink in your veins.' Ever since then, it seems, I've been involved in some aspect of type-writer pounding, primarily publicity writing and newspaper work.

"The first paper I edited was a neighborhood affair, published in the summertime when it wasn't too hot and had seven subscribers. The most recent is Town Topics, launched in 1946, published weekly regardless of the weather and has a circulation of 12,177. It now averages 40 pages per issue.

"In between, I was briefly among the first employees of the Gallup Poll (1936-37); managing editor of the Princeton Herald ('37-'41); publicity director of the Eastern College Athletic Conference ('41-'42); director of distribution at the Princeton Film Center, educational and training films ('42-'48).

"In addition to Town Topics, writing activities have included coverage in Princeton for half a dozen metropolitan dailies and wire services and, for the past decade, sports columnist for the Alumni Weekly. I have also developed the knack of bringing 50,000 people to their feet at the sound of my voice by announcing the 'Star Spangled Banner' on the public address system in Palmer Stadium. P. A. duties in Baker Ring and Dillon Gymnasium are also a part of evening and weekend activities.

"Service as Class Secretary and Alumni Council Representative for 11 years and on various community and school boards have been a part of the past quarter-century, although such activity has become increasingly curtailed as the duties of publishing a growing newspaper have increased. It goes without saying that my proudest moment since graduation was the dinner at which I received the Class of 1935 Award."

"Like my cousin Don Stuart (see above), I also seem to have printer's ink in my veins—only the ink isn't as indelible or as fast-flowing or in as good supply. Most of my work has been more on the periphery of publishing, both in occupation and in marriage.

"Again like Don, I was one of the original day laborers at Doctor Gallup's Magic Poll—$25 a week, no tipping allowed.

"Next stop was H'wood and a job doing opinion research on movies for a guy whose main form of food and entertainment was drinking warm, premelted chocolate ice-cream. After a few months of this I gagged and left.

"From 1938 to 1942 I edited the magazine which had at the time the world's largest unpaid circulation and highest non-readership, the Princeton Alumni Weekly.

"Then some clod blew a bugle, and off I quaked to war. Despite that, we won, didn't we? I saw action mainly in the Texas Theater of Operations as a PFC-GFU, later as a lieutenant of ordnance, ever true to the tradition of 'Princeton in the Nation's Hair.'

"Postwar, I spent ten years of self-imposed exile in a sub-cultural bayou called UPPER (please!) Roxborough, a singularly ugly part of Lesser Philadelphia. I finally unaddled my pate long enough to move back here to Boystown, where I shoulda stood in the first place.

"My favorite athletic activities: gluey squash racquets, gentle golf, commuting, and, most of all, banging drums in a Dixieland group manned by fellow alumni of our era.

"My wife hits a typewriter often and well enough to have been published in Harper's and other magazines, as well as in an anthology or two. Currently, she works about 80 out of a supposed 40-hour week as Director of Public Relations at Princeton Hospital, which helps a lot in the pleasant but challenging game of living both in P'ton and within income!

"Our split-level life includes, in addition to three nifty kids: a W. W. Stevenson cat, 'Maginty '63'; two lizards, 'Abelise' and 'Eloard'; two newts, 'Neut' and 'Neuter'; a four-foot Springer Spaniel, non-Ch. 'Tamas Lie the Hell Down There'; a three-foot boa constrictor, 'Fafnir, the Siegfried Idol'; and a box turtle, 'Container Corporation of America.' Drop in any time."

Ned is an editor with the British Information Service in Thailand, and unfortunately cannot be back for the 25th because of the vast distance which separates him from Princeton.

Since leaving Princeton he has acquired a B.A. in Economics from Miami University in 1937, and has become a member of the Alpha Kappa Delta National Honorary Sociological Fraternity, the National Press Association of Thailand, and the International P. E. N. Club. He was President of the National Press Association of Thailand in 1952. He has published a Handbook of Economic Principles (1941), as well as two other volumes, Principles of Money, 1941 and 1942, and English Conversation Self-Taught. Before taking his present position, he was with the Thai Government Service from 1938 to 1946 and again in 1948 as Thai Chief Delegate to ECAFE fourth session in Australia; in 1943 and 1945 he served as Commercial and Financial Attache to the Royal Thai Embassy, Tokyo. He was also Economic Adviser to the Government Party in 1948-49, and served several times on the Board of Directors of the National Press Association of Thailand and also of various trade firms.

Ned is a member of the American Universities Alumni Association, Old England Students Association, Royal Bangkok Sports Club, Royal Turf Club of Thailand, Reporters' Club and Royal Automobile Association of Thailand. His present hobbies are swimming, fishing, tennis and boxing.

Since leaving Princeton, Ned has made three complete trips around the world, the first in 1927 and the last in 1952.

Married: Helen DeLano

Children: Robert DeLano, May 12, 1943

Craig DeLano, October 25, 1949

Bob Sutherland writes: "My career at Princeton was all too short, as I left before completing my four years. The family business was having rough sledding during the early thirties and being the oldest child, I was needed.

"The next years were spent in business with my father, learning the retail lumber business. I married Helen DeLano in 1939. Upon the death of my father in 1941, I assumed full management of the Sutherland Lumber Company. With the exception of some manufacturing operations which we carried on during the war, we have continued to expand our retail yards now having locations in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, and Ohio.

"My main hobbies are sailing, hunting, fishing, and painting. Along with industrial and bank directorships, I am on the usual number of hospital, United Fund, health agency, and school boards. My wife, a graduate of Vassar, besides being a mainstay to me and to our two children, Bob and Craig does an outstanding job carrying her civic load.

"It will always be a regret to me that I was not able, because of my family situation, to complete my four years at Princeton. I sincerely hope that one or both of my boys will have that experience.

"Young people now are confronted with such tremendous pressures getting into college that I am concerned lest their college entrance, if once gained, might seem too much like the final victory instead of just an important step. I have no solution to the situation, but am trying to create in my boys a proper balance of attitudes, emphasizing the importance of an entire lifetime of growth and progress while recognizing the seriousness of this intermediate hurdle, gaining entrance to the college of their choice."

Frank writes: "I can't understand why I'm even included in this class since I attended Princeton for such a short time. However—since I left Princeton, I attended Johns Hopkins University (also for a short duration), then got mixed up in the theater as a technician, scenic artist, electrician, carpenter and finally as an actor. After appearing on Broadway in three shows which opened and closed between Thanksgiving Day and New Year's Eve, I decided an actor's life was not for me and forthwith declared myself a writer. I wrote steadily for more than a year before selling my first short story to Good Housekeeping magazine, and then managed to sell quite a few to the slick magazines such as American and Collier's, both of which promptly went out of business.

"In 1941 I got lucky with a play on Broadway, 'Out of the Frying Pan', sold it to Paramount Pictures and went out to Hollywood as a screen writer, finally signing a long term deal with Warner Brothers. About two and a half years as an officer in the Naval Photographic Services intervened, then back to Warner Brothers until 1947 when I started free-lancing in Hollywood.

"Since that time, there have been upwards of 40 motion pictures and seven plays. By the time this appears, there might be another play on Broadway, a musical entitled, 'I'll Call You.'

"I believe the only time I've ever seen any of my former classmates was during my period in the Navy when I kept bumping into people in San Diego, either coming or going.

"That's about all there is to it."

family summer in Berlin, Vermont (in the mountains south of Montpelier), where, as Jack puts it: "I swim and enjoy my family in the environment of a hillside farm that is much the same as it was 100 years ago."

Jack's wife, Norma, enjoys music and giving her time to the Nurse's Aide, the P.T.A., and the Cub Scouts.

Jack writes: "When asked to succinctly state the basic philosophy of his life, Justice Brandeis surprised most of his listeners who expected him to make some sweeping liberal generalization and said simply, 'A firm belief in the inevitability of gradualness.' Certainly an acceptance of this saves a lot of wear and tear in social situations. Individuals and societies change slowly and attempts to speed up too much such changes are usually self-defeating."

Thomas Leofric, December 10, 1954

"From our graduation until 1941, I was with Standard Oil of New Jersey in their head office in New York. For three years of that time I attended Fordham Law School (at night) but my legal education was interrupted by World War II. During the war I was on duty with the Army's Transportation Corps and emerged as a Lieutenant Colonel. Much of my duty was in Charlotte, N. C., and after the war ended I decided to settle here.

"After trying several things I decided that public accounting was the field for me. I acted accordingly in 1952, served as a junior accountant, passed the C.P.A. examinations (and later taught a review course for them). In 1957 I became a partner in the accounting firm of Fechhelm, Hartley and Temple. That's me on the end. I am immediate past President of the Charlotte Chapter of C.P.A.'s and am currently a Director of the North Carolina Association of C.P.A.'s. To me, public accounting is challenging, rewarding and a surprising amount of fun.

"Carolyn Churchman (Vassar '40) and I were married in 1952, and have two boys, Philip, 6, and Thomas, 5. Her father was Philip H. Churchman, '96, long a professor of Romance languages at Clark University in Worcester. Her sister's husband is J. Ross Hunter, '34, Yale Law School, attorney in Charleston, West Virginia. Carolyn's career before we were married included four years as Erno Rapee's secretary at Radio City Music Hall. During World War II, she went to the Southwest Pacific with the Red Cross.

"In recent years, I have taken part in church activities. I am a licensed lay reader (Episcopal), a member of my church's finance committee, and I assist in the program for adult religious education. I think the main reason we are on this earth is in order to help others, and while I scarcely practice what I preach, I do get a lot out of my church associations.

"Also, in recent year I have been active in local alumni matters and am currently President of the Princeton Alumni Association of Charlotte. I think Princeton has done a tremendous job in maintaining and strengthening its position as a leader in higher education and I am all for it."

His Princeton activities include being a class agent for Annual Giving and the '35 Chicago Region Agent. He has taken frequent trips to Florida, Cuba, New Orleans and been once to California. These trips have been for pleasure with his wife and family.

About his vacations Nels says, "We have a summer home at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland. My family spends the entire summer there and I join them for four weeks in July and August. Some of the finest trout and bass fishing is around Mt. Lake, Maryland. A fine lake — much rest, and at present I hold the Mint Julep Championship of Garrett County, Maryland." His wife, Susie, is a graduate of Fairmont College and is and was a real sports fan. She is now interested in hospital work, and is completely occupied with the building of a new home in Barrington, and debuting a daughter.

About Princeton Nels writes: "That 25 years thereafter, — the Spirit of Princeton is one of the most dominating and motivating factors in my life. The remembrances of classmates and Princeton training magnify and enlarge to afford pleasure and stimulation no matter how dire and difficult the hurdles become along the path of my life. When we see how many make the call and how few are chosen — such an occasion as this stupendous Reunion — turns into a Thanksgiving sort of week-end for me!"

Charlie writes: "After one year Graduate work in the Princeton School of Architecture, I received the Woolley Art Scholarship for study in Paris. I enrolled at the Ecoles des Beaux Arts where I should have presented my thesis for diploma in June, 1940. This program was interrupted in the fall of 1939. I then went with the International YMCA to Mexico where I set up a school for hand weaving, constructed model homes and their furnishings for rural populations, was kidnapped and held four days for ransom by contemporary followers of Zapata. Immediately after the liberation of France I was sent by the American Friends Service Committee to direct relief operations in Perpignan, France, near the Mediterranean end of the Spanish border, where Spanish refugees from the civil war, French citizens, and German prisoners of war all were in desperate need. In the fall of 1947 I returned to Princeton to instruct in drawing and prepare my thesis for an M.F.A. which I received in 1948. For 2 years I worked in architectural offices in Grand Junction, Colorado, and then obtained a contract to design residences for caretakers at the World War II Cemeteries in Europe. This brought me back to Paris, where I have maintained an Architectural Practise ever since. Under contract with the Foreign Buildings Operation of the State Department I directed the construction of Apartments for Embassy personnel in Paris as well as other residential or office requirements in various European cities. I then contracted with NATO to undertake the direction of the New Permanent Headquarters Office, set up to control the design and construction of their permanent Offices at the Porte Dauphine in Paris. I am now operating my private practise of architecture in partnership with two French architects.

"In 1954 I purchased a summer home in the Burgundian hill town of Vezelay. In the 18th Century it had been the priory of the diocesan church of St. Pierre, but it had also served as headquarters for the German Officers during occupation, and was badly in need of architectural services. These have been proffered and a passion for auction sales has furnished it with supposed bargains so comfortably that summer has been extended far into the spring and fall. My sister, Dorothy, who has lived with me since 1948, finds it as attractive a place to live as I do, and we are pleased to find that we seem to see more of our friends of all nationalities in this rather isolated spot than we did when living in the centre of congested communities."

From Charlie: "The Rev. Charles Trexler, Jr. is the Pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Roosevelt, Long Island. After graduation from Princeton, he spent 5 years in professional theater as stage manager and actor. He was associated with Brock Pemberton, Guthrie McClintic, James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Jose Ferrer and Ethel Barrymore.

"Pastor Trexler enlisted as a private in 1941; volunteered for overseas duty and left for England in July 1942 as a master sergeant and was assigned to Headquarters Army Service Forces European Theater. As a result of work on the Torch Operation (invasion of North Africa) he was commissioned a first lieutenant; applied for transfer to Special Service Division and was assigned to Headquarters Southern Base Section encompassing the southern half of England. After a year and a half apprenticeship as executive officer in the Special Service Section, during which time he was promoted to Captain and Major; he was designated as Chief of Special Services for the Command. He was responsible for the entire morale and recreational program, including supply of the 600,000 troops comprising the initial invasion force. A staff of 25 officers and 40 enlisted men and civilians was assigned to him at the headquarters from which emanated the entire planning and policy for the athletic, entertainment and recreation programs for the area. Army service clubs, libraries, gymnasiums, large tournaments and other sporting events, Red Cross clubs, motion pictures and stage shows were some of the activities which were organized. An operational staff of approximately 1500 officers, enlisted men and civilians was his responsibility, as was the effecting of close coordination between the Chaplains' Corps, American Red Cross, the United Service Organization, British Red Cross and other British welfare agencies.

"In October 1944, the personnel of Southern Base headquarters moved to Rheims, France, to take over the Oise Intermediate Section which eventually comprised about one third of France. It was here that Pastor Trexler received his promotion to Lt. Colonel and was charged with activities similar to those in England except that the coordination in welfare and moral activities had to be made with French Army and civilian agencies. For his efforts with these agencies, he was the recipient of the decoration "Medaille De La Reconnaissance Francaise" from the government of France.

"Oise headquarters established reception stations for thousands of allied officers and men who were repatriated prisoners of war, in which Special Service received strong emphasis. For his work in connection with this program Pastor Trexler was awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

"In September 1945 Oise headquarters took over the huge Assembly Area Command and operated the 19 camps with a total capacity of 200,000 troops who staged there for their redeployment. Each one of the 19 camps was a complete city where all entertainment, recreation, athletic, Red Cross and other morale activities were provided. Two months after the consolidation of these two headquarters, Pastor Trexler was released by his commanding general and returned to the U. S. after almost three and a half years continuous foreign service.

"In 1946 Pastor Trexler entered the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia and was graduated in 1949 with the degree of Bachelor of Theology. In the same year he received the degree of Master of Arts from Middlebury College. Ordained in Holy Trinity Church, Buffalo, New York in 1949, he has been the Pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd since its inception as a mission congregation in that same year. He is the past President of the Long Island Conference of the United Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, on the Board of Editors of Una Sancta a magazine devoted to the liturgical life of the Lutheran Church, a member of the Board of Directors of the Lutheran Seminary at Philadelphia and a co-Sacrament of the Altar of the United missioner on the Commission of the Lutheran Church in America."

"Turner, we've turned the Library of Congress inside out, but can't find an author's card for you anywhere. How about that?"

"Mr. Examiner, please, I really did mean to write my book on the secret of successful labor relations. I had some beautiful case studies and copious notes but..."

"Very weak, indeed. However, you no doubt have been awarded honors from some university?"

"Not exactly, I was once on the parents committee of Sarah Lawrence College. It led to a very interesting dinner for Harold Taylor at the Waldorf..."

"Enough! Let us now turn to your military career. What did you do in the days of Pearl Harbor or Korea?"

"I tried, I really tried—wangled orders to join the Mountain Troops (love skiing)—then flunked physical. Couldn't get into anything."

"OK, OK. Now, surely you've been busy in your own community of, let's see, here it is, York, Pa.?"

"Oh yes, sir, quite busy. My wife, Josie, and I are symphony fans. We ran a terrific 'Viennese Ball' for them—made money. Take politics. I organized a dinner for 1,000 in honor of Senator Morton of Kentucky—big success. Take Cub Scouts, under my leadership my son's cub pack sold more candy mints (their money-raising project) than ever before."

"Look here, Turner, isn't there something in your background of a more, shall we say, intellectual nature?"

"Well, I do have two patents in my name—a better hanger for a screen and a better rewinder for a cable reel. Also, my older daughter is a graduate physicist, my younger daughter speaks French like a native (Junior year abroad) and my son is in an advanced fourth grade reading group. I read myself—'Electrical Wholesaling,' 'Blackwood's,' 'Lolita'..."

"Uh huh. We'll try a new category. Have you had some interesting travels?"

"That's my specialty. I drove my boy to Disneyland year before last (we camped out). On another trip, I drove my wife to Lake Patzcuaro in Mexico. (She's interested in crafts—President of the York Guild.) We've just bought a house in Santa Fe, N. M. ('35'ers welcome)."

(Frowns furrow the brows of the examiners, and they start to walk away. Seeing this, Turner runs after them frantically.)

"Wait—I've done some worthy things with my life—honest. I was the York March of Dimes chairman once; I'm on the Board of the Children's Home, I'm President of the Tuberculosis Society, I teach Sunday School, and I think my Princeton education was wonderful!"

(The inquisitors turn, hesitate, and confer among themselves. Finally, with much head-shaking, they take the proffered credentials and stamp them. Turner stares at the stamp: "Conditional Pass—Must improve status by 30th Reunion.")

"In addition, I find I am also kept quite busy as a Trustee of The Colorado College; Trustee, Fountain Valley School of Colorado; and Trustee and Member of the Executive Committee of the Cheyenne Mountain Museum and Zoological Society; and member of the Vestry of the Episcopal Church of Colorado Springs.

"I might also add that I am still a Republican.

"You can see from the above outside interests, that education is of tremendous interest to me personally and that I am working very hard to see that a couple of private institutions, one on the secondary school level and one on the college level, continue to prosper. In addition, a pet project is my work with the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, which is really fascinating.

"With regard to Princeton University, I am convinced that my education was most worthwhile and, even though I have not practiced engineering, my choice at college of engineering, with the liberal arts background, has been the best choice I could have made for my future work. Princeton today is continuing in a proper educational manner, but I hope they never overlook accepting some average students with good leadership potential, which students, in my opinion, have a better chance of being the leaders of tomorrow."

Jack writes: "Out in '35, but unlike my 581 classmates, without a degree; yet nonetheless grateful for four very happy years in Tigertown. Three years of post-graduate work, the first in the oldest recognized theological college at Oxford, England, which was sorely needed, with rigorous discipline, and the two final years at the Virginia Seminary. Seventeen years in the pastoral ministry about equally divided between Ellicott City, Maryland; Macon, Georgia; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Chattanooga, Tennessee. Was elected and duly consecrated in 1955 as a Bishop in the Episcopal Church, to function as a Suffragan, in which capacity we are now serving in our fifth year. Received Doctorates of Divinity from the University of the South and the Virginia Theological Seminary. (Strictly honorary, known as BBB, Bishops' Bread and Butter degree.) There is no vocation or life which offers more fruitful fun than that of the ministry.

"Married in 1940 to a grand gal and we have been blessed with four children as listed.

"As one grows older in the maturity of parenthood, one is convinced that the only two things which one may bequeath one's children are the exposure to a good education and the quality that is summed up in the word 'character.' In the last analysis there is in the inner sanctum a little picket fence which, no matter how anxious we are to breach, remains as a barrier between one soul and another. This means that each of us has only one person with whom he may completely live and that is one's self. Therefore, the broader an exposure to education and the arts the more readily one lives with himself.

"Secondly, in the use of the word 'character' we envision those qualities of sensitivity, compassion, understanding, courage and holy fear. Summed up, it might be expressed in the words of a popular song, 'You've got to have heart.'

"It is these two factors in the art of living that make the Church such an intriguing and fascinating way of life, for it is in and through the Church that we are given the definitive of all knowledge — the truth — and it is with this truth that we are granted the grace to develop some semblance of character."

Charlie writes: "Soon after I entered Princeton in 1931 my eyes began to give me trouble, and I spent most of my weekends visiting eye specialists who diagnosed my condition as simple eye-strain, aggravated by study but caused basically by scarlet fever sustained in my senior year at Montclair High School. Although they tried, the doctors were unable to help, and I was finally advised to leave Princeton before serious eye damage occurred. I left Princeton before the end of 1931 — the keenest disappointment I have suffered so far. I still think Princeton is 'the greatest,' and intend to send my son, George (aged 11) to Princeton if he can make the grade.

"After leaving college, I sold building materials for a firm in New Jersey, worked for Public Service in Newark, doing bus traffic surveys, and finally in 1942 landed a better job with the Western Electric Co. in Kearny, New Jersey. A year and one-half later I was transferred to company headquarters in New York City where I have held various positions. For the last 8 years I have been a representative of our Government Sales Organization, selling direct to U.S. Government agencies, principally to the Signal Corps in Philadelphia.

"Due to my short stay at Princeton I did not make any close friendships, and for that reason have not been back to a June reunion (other than as a spectator on Class Day), although I attended one class dinner at the Princeton Club in New York several years ago. However, I am going to make a serious effort to return for our 25th in June.

"My chief athletic interest is Princeton football. For the past several years my wife and I have managed to attend an average of five or six games per season. I have a Yale game record of which I am rather proud. Starting in 1923 at the Yale Bowl I have missed only 4 games."

"Princeton under inspired leadership with unparalleled Alumni support has achieved—and is enhancing—a position of pre-eminence in both undergraduate and selective graduate disciplines.

"As Class Agent, I have not only enjoyed the opportunity to follow developments, but also of witnessing the parallel evolution of an increasing acceptance of responsibility by the Class of 1935. A higher percentage of the Class each year is welcoming the privilege of being instrumental in maintaining Princeton's eminent position by providing the means to perpetuate and nourish the heritage which has been ours to enjoy these twenty-nine years.

David Ray, March 3, 1947

Ray writes: "Thankful for good preparatory training at Shadyside Academy here in Pittsburgh and a wholesome Liberal Arts Education at Princeton, I was accepted at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School graduating with a Doctor of Medicine Degree in 1939. After a year's internship in Pittsburgh, I was drafted early (being a Reserve Officer) and spent 5 years in active Military Service, being discharged as a Major M.C. in 1945. After a 2 years Residency in Internal Medicine at Allegheny General Hospital, I finally hung up my shingle in 1947 (12 long years after graduation from Princeton).

Since then, life has been an active one for me, involving long hours in my chosen profession. What with office hours 5 afternoons and 2 evenings a week, house calls in the mornings and often at night, free clinics and ward rounds at 3 hospitals, medical meetings that get more numerous each year, I must admit that I see far too little of my family.

"We belong to the University Club in Pittsburgh where I sometimes bowl and to Longue Vue Country Club where I occasionally play golf and swim in the pool. But most of all, I enjoy the wonderful food which has added inches to my girth.

"Mart and I have managed to get back to Princeton for at least one football game each year. I look forward to getting out of Pittsburgh for medical conventions as well as our vacations—we enjoy traveling and the family have toured Canada, New England, the South and the Far West during the past four summers.

"We often have Princeton Reunions in Pittsburgh, especially when the Tigers are on TV, and I see a great deal of many of our classmates, including Jack Propst, who is married to my younger sister. Sure hope to have additional excuses to get back to Tiger Town after 1965, if my boy can keep up his good grades."

"Since our graduation, a force most of us regarded in 1935 as an interesting social and economic experiment or a collection of persecuted non-conformists has conquered a billion people and proclaims its intention to conquer the rest of us. Still the free world tries to meet Communism's four-pronged attack (economic, political, military and ideological) with a three-pronged defense.

"We must, of course, mobilize all our economic, political and military strength; thank God for them. But Pentagon, State Department and diplomatic figures increasingly stress the need for America and the free world to mount an ideological offensive to answer the challenge of world Communism.

"These responsible people are joining men like Adenauer, Schuman, Archbishop Makarios, Prime Minister Kishi and the late President Magsaysay in appreciation for the contribution of Moral Re-Armament to arming the free world ideologically. They are making clear that the choice is not co-existence or war. In the words of our wartime Ambassador to Moscow, Admiral William H. Standley, the choice is Communism or Moral Re-Armament.

"This is the fight to which my Bostonian wife, Rosamond, and I are giving our lives. She came to it via Radcliffe College, I via graduate study in Geneva, work at the International Labor Office, in Massachusetts cotton mills and on Business Week magazine. We met in Switzerland, got really acquainted in Detroit and the MRA World Assembly at Mackinac Island, Michigan.

After our marriage in 1948, we went to Germany for the campaign which Adenauer and miners union and management leaders credit with saving the Ruhr from bolshevization. In 1955 I accompanied the MRA Statesmen's Ideological Mission through Asia and the Middle East."

"I got married within a week of graduation," Rollo writes, "and went to work for the Chemicals division of Union Carbide in Charleston, West Virginia, that same summer. In 1955, at which time I was Associate Director of Engineering for the Chemicals division, I moved to New York and took on a new assignment which involved spending most of my time scouting around in Europe looking into new technical developments (as well as some of an extracurricular nature). In 1956 I moved into a new division of the Corporation, Union Carbide Development Company, more or less taking this job with me. Although I enjoyed traveling around Europe immensely, I have gotten out of this particular activity during the past couple of years and am now engaged in investigating new inventions and technical developments in this country and exploring new businesses which Union Carbide might want to enter.

"I have been active in the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, of which I am currently serving as a Director. I have had a fair amount of contact with Princeton. For quite a few years I was a member of the Advisory Council to the Department of Chemical Engineering, and I used to visit Princeton quite regularly to interview students interested in jobs with Union Carbide. Some years ago I served a term as President of the Princeton Alumni Association of West Virginia, and am now serving as a member of the class Executive Committee.

"For the last four years I have been living in Darien, Connecticut, and am thus a New Haven commuter. No local activities worth mentioning, least of all those of an 'intellectual, artistic, religious, or political nature,' as it says in the questionnaire. Favorite pastimes of a reportable nature are swimming and travel."

Sam writes: "After Princeton, I spent four years as a reporter and re-write man on the New York Times. Then came three years in the retail business. I joined Young & Rubicam, the advertising agency, in 1942, but soon found myself wearing blue serge with j.g.'s collar bars. After some landlubber duty in Washington (lowest ebb of my life) I went out to the Pacific on the Yorktown. I served on Admiral Radford's staff, and after the Nips threw in the towel, I watched from a gun mount on the USS Missouri as they signed the treaty of surrender.

"Back to New York and Y&R, which I left years later to become a Vice President of McCann-Erickson. Five years ago I signed on with J. Walter Thompson. At the moment I supervise the preparation of advertising for Kodak, Thunderbird, Champion Spark Plugs, Lux and a number of other accounts.

"Hobbies? I used to play squash with a vengeance, but I now find that a little too brisk. I slash around the golf course on week-ends, and during the week I usually play a couple games of court tennis.

"Almost ten years ago the family conned me into moving from a comfortable New York apartment into the country, giving me the usual nonsense about how great it is to grow your own roses, walk your own acres and raise your own termites. So now five days a week I commute from Connecticut to Grand Central, loathing every mile of it.

"The week-ends are pleasant, however, and every winter we break the routine with a vacation in the Caribbean. Favorite spot: Ocho Rios.

"My wife, Ebie, is frequently involved in church (Unitarian) or college (Smith) affairs. My oldest daughter, Kathy, is at Dana Hall; Andy is at Fairfield Country Day, and Betsy is a scholar in the second grade at Coleytown School.

"Off and on, I've been active in Princeton doings. Currently, I'm serving on the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council."

Walt writes: "Since graduation, my life has followed two phases. For half the time I was in medicine, graduating from Harvard Medical School in 1940. There was some time out to cope with episodes of Tuberculosis with recuperation in Florida and Mexico. Return to work was in the Department of Pathology at University of Minnesota, the last three years being spent in charge of the surgical pathology laboratory on Dr. Wagensteen's surgical service. My association with the young surgeons who spent three to six months in my laboratory was an unforgettable experience, as was my role as a member of the medical team. After an interlude of several years I entered the world of business and community service which I have found challenging and stimulating. My current business interests involve being officer of a timber cooperative which manages a half million acres in California necessitating several trips each year to San Francisco and the mountains; being director of a dynamically growing investment company which undertakes local underwritings, manages an open end common stocks fund, offers management and specialized brokerage services; being an officer of three small real estate companies dealing chiefly in commercial properties; being on a bank advisory committee.

"Community service includes Chairman of the 1958 Community Chest Special Gifts Division which raised about half of the total campaign quota; Trustee and officer of two charitable foundations, one a general philanthropic organization, the other supporting the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis; member of the Walker Art Center Board which operates the museum; co-organizer and co-chairman of the first Conference of Foundations in Minnesota; Y.M.C.A. Board; Northwestern Hospital Mens Advisory Committee, and Education and Research Committee Member; Childrens Hospital Advisory Board and building committee member; Budget and Distribution Committee of the Community Council; Health, Hospitals & Welfare Committee, Citizens League. These interests parallel those of my wife who is an outstanding community leader in the hospital, health medical education, and geriatrics fields. She recently completed a three year term as President of Northwestern Hospital Board, one of the few hospitals in the country run by a women's board.

"If my educational experiences, including Princeton and the field of medicine, have contributed towards a personal philosophy it is this: Human life and personality are the basic values. Human effort directed toward preserving and developing these is worth while. A life spent in business or the professions thus oriented is one of service. All things then come to such a one."

"After graduation in June '35 I joined the Newark Evening News and stayed with the paper until the war. I spent most of this time selling advertising space. I enjoyed this period, but frankly made relatively little progress in most respects.

"Probably the major reason for this was a happy carefree bachelorhood of some five years duration. In October 1940, I exchanged this happy state for an even happier existence by marrying Mary Elizabeth Fenrich of South Orange. We have been blessed by three charming offspring, not eligible for Princeton, but, otherwise, even a modest father like myself must admit their superlative qualities.

"I served as a Lt. (jg) in the Navy during the war, mostly on an ocean going tug in the North Atlantic. Aside from the Normandy invasion on D Day, this was a fairly uneventful and generally boring period. Oh yes, I had the unusual experience of again being an undergraduate of sorts at Princeton, since I did my '60 day wonder' stint there.

After the war I joined Ciba Pharmaceutical Products Inc. in Summit, New Jersey and, since 1950, have been Director of Marketing Research. I enjoy my work thoroughly, especially since Ciba is a Swiss concern and occasional trips to Europe are a 'necessity.'

"After four years in Chatham, New Jersey, we moved to Berkeley Heights, New Jersey where we have lived happily for the past ten years. The entire family has been very active in church, school, and community activities. Mine include serving as Chairman of the Board of Stewards of our Church and a term as President of our local Board of Health. Main social interests include bridge, fishing, most sports, most parties, and summers at the Jersey shore.

"It has been easy to participate actively in Princeton affairs because of constant proximity to Princeton. I've missed only one Reunion, served on the 20th Reunion Committee, and have the dubious distinction of being Chairman of our 25th. I've also been able to attend most Class dinners and quite a few local alumni affairs. Among the happiest memories is attendance at most home games at Palmer Stadium.

"All in all it has been a pretty good life, largely due to a fortunate choice back in 1940."

Bob writes: "Variety does not always provide the spice. During the last twenty-five years I have had but one employer, one wife, the three children are all girls, and I wouldn't for the world change any of it. To avoid monotony, the one employer, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, has had me in Minneapolis, the Dakotas, Duluth, Pittsburgh and Detroit, and Uncle Sam saw fit to arrange for Fort Sill, various way stations in California and Texas and a brief glimpse of Europe with the 13th Armored Division. For that I have a certificate to show that I am a retired Lt. Colonel.

Detroit has been home now since 1950. Outside of the business there has been time for United Foundation activity, Boy Scout work on the Executive Board of the Detroit Area Council, Board membership at Brookside School Cranbrook and the Society of Arts and Crafts of Detroit and weekend golfing, which shows more enthusiasm than skill. Three daughters, and reading in bed should be classed as major hobbies, even though there is inadequate time for either.

"Activities for the Princeton Club of Michigan include membership on the Board plus two years as Annual Giving Chairman for the Detroit Region. Participation in the Princeton in Michigan Conference (April 1958) has made me even prouder of being a graduate and convinced that Princeton's pursuit of excellence is the answer to the encroaching mediocrity of education generally.

"It has been a fast but eminently satisfactory twenty-five years. With a lovely wife and three daughters to spoil me, a job that is fun, fair, and a still concealable figure, I must be counted as among the happiest of men.

Wendy, September 30, 1948

Chick writes: "In June 1935 I started a training course with the Insurance Company of North America which led to an apprenticeship in practically all phases of the business. In 1946 the brokerage firm of Knox, Weaver & Co., Inc. was formed, my partners being R. U. Knox and Arthur Knox, Jr. '31. We have a well-rounded organization and are proud of a record of growth each year.

"My main interest aside from family and business is golf. I'm having trouble keeping a handicap of 6, but enjoy it thoroughly.

"Some years ago I discovered Captiva Island, off the Gulf Coast of Florida. My family has been vacationing there almost every winter since. Finally succumbed and bought property there where we plan to build.

"Wouldn't swap my years at Princeton for anything. Hope to re-live a few experiences at our 25th — just a few."

Children: Katherine, January 8, 1941

Dorothy, March 12, 1944

Jean, January 31, 1953

Norman, Jr., March 27, 1955

"Having majored in geology," Norm writes, "it seemed very natural to begin work in a bank and shortly after graduation, I began to hang my hat every morning at the Guaranty Trust Company in New York. Having no money of my own, it also followed that I should attempt to tell people who were more fortunate than I how to invest their wealth and my career at the Guaranty was spent analyzing securities.

"A bachelor's existence gradually began to lose its charm and after a tough struggle, I finally convinced one of Duke Medina's ('12) five daughters to share my worldly possessions and we were married in Brooklyn on October 7, 1939. As my illustrious father-in-law had sired five girls, I felt that I was hexed from the start and I was convinced of it when our first child, a daughter, naturally, Kathy by name, was born in January, 1941. She was followed by daughter number two, Dorothy, in March, 1944.

"Being a Southerner by birth and by inclination, I jumped at the chance to return to Dixie when Uncle Sam turned me down and I left New York on May 1, 1944 to join the Trust Company of Georgia in Atlanta, Georgia, where I have been employed ever since. My work has continued solely on investments and at present, I am a Vice President in charge of the Investment Analysis Department of the Trust Company.

"In 1953, our third daughter, Jean, arrived and just when I was certain that it was impossible to produce a son, Norman, Jr. entered the world in 1955. Having achieved this goal, I hope that my bows and arrows have been laid aside permanently.

"The Nassau Herald listed my religious and political affiliations as Episcopalian and Democrat. I continue a staunch member of the former, but I am glad to report that after four terms of the New Deal, I have become an ardent Republican even though this connection presents complications in the heavily Democratic heart of Georgia. My former interest in gardening and bridge have gone by the boards since I joined the growing number of boating enthusiasts and at present all of my spare time seems to be spent on learning what makes an outboard motor tick and on how to water ski."

Sam Welles

Journalist and Author

Home: 247 Cliff Avenue, Pelham, N. Y. Tel. Pelham 8-4848

Business: Time Inc., Time and Life Building, Rockefeller Center, New York 20, N. Y.

Married: Margery Miller, June 14, 1955

Jonathan Sprague, July 1, 1958

Sam writes: "The years 1935-38 were spent both memorably and delightfully in Europe on a Rhodes scholarship. Altogether, I have spent more than ten years outside the United States since graduation, ranging from the Yukon to Saudi Arabia and from Russia to Singapore. Besides posing as a student (a B.A. and M.A. in modern history from Oxford), I have posed as a diplomat (a wartime aide to U.S. Ambassador John G. Winant in London), author (Profile of Europe), and editor (The World's Great Religions, a book of many colors, part of my preparation for which was walking about in Burma like a barefoot Buddhist monk).

"But mostly I have posed as a journalist. After I wrote two trial articles for it in the fall of 1938, Fortune hired me—and several months later fired me. Luckily it was a genteel sort of firing, in which the managing editor said I didn't suit him but might suit Time or Life. The latter have stayed more or less content with me ever since. Between 1939 and 1955 I wrote and corresponded for almost every section in Time. Since 1955 I have had various posts on Life, for the last three years as senior editor in charge of its Manners & Morals department, which has a bit of everything in it from literature to sex. Recently, for instance, my job gave me a chance to deliver the commencement address at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary.

"My life has had some pattern in its diversity because I long ago decided never to accept any assignment I couldn't both: (1) enjoy and (2) be seriously interested in doing. Princeton certainly helped me form this sound philosophy, and I think Princeton provides a wonderful education for those who will go at least half the way to meet it.

"The best thing that has ever happened to me was meeting Margery Miller on the morning of December 14, 1954. We were soon wed. Life with her has amply made up for my having to wait until I was nearly 42 to marry; our two little boys have given us much added joy. The first is named Henry Page, after 1935's finest member — our Pyne Prize winner — who was killed by a Japanese suicide pilot in 1945. Two other classmates who are especially close are my ex-roommate Brooke Alexander and my brother-in-law Charlie Owen. Brooke and Charlie each made me godfather to his first-born, and to see the members of the next generation thriving, as these two are, gives me added zest for the present and added hope for the future."

Anne Porter, April 7, 1951

"My first job," Pete writes, "was in a coke plant on the Jersey flats, hot and dirty but made more than bearable by weekends at Rocco Osborne's. After a year of teaching French at the Episcopal High School in Virginia, then three rugged but pleasant years at Harvard Law, leading to a job with a Philadelphia law firm whose partners were (and are) much interested in civic affairs and government service.

"More than four years in the Navy, mostly in the Pacific with a lovely side trip around Australia to Ceylon, and a good view of most of the major battles in that theatre. Came out a Lieutenant Commander with a Bronze Star.

Five years of law practice — the trial side — meanwhile developing an interest in civic and charitable enterprises. In 1950 I was invited to join the old and honorable banking establishment which has supported my family ever since. Somehow, I've been involved in numerous non-paying activities such as the Children's Aid Society, the Health and Welfare Council and the Philadelphia General Hospital — to name those which have taken most of the time to which my employer and my family were entitled. Greatest compensation by far was from the Class in 1955.

"The really creative person in the family is Lollie, who paints and keeps our children happy. Some day I shall retire and vend her pictures.

"Princeton's growth and development since the War have strengthened its tradition of service to the community and the nation."

Mary A., October 19, 1944

From Bob: "Main Interests: Outside of my attractive and intelligent family my principal interest is Behavioral Science. It is only through better understanding of ourselves that we can hope to come out of these times with a bright future. It is my belief that a break-through comparable to the Theory of Relativity in Physics is near in the Behavioral Science field. I can wish nothing better for anyone. I am interested also in astrophysical philosophy; have a slowly growing collection of oil and water color paintings; water skiing and mountain climbing are my sports.

Career: Since leaving Princeton I have collected two MA's (Tufts and Harvard) and a Ph.D. (Harvard), all in economics. I have taught at Harvard, Rutgers, Tufts and Bates; have given lectures at Princeton, Mt. Holyoke, Harvard and University of California among other places; worked at OPA, OPS, and National War Labor Board during the two wars. Now I am Head of the Rubber Heel and Sole Institute and Business Manager of the Physics Department at Princeton.

"Religion: Elder in Presbyterian Church, on Board of Directors of (NJ) Synod Homes for the Aged.

"Philanthropy: Member Board of Directors of Fund for the Behavioral Sciences (Mental Health Research Institute, Michigan University); Vice President, Middlesex County Mental Health Association.

"Business: Member, Board of Directors, Hamner Electronics Corp.; Sometime Secretary Forecasters' Club of New York City — a business forecast group.

"Wife: My wife is or has been a leader in High School PTA, Raritan Valley Council of Girl Scouts, American Field Service High School International Student Exchange Program, and Mt. Holyoke Fund Drive.

"Princeton: Headed New Brunswick area Princeton fund drive, in addition to above.

"Princeton's Worth: Princeton awoke me to the realities and richness of life. Princeton was and is invaluable to me. In an era of growing governmental control, it is absolutely vital to keep Princeton independent and strong, whether or not we agree with everything which (we think) goes on in the University. She is great now, let us make her greater.

"Philosophy of Life: My drive is to create a healthier, happier, more creative, individualistic life for all humans and to ward off 1984. I have seen and, to some extent, lived through the damage which ignorance, hatreds and narrowness of thinking, religious and otherwise, can do to the human. These are man-made. What we need to do is to search for truths, including relativistic truths, in nature — physical, chemical, biological, artistic, moral, behavioral — and then apply them in a constructive, creative, individualistic way. Man can do this. Man must if he wishes to survive. I believe that he will."

Married: Marjorie Brainard, May 5, 1940

Children: Eugene C., III, August 5, 1941

Brooke, July 7, 1943

Lynne, July 7, 1943

"My life seems to be wrapped up in my family and business interests," Gene writes. "In my spare time at home I seem forever to have countless projects in the house or on the grounds; this supplies my relaxation and sore muscles!

"My business as Publisher of Russell Law List gets me around considerably and in 1957 took Midge and me to Europe for seven hectic but wonderful weeks. I called on our correspondent attorneys in nearly a hundred towns and cities, mostly in the British Isles. Ireland was our favorite. Also stops in Paris, Geneva, Milan, Rome, Barcelona and Lisbon.

"For some years I have also been associated with Takamine Overseas, Inc., a company doing business with Japan; am a Director and Executive Vice President. In 1951 was sent to Japan for seven weeks.

"Besides the children our household consists of eight house pets,—four cats and four dogs, three of the latter being bassets.

"Am currently President of The Gun-nery Alumni Association and a Trustee. This work is most interesting and at times exciting, what with new property acquisitions, the inevitable capital funds drive, etc.

"My pet peeve, since you ask, is TAXES!

"In spite of my brief career at Princeton I have always treasured my association with it and am a loyal and ardent supporter. In my meanderings I have had many opportunities to see the outstanding results of a Princeton education and I am firmly convinced we can continue to look to Old Nassau for nothing but the best.

"Incidentally, in 1934 I worked my way around the world on a freighter as a seaman. A most wonderful experience. In 1936 I was sent abroad for the Russell Law List,—also mostly the British Isles with short stops in France, Holland and Belgium."

Richard Rohr Zundel

Purchasing—Stores Representative

Home: Plainfield Road, Metuchen, N. J. Tel. Liberty 8-0982

Business: Shell Oil Company, 4 West 58th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

Married: Kathryn Kemp, March 7, 1943

"In July 1935," Dick writes, "never having been west of Philadelphia, I went to St. Louis equipped with one diploma, attesting to Chemical Engineering and one job with Shell Oil Company. I was sent forthwith to the Norco Refinery, just north of New Orleans where there were no classmates. In April 1937, equipped with a little experience and twenty pounds less weight, I was transferred to the Wood River Illinois Refinery. It's across the Mississippi from St. Louis and there were three classmates in the area. In November 1940, equipped with a Ford and ten pounds more weight, I was transferred to New York where there were lots of classmates.

"In February 1942 I found the girl. In March 1943 she, Kathryn Kemp, Smith College, Class of 1935 (of course), agreed to marry me. Although she was a promising business woman and I thought, capable of making academic my former interest in making a living, she promptly retired from business and became the main interest wrapped in a pink cloud that still glows.

"After a year and a half of cliff-dwelling in Manhattan, we came out here to Metuchen for the green-grass-commuting routine. We are not blessed with children so Kathryn has been busy, among other things, putting up with me, running her 20th Reunion at Smith and being Staff Aide Chairman and a Director of Red Cross. I've been working for Shell Oil in New York but instead of Research and Development, in Purchasing-Stores since 1947. Recently we've been having some extensive business trips around the country. Among other things, I've been President of The Pumptown Civic Group 1947-48, The United Civic League of North Edison Township 1949-50, the Lawrenceville Alumni Association 1953-54 and have been a Trustee of Cannon Club since 1951."
